More Troops Rushed To Vietnam by U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is rushing about 10,500 additional army and marine ground combat troops to South Vietnam "for insurance purposes", the defence department announced today.

Assistant Defence Secretary Phil G. Goulding told reporters: "In compliance with Gen. William C. Westmoreland's request we are deploying approximately 10,500 additional troops to South Vietnam."

Asked what the phrase "insurance purposes" referred to, Goulding said, "the enemy that he faces," meaning North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops confronting the U.S. command around the marine stronghold of Khe Sanh in northwest South Vietnam and all across the country, racked by a recent Viet Cong offensive against cities.

He said the deployment does not necessarily mean that the United States is increasing the present authorized U.S. strength of 525,000 men.

AWAITS EVALUATION

He indicated that a decision on whether to increase the ceiling awaits a "full evaluation" of recent events in Vietnam.

He also said that no decision has been made on calling up any national guard or reserve ground troops to fill the holes left by the departure of the combat reinforcements of the regular army and marine forces.

"I'm willing to say it's a speed-up" of the planned deployments, Goulding said.

He indicated that at least some of the units now being shipped to Vietnam were not in the original package under the planned build-up to 525,000 men by mid-summer.

Earlier Johnson had said that despite the massive Viet Cong offensive, he would halt bombing of North Vietnam, start peace talks tomorrow and let the Communists "write the agenda"—if Hanoi doesn't try a doublecross.

This was Johnson's off-the-cuff reaction Monday when one of 11 college student visitors at the White House argued that campus anti-war demonstrators "are not just the unwashed" but include brilliant young people.

Gap Narrow On Viet —Wilson

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the House of Commons today that only "a very narrow gap" remains to be bridged between the United States and North Vietnam to get peace talks started.

The British prime minister faced a series of parliamentary questions about his recent talks in Washington with President Johnson.

He noted that he had just conferred with Thant over lunch and said:

"There is a very narrow gap to be bridged now — very narrow indeed."

He said this slowly and with great emphasis.

Thant arrived Monday from Moscow where he discussed Vietnam with the three top Soviet leaders: Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev, Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny.

It was recalled that Wilson used virtually the same phrase when he returned from talks in Moscow last month.

N. Viets Repel Marines in Hue

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese marines launched a ground assault against strong North Vietnamese forces inside the walled citadel at Hue today, but heavy small-arms, machine-gun and rocket fire drove them back.

The North Vietnamese troops fought from gunpits burrowed deep inside the grimy black stone walls of the inner citadel in the former imperial capital 400 miles northeast of Saigon.

More than 1,000 U.S. marines and South Vietnamese troops were tightening the vise beside the north bank of the Perfume River. On the south bank, in Hue's modern quarter the Americans had regained control, and the population crept out of refugee camps and shell-marked homes to bury the dead in hastily dug graves.

Spokesmen for the combined U.S.-South Vietnamese forces said that the 14 days of fighting in Hue have cost the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong 2,303 dead, about half of them inside the citadel. South Vietnamese casualties were reported moderate, meaning the government force was hard hit. There was no announcement of U.S. casualties.

Hue is the last of 35 South Vietnam cities and towns where Viet Cong or North Vietnamese forces are still fighting as organized units two weeks after the start of their biggest offensive of the war. It has cost them, by government count, 32,245 men killed, or more than half of the 60,000 troops U.S. officers believe they committed to the offensive.

ALLIED JET DOWNED

Military spokesmen said the North Vietnamese Monday shot down a South Vietnamese Air Force A-1 Skyrider bombing and strafing the citadel.

Banks Boost Rate

TORONTO (CP) — The Royal Bank of Canada and the Bank of Nova Scotia announced today they have raised the minimum lending rate to 7 per cent from 6½.

Ultimatum to North Proposed by S. Korea

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park is asking the U.S. government to tell North Korea it will denounce the 1953 armistice agreement if the North Koreans send down any more raiders like the team that tried to assassinate Park, informed sources reported today.

Park in his talks with Cyrus Vance, a special envoy from President Johnson, was also reported trying to get the United States to demand that North Korea apologize for the assassination attempt Jan. 21.

Vance had been scheduled to return to Washington today but delayed his departure until Wednesday.

Vance and Park met for three hours Monday, and Vance met with other South Korean officials today in the office of Premier Chung Il-kwon.

One informed Korean source said "very little progress" seemed to have been made toward healing the rift arising from South Korean feelings that the United States, in its desire to secure the release of the USS Pueblo and its crew, is not paying sufficient attention to South Korean security.

Peace Talks Hopes Rise As Thant Flies to Paris

LONDON (UPI) — UN Secretary General Than today postponed his return to New York, to fly to Paris Wednesday, reportedly to talk to North Vietnamese or Viet Cong officials on his peace probe.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson said the gap between U.S. and North Vietnamese positions was "very narrow" but "difficult."

It was not known immediately if he had requested a conference with President Charles de Gaulle or Vietnamese Communists in what will be the fourth nation of his global peace journey.

The diplomat's luggage already was on the New York-bound airliner when an order came to return it to his hotel.

The sudden move by the UN secretary general prompted a flurry of speculation in diplomatic quarters that some progress had been made to bring the warring sides together.

New Labor Peace Plan Urged in B.C. Report

Spending Bad Advice, CLC Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told a Canadian Labor Congress delegation today that its proposals for government stimulation of the economy are "the wrong kind of advice" in the current financial situation.

He also rejected the accusation in a CLC brief to the cabinet that federal policies of recent months appear designed to satisfy the "rich and powerful" at the cost of higher unemployment.

Mr. Pearson and Donald MacDonald, acting president of the 1,500,000-member labor body, staged what amounted to an economic debate during the CLC's annual presentation to the government.

The CLC said tax increases and cutbacks in federal programs are slowing down the economy at a time when it required the stimulus of more spending by consumers and governments.

The prime minister in his reply said it would be wrong to stimulate an economy that is operating close to full capacity. This would lead to larger deficits, higher taxes and higher costs.

Mr. MacDonald said unemployment last year was the highest since 1964 because of an economic slowdown.

"I have not read an economist in recent months who has not agreed that unemployment will soar in 1968," he added. It probably would reach five per cent or more.

Mr. Pearson said the problem now is to maintain steady, sustainable growth and check inflation. Unless the rise in prices was halted, Canada's competitive position in the world could be destroyed. This could lead to a serious recession with much unemployment.

ECONOMY ON TRIAL

Finance Minister Sharp, one of 16 cabinet members on hand for the CLC presentation, warned that the Canadian economy and the Canadian dollar now are "on trial" in the world market.

The economy had to maintain a good performance, with higher productivity, in the face of a "difficult and dangerous" world economic situation.

Mr. Sharp said growth cannot be achieved by fiscal and monetary policy alone. Some "supplementary action" was essential.

Although the government rejected the idea of wage guidelines, he said it was anxious to discuss an "incomes policy" with the CLC and other organizations.

The CLC brief, read in summary by Mr. MacDonald

Nemetz Drafts Swedish Ideas

By BRUCE YEMEN

Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz today offered a five-part prescription for British Columbia labor ills but warned it is no cure-all.

Reporting on his study of Swedish labor laws and practices, he hoped for the day when "it is possible for labor and management to institute central bargaining in British Columbia and take into account not only the welfare of the parties but the economy as a whole".

The report was released by Labor Minister Peterson who last year commissioned the B.C. Supreme Court justice to study the Swedish system.

The jurist spent a month in Sweden.

He recommended these major proposals for labor peace in the private sector:

- Strengthen the existing provincial labor-management committee and vastly increase labor-management links at all levels;
- Create an independent research institute to provide economic statistics and eliminate arguments over measurable facts;
- Improve the machinery for settling disputes arising out of interpretation of collective agreements—as a first step toward a labor court and a body of public labor law;
- Recruit a special group of high-talent, highly-paid mediators to eliminate the present ad hoc conciliation boards and head off disputes at an early stage;
- Appoint a high-calibre, permanent industrial inquiry commission separate from the Labor Relations Board and equip it with the staff needed to supervise the high-powered mediation service.

In the public sector, Mr. Justice Nemetz recommended that present machinery for settling disputes directly affecting the public interest should continue with increased emphasis on finding highly qualified and experienced chairmen for the conciliation boards with binding powers.

New Labor Laws Promised

A panel of prospective chairmen could be created to provide an immediate alternative if the parties fail to agree on a nominee, he said. The industrial inquiry commission could appoint such chairmen.

Labor Minister Peterson on Feb. 1 promised the legislature sweeping new legislation to inject the public interest as a third party in labor-management disputes in an effort to control inflation.

In his report Mr. Justice Nemetz said he was adapting several ideas from the highly regarded Swedish system but he prefaced his proposals by "regretfully" offering the view that labor peace in Sweden is a product of a distinctive social climate and not the result of dispute-settling machinery.

He said the machinery reflected the social climate—a climate with no parallels in North America in general and B.C. in particular.

"Obviously, such a system cannot readily be transposed to a foreign soil," he said.

A labor-management "detente" is needed before enduring industrial peace can be expected here, he said, pointing out that such a detente was reached 30 years ago in Sweden.

Quick Solution Ruled Out

"The goal of attaining industrial peace cannot be achieved overnight," he said. "Many steps will have to be taken by government, many links created between management and labor before a climate of mutual respect and confidence can be created."

He said he had indicated only a few of the necessary steps and links.

Mr. Justice Nemetz said Canada finds itself between the extremes of Sweden's non-intervention and Australia's compulsion in settling labor disputes.

He said there is room for "an effective middle way," providing labor and management showed willingness to make the system work.

"The existing joint committee of labor and management leaders should carry on year-round discussions concerning matters of mutual interest, such as automation, job evaluation, full economic use of plant and equipment.

"These subjects are best discussed in an unhurried atmosphere and not at the time of negotiating the collective agreement.

"The committee should sponsor the creation of joint councils at regional and plant levels where discussion could take place concerning production

HOT RUNNERS BRING THREAT OF WALKOUT

VILLARD DE LANS, France (UPI)—The United States and five other nations threatened today to walk out of Olympics luge competition unless East Germany is barred from the event.

The bitter dispute erupted after the three top East German women in the event — including defending champion Ortrun Enderlein — were disqualified for illegally heating the runners of their sleds.

FEW ANSWERS

Medicare! What's That?

The big question in British Columbia government circles today is "What is medicare?"

Everyone knows Premier Bennett has said this province would join in a federal medicare plan July 1.

And everyone knows that Prime Minister Pearson has stated the federal medicare plan will go ahead on that date.

But try to find anyone under the premier in government to explain what medicare will mean to a B.C. resident. You don't get evasion. You get a straight "I don't know."

As of July will any B.C. resident be able to go to any doctor for treatment without fee? Will he pay a form of co-insurance?

Will government decree set the scale of payments the government will pay to doctors? Will special taxes be introduced to cover the cost?

GUIDELINES

We know the original federal government guidelines as laid down by Prime Minister Pearson and Health Minister MacEachen:

The federal government would pay half the national average per capita cost to qualified provincial plans. To qualify the province must meet four conditions.

Benefits must be portable from province to province. (That's already scuttled because only Saskatchewan and B.C. at this time have indicated they will join.)

Each provincial plan must at least insure the cost of all physicians' services.

A provincial plan must cover 90 per cent of the province's population at the start, rising to 95 per cent in three years.

And the plan must be operated by a non-profit agency of the provincial government whose books are open to public audit.

NO PREMIUMS

Prime Minister Pearson has indicated there would be no premiums, the plan must be paid for.

Premier Bennett muddied the waters last Jan. 16 when he said it's a possibility that the medicare plan would not put existing private medical schemes (such as MSA and CU and C) out of business.

N.S. Hovers On the Brink Of 'Fedicare'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least one province will review its stand on medical care insurance in light of Prime Minister Pearson's announcement Monday night that the federal government will go ahead with its program as scheduled July 1.

Health Minister R. A. Donahoe of Nova Scotia said his province has made no final decision on medical care insurance but the plan would be costly if only one or two provinces participated.

In Ontario, the provincial government stand was unchanged. Premier John Robarts said, "I have made my position very clear . . . and it won't in any way be changed by this decision."

The Ontario premier said last month that Ontario will not participate in the scheme for at least a year after its implementation this July.

SASK. IS HAPPY

In Saskatchewan, Deputy Premier D. G. Steuart described the decision as a "good thing."

"It will be a great help to Saskatchewan's budget," said Mr. Steuart, also provincial treasurer, in an interview.

He estimated the province would net approximately $10,000,000 in federal payments.

Saskatchewan will have to make certain housekeeping adjustments in its own six-year-old medical care plan, said Mr. Steuart, but these would all be of a minor nature.

The deputy premier predicted British Columbia and possibly New Brunswick would join Saskatchewan in adopting "fedicare," as all provinces eventually would.

Opposition Leader Woodrow Lloyd said he was happy the

Report Studied By Labor Chief

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today said the Nemetz Report is very interesting but he refused to say whether it will influence government legislation.

He told reporters Mr. Justice Nemetz's recommendations "are of interest to me" although he stressed the Swedish system of labor relations could not be transplanted.

"Nevertheless, his recommendations are significant and will be considered carefully."

Mr. Peterson declined to say when the promised legislation on revamping the province's industrial relations law will be introduced and he insisted that its preparation began before the Nemetz Report was received.

Mr. Justice Nemetz was sent to Sweden, Geneva and California last summer by the labor department to conduct a survey of the Swedish labor system. Mr. Peterson said he has not discussed the matter with Mr. Justice Nemetz since his return and received the report only a few days ago.

STATEMENT PLANNED THURSDAY

Gaglardi to Explain All, Says Bennett, After Talk

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

The controversy surrounding Highways Minister Gaglardi's handling of highway access applications is expected to escalate into a verbal slugging match in the legislature this week.

Mr. Gaglardi, after a 15-minute private meeting in Premier Bennett's office Monday, said he will answer allegations of improper conduct Thursday during a speech in the budget debate.

"The whole province will be watching the minister of highways when he speaks in the House on Thursday," Mr. Bennett added.

Asked if the government would launch an official inquiry into the controversy, Mr. Bennett said "if anyone makes a charge."

He denied that he summoned Mr. Gaglardi to his office for explanations of how a highways foreman came to paint an advertising sign for a company involved in the controversy.

"I've never had any of my ministers on the carpet," he said.

Mr. Gaglardi told reporters that he expects opposition MLAs to try to keep the controversy going by making further charges.

MORE EXAMPLES

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East), who raised the issue in the legislature last week when he accused the highways' department of mismanagement, said earlier that he will cite more examples to back his contntion.

His original statement suggested favoritism was shown Del Cielo Investments which bought 300 acres adjoining the Merritt-Kamloops highway junction from an estate in which Mr. Gaglardi was executor.

He said the company was given access approval by the department after it had begun working the property. He also quoted a report that Mr. Gaglardi's 24-year-old son Bill was an official of the company but this was denied later by the minister.

Premier Bennett's interest in the situation became apparent when he had lunch Monday with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell followed by his meet-plans and technique in the particular industries."

He said the independent research institute should provide frequent reports on the economic state of the province and provide necessary statistical data for disputing parties.

"Obviously such a body should obtain the services of highly qualified economists and statisticians whose objective surveys would be made public before the travail of negotiations begins in the key industries of the province," he said.

The lack of "mutually acceptable statistics" in labor disputes is a "serious handicap not only for the parties and inquiry commissioners but for the citizens of the province," he added.

The Vancouver justice said there is a constitutional problem in Canada which must be overcome before a labor court could be set up but that a start of a body of public labor law and precedent could be made.

"Parties to an interpretation dispute (on an existing agreement) could either appoint their own chairman at their own expense or have the chairman appointed from a panel of prospective chairmen at government expense.

"Under the latter system the reports would become available to the public and a body of labor law might start to accumulate."

He also recommended a study be made toward instituting some of the functions of the Swedish labor tribunal which is state-provided and gives continuity of decision-making.

Mr. Justice Nemetz said the proposed group of highly-qualified mediators should be used only in major disputes in either the public or private sector.

They could be appointed at any stage in disputes and in place of a conciliation officer "where the circumstances so warranted."

He said the industrial inquiry commission should have a chairman and three other members sitting either singly or in groups of three.

Special Probe in Crisis Hit

"I have in mind the elimination of the practice of appointing a special inquiry commissioner who is called into service in crisis situations and must first spend considerable time absorbing technical data in reference to the dispute before him."

He said the Labor Relations Board should continue to operate within its own spehere of reference while the new commission would handle cases referred by the department of labor.

"It goes without saying that the success of such a commission would depend on the calibre of its members. The acceptance of such reports would depend on the respect that such persons could command in the community."

Mr. Justice Nemetz said he was impressed by four aspects of the Swedish system:

FOUR ASPECTS

1. The excellent central bargaining procedure making use of a "framework agreement" negotiated for set periods between the national Confederation of Trade Unions and the Confederation of Employers.

2. The existence of a number of highly qualified economic research centres, including the independent National Institute of Economic Research.

3. The existence of a group of professional mediators who command national and international respect.

4. The success of the Swedish Labor Court which has contributed substantially to labor peace for more than 30 years.

He said one important difference between B.C. and Sweden is the dual system of dealing with labor disputes here, depending on whether they are in the private or public sector of the economy.

"By and large, in my opinion, this system (of binding ad hoc conciliation boards) has performed satisfactorily and is a viable means of dealing with problems which directly affect the public interest.

"In this we have an advantage over the Swedish organization which has not been able to deal readily with disputes of this kind."

VIABLE MEANS

The right to strike and lock out where contract formation is involved is universal in Sweden, he said. The right extends to police, fire, utility and hospital workers and was granted to civil servants in 1966.

He said that some of his hosts in Sweden were curious about the B.C. method of dealing with "public interest" disputes. There was a teachers' strike in Sweden in 1966 which closed down many schools.

"It would of course be as difficult for Sweden to implement our system in this area as it would be for us to accept theirs."

One significant difference between the wage pattern in B.C. and Sweden is the extensive use of piece work rates in Sweden where over two-thirds of man-hours are paid on an output basis, he said.

The piece work rates are usually added to a basic hourly rate, he said.

As labor union membership is almost universal in Sweden the closed shop is rare, he said, adding that the Swedish labor force is one of the most highly organized in the world. A strong employers' organization provides a general balance of power, he said.

Mr. Justice Nemetz said the distinctive social climate of Sweden favoring labor peace was an outgrowth of several factors.

"Sweden has enjoyed uninterrupted peace for 150 years. During that period it has maintained a homogenity of population whose desire for peace and respect for law are hallmarks in national and international studies.

"Isolated from the centres of European population, Sweden has bred in its people a co-operative attitude which has resulted in organizational ability which is exemplified in their employer and labor structures."

federal government "has chosen to stick by its guns."

Mr. Lloyd in 1962 led the CCF government in Saskatchewan that introduced the first compulsory, government-run medical care plan in North America.

"This makes it possible for the provincial government either to reduce the premium costs or to extend some benefits or perhaps do something of both," Mr. Lloyd said.

Premier Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan, at home with a slight case of influenza, said earlier this year he favored postponement of the federal plan.

SEE DOCTOR SHORTAGE

Dr. Normand J. Belliveau, president of the Canadian Medical Association, said implementation of the federal program may result in a shortage of doctors.

He told the Canadian Lumbermen's Association Monday that "the federal government's proposed medicare program will exaggerate existing problems of medical manpower." He called the current shortage of doctors and other medical personnel "the main obstacle to the supply of good medical care to all Canadians."

Mr. Donahoe said the Nova Scotia government does not welcome the prime minister's announcement "when it is coupled with the news that only one or two provinces will take part because we know this will multiply and aggravate our problems."

He said the province has been "stymied" because the federal government still had not made decisions on some questions and had not advised what statistics will be needed.

'Secret Data' Found on Ship N. Korea Says

TOKYO (CP) — North Korea said today it seized "top secret documents" and other espionage data following capture last month of the U.S. intelligence ship Pueblo.

The official North Korean news agency, monitored here, said "found on board the captured Pueblo were top secret documents and secret papers, various records, photographs and many other espionage data of the U.S. imperialist aggression army with regard to their espionage activities against the Democratic Peoples Republic of Korea and other socialist countries."

The statement made no mention of a secret coding machine aboard the Pueblo which U.S. Navy sources in Washington said the crew destroyed before the vessel was captured off North Korea waters.

North Korea also said the operations of the Pueblo were "part of premeditated aggressive manoeuvrings of U.S. imperialism for a new war in Korea and Asia."

. . . 'MEDICARE'

The question arises, if the province is going to offer medical care without a fee, why would anyone pay a fee to a private plan?

If the premier plans to charge a fee, how can he join the federal scheme which has been described as free of fees?

PRIVATE PLANS

Perhaps he proposes to make the non-profit private plans into "carriers" of the public scheme, in effect, government agencies.

But the British Columbia government already has its own fee-charging medical insurance private schemes, gives discounts to low income groups and makes no effort to regulate doctor fee schedules.

It doesn't pretend to cover the majority of B.C. residents. Most employed people are in private plans because it has become normal for employers to pay part of the fees for the employee.

The premier claims that at present all but five per cent of B.C. residents are covered by either private plans or the B.C. Medical plan.

So who will benefit from medicare?

UNEMPLOYED

Opposition party spokesmen say the main beneficiaries will be the 17,000 employable unemployed in the province who now receive no medical coverage. They can't afford fees for private or B.C. plans.

Persons in private plans with part of their fees paid by their employers might benefit if one big plan took over because administration costs could be expected to decline. or they might lose the employer participation.

There are some private plans which do not offer a full range of benefits. These subscribers would benefit.

EXTRA TAXES

There is one school of thought that B.C. residents who now pay an estimated $34 per capita for medical coverage in fees, would be required to pay about the same in extra taxation if they were meeting half the estimated $68 million medicare cost in this province.

The difference might be that under medicare paid through income tax, the high earners would pay more and the low earners less and the man with no income would pay nothing while enjoying full medical protection.

. . . CLC

before an audience of more than 350 union leaders and MPs, said the government has used "scare figures" on the cost of medicare to frighten off some of the provinces and has done nothing to help promote housing development.

It said:

"Your government has apparently rejected the basic principles of the Carter report, thereby yielding to the outcries of those who stand to gain by a perpetuation of the present system of taxation.

"It has introduced a budget which can only have the result of reducing consumer power and thereby leading to a spread of unemployment. It has compounded the mistake of a deflationary budget by cutting back government programs, which will inevitably lead to an increase in the number of unemployed."

HITS WORKING MAN

The congress said Ottawa should be promoting economic growth, but instead is reducing its intervention in the economy. As a result, from the standpoint of the working man, "the economic outlook for 1968 is not a particularly rosy one."

The CLC called on the cabinet to take direct action on housing by increased lending, warning that the housing shortage has become a crisis that may grow to insoluble proportions. Mortgage interest rates should be lowered and the 11-per-cent sales tax on building materials lifted.

A revision was urged in the Canada Pension Plan that would allow the rate of premiums and benefits to increase beyond the present maximum of two per cent a year. This was needed to keep the plan in line with increased living costs.

The brief said greater efforts should be made to implement fully the 40-hour work week laid down in the federal labor code three years ago.

SUPPORTS B-B

On other issues, the CLC:

—Expressed full support for the initial recommendations of the royal commission on bilingualism and biculturalism and stressed that equality in living standards is the essential link in uniting English and French Canada.

—Restated its stand in favor of increased foreignn aid.

Ferries at Horseshoe Bay Get New Terminal in July

VANCOUVER (CP) — A new $1,500,000 B.C. Ferries terminal at Horsehoe Bay in West Vancouver will be completed in early July, general manager M. F. Aldous said today.

The facility will include two double-deck loading compounds to accommodate almost 500 cars, and a 200-car parking lot where 48 hours parking will cost 50 cents.

Cars will be sorted by destionation — Langdale, Nanaimo and Bowen Island—in a holding area outside the compound. The upper deck will hold 244 cars bound for Langdale while the lower unit will accommodate 245 cars, destined for Nanaimo-Bowen Island.

Foot passengers will be able to use covered walkways that lead from a new two-storey terminal building to a cooffee shop and waiting room, from which separate walks lead to promenade deck loading of each ferry.

Mr. Aldous said the new terminal will expedite handling of vehicles and overcome traffic congestion in the Horsehoe Bay area.

Text of Mr. Aldous' remarks was released in advance of a press conference.

Why Are You A Poor Talker?

A noted publisher in Chicago reports a simple technique of everyday conversation which can pay you real dividends in social and business advancement and works like magic to give you poise, self-confidence and greater popularity.

According to this publisher, many people do not realize how much they could influence others simply by what they say and how they say it. Whether in business, at social functions, or even in casual conversations with new acquaintances, there are ways to make a good impression every time you talk.

To acquaint the readers of this paper with the easy-to-follow rules for developing skill in everyday conversation, the publishers have printed full details of their interesting, self-training method in a new booklet, "Adventures in Conversation," which will be mailed free to anyone who requests it. No obligation. Send your name and address to: Conversation, 835 Diversey Pkwy., Dept. 142-212, Chicago, Ill. 60614. A postcard will do.

WEATHER SYNOPSIS

Skies were clear in all regions Monday night. Early this morning temperatures were below freezing on the coast. In the interior Prince George dropped to 3 below zero, Kimberley 8 above, and Penticton 18. A stationary ridge of high pressure will continue to provide fine weather. Sunny skies will clear morning fog patches and bring temperatures up to near 50 on the coast and from 25 to 40 in the interior this afternoon.

Fog patches are expected in low areas again tonight and Wednesday will be another sunny day. However, low cloud and fog banks over the sea will drift in to reach some areas on the exposed coasts.

AS BILL DEBATED

Drug Industry Comes Under Heavy Fire

OTTAWA (CP)—Changes in the Patent Act and the Trade Marks Act designed to bring more competition into the prescription drug business, were alternately praised and criticized in the Commons Monday.

Dr. P. B. Rynard (PC—Simcoe East) complained that Canadian patent laws covering drugs already are weak and that the new bill would discourage incentive and research.

Dr. William Howe (NDP—Hamilton South) described the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association of Canada as "the high profit boys" and praised the bill as "an excellent start on trying to rid ourselves of this monopoly."

Consumer Affairs Minister John Turner was strongly critical of the drug industry in an 80-minute speech explaining the amendments as the House began debate on second reading of the bill amending both the Patent and Trade Marks acts.

He said the amendments will exert a "downward pressure" on prices.

The amendments, which will allow firms to import patented drugs in finished form under licence, will also permit the importing of trade-marked pharmaceuticals from parent firms in competition with their Canadian subsidiaries. They were the first steps in a government scheme to put pressure on the industry to lower prices.

Other proposed measures include:

—A bulletin to physicians informing them about new drugs and new regulations;

—Plans to strengthen small Canadian-owned drug firms which now account for only 15 per cent of Canada's drug business;

Will Seek Provincial Views

Mr. Turner did not set a date for the federal-provincial talks but said that before they were held he will visit each provincial capital to seek government views on ways to step up competition in drug wholesaling.

Dr. Howe said companies have made as much as 9,700-per-cent profit on a drug.

"Illness to the PMAC is their most valuable asset."

He said the industry had sent the most intensive lobby ever seen to fight the legislation, disparaged generic drugs by intimation, brainwashed doctors into prescribing drugs patients did not need and openly fed questions to MPs during the questioning of witnesses by the special parliamentary committee inquiring into the price of drugs.

Connaught Laboratories with annual sales of $7,000,000 and an annual research budget of $2,000,000 had been largely financed from the patent rights on insulin discovered by Dr. Banting and Dr. Best.

Mr. Turner tabled surveys of drug prices in Canada compared with the United States, Britain and five European countries. The surveys showed Canadians paid from three to 20 times as much for prescription drugs as other countries.

Could Still Make a Profit

Industry profits averaged 20 per cent over the last 12 years compared with 10 per cent for industry in general.

Dr. Harry Harley (L—Halton) co-chairman of the parliamentary committee that investigated drug prices, said the companies could still make a profit under the proposed amendments.

He agreed with the aim of lowering consumer prices, but denied drug prices are "too high."

ICE-SMASHING PLAN APPROVED

YELLOWKNIFE, N.W.T. (CP) — Members of the Northwest Territories Council Monday hailed as imaginative and feasible a scheme to open year-round shipping lanes through the Northwest Passage.

Council unanimously endorsed the plan, outlined at the opening of the session by Councillor J. Gordon Gibson, and accepted his offer to test the concept this summer.

The plan was to score the underside of sea ice with booms attached to a ship's bows. As the ship pressed forward, it would break the weakened ice and force it down under the ice at each side of the newly-broken channel.

Mr. Gibson, a 63-year-old retired B.C. logging executive, offered to pay the estimated $100,000 trials cost and said outside council he would gamble the cost against his faith it will work.

"I think the search for the Northwest Passage has come to an end," said Councillor Duncan Pryde, 30, a trapper and former Hudson's Bay Co. manager at Bathurst Inlet on the Arctic coast.

He said the principal is as simple as a seal maintaining a breathing hole in the ice. When a firm ice covering forms a passage is cut through then kept open.

PATHETIC

Mr. Gibson said the present system, which uses the icebreaker's weight to smash the ice, is pathetic by comparison. The present system had taken 24 hours to travel 21 miles through ice. The Gibson plan would allow ships to cut through at a minimum of six knots an hour.

Commissioner Stuart Hodgson told council he will authorize Mr. Gibson to represent his office in Ottawa to seek approval for the trials.

Councillor Bob Williamson, 36, a professor of anthropology living at Rankin Inlet, said the scheme should be tried as soon as possible. It would mean navigation, no longer limited to a few months of the year in his area, on the west shore of Hudson Bay, would be possible at the port of Churchill, Man., year-round. The plan would favorably affect the economy of Western Canada, Mr. Williamson said.

Mr. Gibson said man has mastered almost all his problems, and soon will even land men on the moon, but man has remained unable to cope with three feet of Arctic ice.

His scheme would cut passages through ice early in the fall season once the ice has started to become firmly developed. At present, icebreaking techniques cannot cope with firmly-developed ice. Once a passage is cut continuous usage would keep it open.

Mr. Gibson said there are ships now which are so large they cannot use the Panama Canal but "there's lots of room in the north."

When he introduced the plan late last week, Mr. Gibson had said there probably could be 1,000 ships which could benefit and in some cases cut in half the travel distance between Atlantic and Pacific ports in numerous countries.

APPOINTED to Senate Monday was Herbert O. M. Sparrow, 38, North Battleford, Sask. He fills the vacancy created by the death last May of Senator John Hnatyshyn. Senator Sparrow has been president of the Saskatchewan Liberal Association for several years and was a defeated candidate in the Oct. 11 provincial election. (CP photo)

UNION OFFICIAL

Seniority Ignored In Layoffs

VANCOUVER (CP)—The B.C. Ferry Authority is giving no consideration to seniority in its plans to lay off 160 workers by Feb. 16, according to a union spokesman.

Norm Thornber, business agent of the marine branch of the B.C. Government Employees Association, said Monday that talks between his group and management have failed too resolve questions of seniority.

"Management seems to be doing everything it can to run the fleet with a minimum of personnel, regardless of people with five or six years seniority," he said.

He said membership meetings are being planned to decide on a course of action, if further meetings with management prove fruitless.

Long-Standing Friction Blamed For Newark Riot

By LEROY F. AARONS
The Washington Post

NEWARK, N.J. — The first comprehensive study of a city involved in last summer's rioting finds that police and national guard units engaged in "indiscriminate shooting" in putting down the four-day Newark distrubance in which 23 persons were killed.

This was on conclusion of a massive, 400-page report made public Saturday by the Governor's select commission on civil disorder in New Jersey.

The strongly-worded study, entitled, "report for action," is also harshly critical of the Newark city administration. It makes these chief points with regard to the Newark disorder:

- There is insufficient evidence to support the theory that the riot was the result of a conspiracy.
- In fact, the Newark outbreak was the culmination of long-standing ills. But its emmediate antecendents can be traced largely to an insensitivity to the needs of the black community by the administration of Mayor Hugh J. Addonizio.

COMPLETE BREAKDOWN

- There was virtually a complete breakdown in relations between the police and the black community prior to the disorders. Furthermore, there is no evidence of improvement since the riot last July.

During the period of the riot, roughly July 13 through 16, local and state police and national guard units employed inordinately heavy return fire at suspected sniper locations, a practice which proved "tragic and costly." The amount of ammunition used during the riot was "out of all proportion to the mission."

NEW YORK LEGISLATORS BALK

Garbage Still Moves Despite Rocky Rebuff

NEW YORK (AP) — Balking Republicans in the New York state Senate have stalled action on emergency legislation to support Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's controversial settlement of New York City's garbage strike.

The Republican-controlled Senate postponed action on the governor's bill Monday night as many Republicans shied from the prospect of approving the plan to have the state temporarily take over the city sanitation department.

The delay marked the day's second setback for the Republican governor. Earlier the Democrat-dominated Assembly refused his request to make a personal appeal for the bill before a joint session of the legislature on the grounds it "would be a big Rockefeller show."

After that rebuff, Rockefeller went on television seeking popular and legislative support for the settlement which has been bitterly assailed by his fellow Republican, Mayor John V. Lindsay, and editorially attacked by many of the state's newspapers.

USE SNOW PLOWS

In the city, the sanitation department said crews would mount snow plows on the trucks today to scrape up the great dunes of debris that accumulated along the curbs during the walkout that lasted nine days.

A spokesman said that in two days of intensive effort more than 49,000 tons of rubbish had been collected. When the men returned Saturday night an estimated 100,000 tons littered the streets and 10,000 more tons pile up each day.

The 10,000 garbage men now are receiving a Rockefeller-mandated $425 increase in annual wages that ranged from $6,424 to $7,856—an increase which Lindsay rejected as blackmail for a union illegally on strike.

Lindsay has said the city's top offer was $375 annually.

MORALE HIGH IN HAIPHONG

Odd Man Out

PRIME MINISTER PEARSON has announced that the medical care legislation passed by parliament will be implemented, as scheduled, next July 1. In this he is correct as to legal and parliamentary requirements, on debatable ground as to the immediate social need for so sweeping a measure, and in very evident opposition to most of the provincial governments and several members of his cabinet.

Perhaps the best sum-up of the legislation is that medicare is in principle a worthy concept and probably an inevitable one in view of the trend of our welfare era, but that two factors place the present program in question: its immediacy and its cost.

Most of the provinces are either not yet ready to undertake so broad a plan, or—like Ontario—they already have medical insurance provisions considered adequate for the present. British Columbia, with both private and government medical insurance plans already in successful operation, sees the federal offer as an opportunity to share expenses, and hence will accept. Saskatchewan is in much the same position, and is likewise a probable participant. This is quite understandable, for the federal legislation does not force the provinces to enter the plan, it merely makes the plan available to them on their own request.

The catch comes in financing, for Ottawa's 50-per-cent contributions to any acceptable provincial plan — that is, one with 90 per cent coverage, open to all categories of citizens and with provision for welfare cases — will be derived from taxes collected from the country in general, not merely from the participating provinces. Provinces, therefore, which receive no benefits from the federal medical insurance program will be contributing to those which choose to take part, and protests may be expected.

As far as increased costs are concerned, the total bill for medicare is not the pertinent figure, since most medical bills are being paid already either directly or through insurance schemes. The net addition will be on account of welfare cases and increased use of medical services generally and the plan emerges more as a change in the means of paying for medical care than a wholly new expense.

Patients' use of the plan, however, could pose serious problems such as have assailed Britain's state medical system. Hospitals are already overcrowded in Canada, and this situation could be immeasurably worsened by a rush of would-be patients whose fear of heavy medical costs has been removed. The problem of doctors trying to cope with greatly increased demands on their time must also be considered, with the danger that existing high standards of treatment and individual attention may be forced downward. These are essentially arguments for postponement rather than rejection in principle.

Perhaps the real answer will lie, not in the provinces' reaction to Mr. Pearson's latest announcement but in the results of next month's Liberal leadership convention and the concomitant selection of the next prime minister. For the divergence of cabinet opinions on the medicare plan is well known, and the future of medicare inevitably will rest with the man chosen to succeed Mr. Pearson. Meanwhile, in view of the negative attitude of most of the provinces and the very real need for restraint in government expenditures, the latest decision not to postpone implementation of the plan is in our opinion a mistaken one.

Too Lax on Gun Control

GUN CLUBS, RIFLE ASSOCIATIONS and target shooting organizations have raised objections to some of the proposed Criminal Code amendments covering the use of firearms. Their spokesmen claim that issuers of licences could assume powers which should not be delegated to them, that if certain of the projected regulations were put into force a step would be taken toward the police state, and that legitimate use of guns would be restricted under circumstances which, they claim, would not curtail criminal use.

The opinion of the sportsmen deserves consideration. Target shooting and the properly supervised activity of game clubs are useful activities in the recreational field and should lead to more responsible use of firearms.

But two points emerge from any consideration of legal restrictions on guns. One focuses attention on safety, and the need to see that irresponsible persons are not permitted to endanger others through ignorance, carelessness or foolishness. The other concerns the registration of firearms as a means of helping to trace their possession in the event of crimes in which they are employed.

At present, Canadian and British Columbia regulations covering guns of various types are too lax. They should be tightened up in the interests of public safety and as a means of restricting, as effectively as possible, the access of criminals to such weapons.

A Step Toward Indian Unity

SOME MISGIVINGS HAVE been voiced over the ability of Indian organizations in British Columbia to bring a united approach to the solution of some of their problems — notably the problem of settling Indian land claims.

But unqualified agreement should not be expected from Indian groups any more than it should be expected from organizations of non-Indians. And differences should not detract from the advance made by five representatives of British Columbia bands at their meeting in Nanaimo last weekend. On that occasion spokesmen were able to establish an Indian unity constitution — subject to amendment — and create a committee to deal with British Columbia Indian land claims.

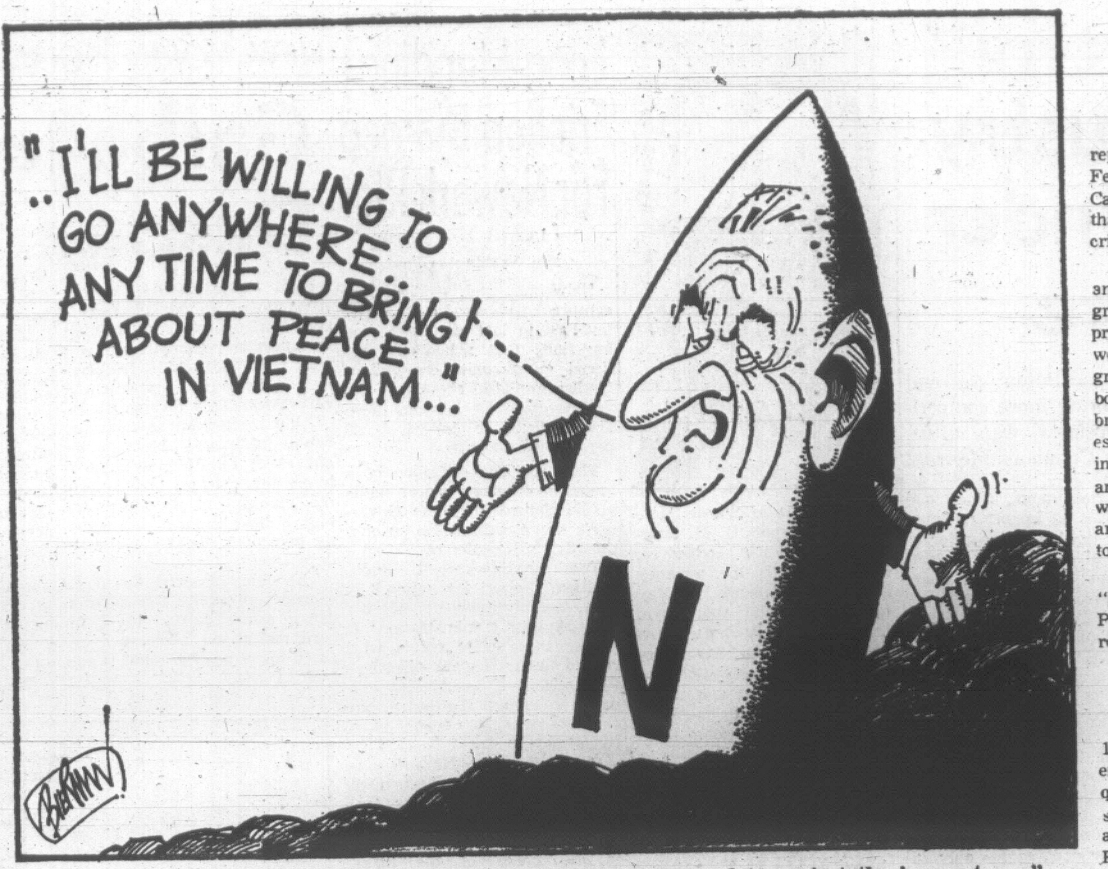
These accomplishments in themselves mark a step ahead for the Indian peoples. They will progress further as they recognize the fact that differences of opinion should not be allowed to destroy the degree of achievement already reached. Conceivably the exercise in reconciling differences, in appreciating the fact that unity can encompass diversity, will be a substantial gain in itself.

Public Business in Public

QUESTIONS IN SOME QUARTERS over the decision to hold the recent federal-provincial confederation conference in public, with full news coverage, appear to have been fully answered by statements from Prime Minister Pearson and Ontario's Premier Robarts. Mr. Pearson has expressed his satisfaction that the sessions were open, and Mr. Robarts feels that "closed federal-provincial conferences are gone forever."

The free-swinging debate staged by various delegates provides an adequate reply to the argument that open sessions might inhibit free discussion. The delegates said what they thought with a frankness that was appreciated by the people they represent.

At Ottawa last week, important business was conducted in public in a way to give the people a better understanding of the matters involved. The example should not be lost on less important governing bodies, from the municipal level up, some of which too frequently underrate the capacity of the public to form reasonable judgments on controversial issues.



"..I'LL BE WILLING TO GO ANYWHERE.. ANY TIME TO BRING ABOUT PEACE IN VIETNAM..."
N
Bierman

"... This is a true story ... only the names have been changed to protect the innocent ..."

FROM WASHINGTON

By JOSEPH ALSOP

With No Alternative, VC Going for Broke

SEN. Robert Kennedy to the contrary, it is becoming clearer and clearer that the Viet Cong attack on the cities and towns of South Vietnam resulted in a serious and potentially shattering defeat. This is true, at any rate, if a "defeat" can be defined as a hideously costly action which altogether fails to produce the designed result. The cost to the Viet Cong, to begin with, is rising toward a dreadful total of nearly 30,000 men, quite largely drawn from the VC's least easily replaceable assets—their true-guerrilla local forces, their sapper units and their underground operatives.

Alsop

As to this effort's costliness to the Viet Cong, there can be no reasonable doubt. There has been quite reasonable doubt, however, about the effort's designed result. Was it really to touch off a "general uprising"? Or was it merely to wreak maximum destruction and to sow doubt and dismay in America and in South Vietnam?

Arguable Questions

These have been the arguable questions. They have now been answered, however, again beyond reasonable doubt, by the first interrogations of the thousands of VC prisoners of war picked up in the towns and cities of South Vietnam. The designed result of the assault was, in fact, to provoke a "general uprising," which most conspicuously failed to occur.

The tactical situation naturally has been given priority by the interrogators. Hence, the political interrogations are as yet very incomplete; but it already appears that, in most cases, members of the VC provincial party committees went into the towns and cities with the troops. It appears that in many cases the object was clearly to set up military governments and to proclaim the new "Coalition" the VC documents have been talking about for months.

In Saigon a full member of the VC's highest political body, the Central Committee of the National Liberation Front, was killed in action. In Nha Trang, a member of the Provincial Party Committee was taken prisoner. His mission had been to issue the call for the "general uprising" over the government radio station, which was never taken. Other cases might be cited.

It is well established, at any rate, that the "general uprising" was intended and expected. It did not materialize for two reasons. Barring a few students in Hue and the inmates of the Hue jail, the "popular masses" held strictly aloof from "the surging struggle." And contrary to reports, the vast majority of South Vietnamese army units, though taken by surprise with many men on leave, acquitted themselves with true courage and distinction.

Without these two factors, the courage of the American troops would have gone for nothing. With these factors, plus the courage of the Americans, the enemy suffered a severe defeat by any standard of judgement—a defeat for which all the destruction and disruption were, and are, wholly inadequate rewards for the VC.

For that very reason, as these words are written, there are indications that the enemy may return to the attack on certain cities and towns. The objective, quite certainly, will be to gain control in at least a few places. The result cannot be prejudged, but this time there will be no surprise.

Saigon Role Crucial

Furthermore, the Saigon government's handling of all the problems of destruction and disruption is now crucially important. The word from the Americans on the spot is "so far, so good." But again, the final results cannot be prejudged. Finally, it is impossible to overestimate the stakes in the game in the battle at Khe Sanh; and that is just beginning.

But the fact remains that what has happened in Vietman cannot be rationally interpreted as Sen. Kennedy interpreted it in Chicago. If the Hanoi warplanners felt able to sustain the kind of unending war that Kennedy talked about, they would not have gone for broke against the towns and cities, and they would not now be going for broke at Khe Sanh. They are, in truth, going for broke because they know they cannot sustain an unending war.

Vested Interest in Defeat

The trutn is that with all his intelligence and patroitism, Kennedy has not been wise enough to turn a deaf ear to the defeat-at-any-price people. These are the academics and journalists, political amateurs and such-like who have acquired an important vested interest in American defeat in Vietnam, simply because American success there will make them all look such unparalleled fools.

With the enemy going for broke in Vietnam, none can predict just what lies ahead there. But it is easy to predict that Kennedy will not advance his career by listening exclusively to the defeat-at-any-price people.

Worth the Cost?

Referring to the Viet Nam war news reported in your paper from Saigon on February 6, I should like to ask fellow Canadians: "What is the matter with us that we are so silent on the dreadful crimes being committeed in Viet Nam?"

America controls the very air waves, and every day we are told she is the greatest power in the world, so presumably it must be true. If it is, then we cannot but ask: Why does the greatest power find it necessary to bomb, burn and machine gun the little brown people of Viet Nam, and especially the civilians whose homes are in ruins and their food destroyed? We are told the hospitals are overcrowded with injured and dying, and that there are no medicines to relieve them of their torture.

Is this the price of greatness? Is such "greatness" worth the cost?—W. M. Pitts, housewife, 959 Mt. Newton Cross-road.

Apathy and Apologists

It is regrettable that it appears only 100 people in Victoria were interested enough in public education to attend the question and answer forum recently co-sponsored by the Parent-Teacher Council and the Greater Victoria School Board. Public apathy is undoubtedly a factor here, but since the panel consisted entirely of officials within the school system — able men to be sure — the public could not expect unbiased and candid answers to penetrating questions.

I suggest that at any public meeting school administrators are cast into the role of apologists offering polite explanations and occasional evasions. They do not say what parents and the public need to know. Do they explain what happens to the quality of teaching and learning in our chronically overcrowded schools? — do they discuss the paternalistic coercion in the schools and at home which promotes short-term memorizing but inhibits real learning? — are they able to justify the rigid and in some cases irrelevant curriculum which turns children off? — do they deal honestly with the question of incompetents in the system by mentioning that "there is machinery for getting rid of incompetent teachers" while failing to add that the machinery is singularly inadequate? Do administrators really discuss these matters openly? I think not.

For those who seek more objective analyses of our troubled public schools, the Victoria Public Library offers scores of recent and readable books and periodicals.—Leah M. Brown (Mrs. C. Y.), 3480 Upper Terrace.

Bravo Bennett

Bravo for our Premier Bennett. I admire the stand he has taken re the Conference at Ottawa. If everyone was as determined in his thinking as he is, one would know which way one was going. So keep up your good thinking, Mr. Bennett. I might say I am not a Social Creditor. — Mrs. Olive Detlor Wilson, 3095 Harriet Rd.

The Bloom Is Off the Potash

IF there are any free enterprisers in the house with a workable, free enterprise solution for the looming Saskatchewan potash crisis, the line forms at the desk of Premier Ross Thatcher, who also happens to be minister of industry in charge of potash. The bloom has been fading from the potash boom owing to recent price cuts and talk of an impending surplus when mines now being dug come into production. Premier Thatcher was thinking out loud with the idea that a pro-rata system similar to that operated by Alberta for oil might be an idea.

Gray

His trial balloon was quickly shot down in flames. Southwest Minerals, a big American company with huge reserves in New Mexico, closed its office at Yorkton and announced it was pulling out of the boom for the time being at least. A representative of the Potash Corporation of America took a dim view of the idea and hoped Mr. Thatcher would think of something else.

Potash Corporation happens to be the outfit that triggered the boom by finding a way through the water laden Blairmore formation above the potash. It is also one of the three companies already in operation. It is producing just under 750,000 tons a year. International Minerals, with a $120 million plant at Esterhazy, produces 3.5 million tons and Kalium Chemicals, a German company, produces about 600,000 tons a year.

Must Run Near Capacity

To earn a profit, the huge Saskatchewan mines must operate at or near capacity. The plants now have a capacity of just over 5 million tons a year. But when six new plants, including two financed by Canadians, are completed the capacity will zoom to almost 12 million tons a year.

The potash business of the world has traditionally been dominated by international cartels. At the moment the power in the cartel is in the European Common Market in France, Germany and Italy. Low cost Saskatchewan potash was beginning to push into the international markets of the cartel. So the cartel cut the price by 25 per cent and now the big American companies in and out of Saskatchewan are in trouble.

There is only one place in which Saskatchewan's future surplus production can be marketed—in the Asiatic and Communist bloc countries. But the American companies who own about $500 million of the $650 million Saskatchewan industry, cannot trade with Communist countries.

Up to Cartel

So, faced with the possibility of cutting back production to equate to market demand and get the price back up, Mr. Thatcher has been toying with the Socialist idea of a government-managed production pro-rata system. The trouble is that it can only work if the international cartel calls off its price war and lets the price of potash rise again. Then it might be possible to ration the market among the producers. But if production is cut too sharply some will be forced out of business as soon as they get into it.

For the cartel to rush to the rescue of its deadly competition seems unlikely. At full development, International Minerals will still have a third of Saskatchewan's capacity. It is even more unlikely that it would give up half the market it has already developed in the United States to Johnny-come-lately competing mines.

The final obstacle to a potash pro-rata plan of course is economics. Even very small cutbacks below the designed capacity of the mines can throw them from black to red. Informants say there will be little savings in overall costs even if production is cut by a third. The carrying charges on the $50 million to $100 million capital investment per mine go on regardless of rate of production. So the more production is cut the higher the price must go to carry the capital costs.

Washington Pressure

Meanwhile, back at Washington, pressure is bound to build to impose dumping restrictions on imports of Canadian potash into the United States. Several of the companies in Saskatchewan own deposits in New Mexico. It is high cost potash and its production has been cut back to make room for both Canadian and European potash.

In Washington, too, the anti-trust legal beagles will be fixing the potash industry in their suspicious eyes. From time to time American companies have been caught playing footsy with the international cartel. If the American companies try to save their Saskatchewan investments by making deals with China and Russia, they will face criminal prosecution. But if they become involved in production restraining cartel in Saskatchewan, the anti-trusters will be after them.

Looking Back

From the Times, Feb. 13, 1908.

Ladysmith — It really looks as though there were lights ahead for Ladysmith. During the week, under orders of the city council, a man has been making a personal canvass of the residents of the town to ascertain whether they are in favor of a lighting system, and if so how many lights they would take, provided the rates do not exceed a certain figure.

The canvasser, so far as he has gone, has certainly got data enough to justify the installation.

MIGHTIER MANSIONS

"Religion, learning, art, culture, politics, trade, commerce, and, until recently, industry, have always flourished in cities. There is every reason then for the creation of new metropolitan cities throughout the world. There is every reason to suppose that if such new cities are not consciously planned they will still appear in undesirable forms.

Penny Loaves Won't Rebuild London Bridge

By DESMOND HEAP

(Mr. Heap is comptroller of the Bridge House Estates and city solicitor, London.)

LONDON—The "Queen Mary" has gone to live at Long Beach. The ancient church of St. Mary Aldemanbury in the city of London has been removed stone by stone to Fulton, Mo., where Winston Churchill first mentioned "the Iron Curtain".

Now London Bridge must come down. It is up for sale.

The public's response to the announcement has been phenomenal. Bids for the stonework have ranged from a $100 deposit from a Virgin Islands consortium to a $25,000 offer from a Rochester, England, man.

There was also a telephone call (as yet unconfirmed) from a Texan with an offer to "top all bids" and a letter from a "private collector" in London, received the day after the news hit the front pages, asking the corporation to "hold it until next Saturday" when he would inspect it for himself. (P.S. The "collector" didn't show up.)

In addition to numberous requests for timber, bricks, paving stones, lampposts and just plain "pieces" of London Bridge — a 15-year-old school girl in Santa Clara, Calif., sent one dollar for a "piece" (An appropriate memento will be sent) — there have been almost 100 requests for further information.

The majoirty of the letters are from the United States, with California leading. The second largest group of letters are from Canada — Victoria among them. The remainder represent a handful from England, two letters from Paris and a Manchester agent representing Swiss clients. All will be sent copies of the corporation's booklet on London Bridge when it is off the press.

The story of London Bridge is at once amazing and fascinating. It has, of course, given rise to the nursery jingle well-known to children on both sides of the Atlantic:

"London Bridge is falling down, falling down, my fair ladye:

Bridge House Trust 800 Years Old

In fact, the matter of the penny loaves does not arise because the Bridge House Trust, now in its 800th year, has always been equal to the task of furnishing all bridge crossings from the city of London over the River Thames to Southwark.

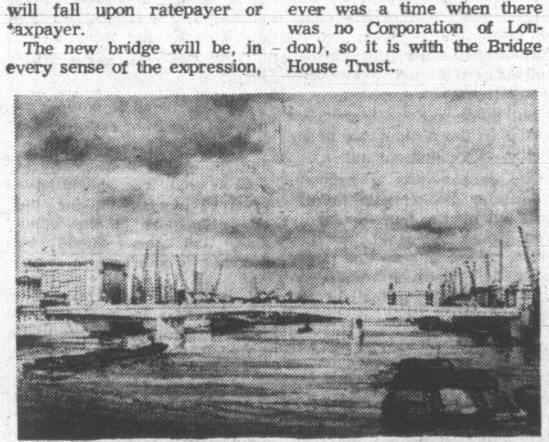
The trustees of the Bridge House Estates are the Corporation of the City of London acting through the Bridge House Estates committee, whose report, recommending the replacement of John Rennie's 134-year-old London Bridge by a new bridge, came before the Court of Common Council recently.

The estimated cost of the new bridge, $2.1 million, will be met out of the revenues of the Bridge House Estates, which have been administered by the Corporation of London for 691 years. Thus no cost will fall upon ratepayer or taxpayer.

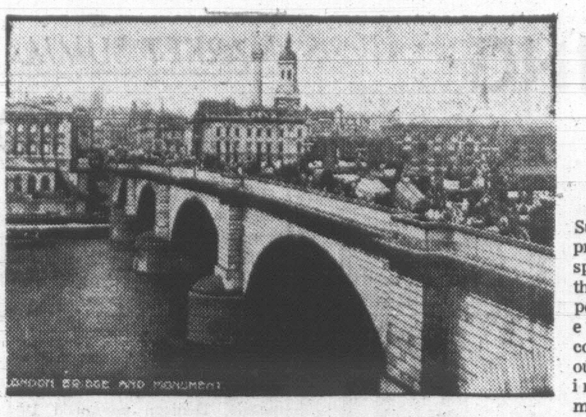
The new bridge will be, in every sense of the expression, a "free way" on which all may pass on their lawful occasions. It is the same with Tower Bridge — that astonishing piece of gothic-meccano built for something over $5 million and opened in 1894 — with Southwark Bridge and with Blackfriars Bridge. These are the four "city bridges" and they are maintained by the revenues of the Bridge House Estates.

How did this famous trust estate, which has conferred so many boons upon generation after generation for nearly a thousand years, begin?

There is no clear answer. If nobody knows when the trustees of the estate, the Corporation of London, began (and nobody does, for the Corporation of London is a corporation by prescription, and the law, accordingly, is not prepared to admit that there ever was a time when there was no Corporation of London), so it is with the Bridge House Trust.



LONDON BRIDGE . . . going up



LONDON BRIDGE . . . coming down

Undoubtedly the title of the Corporation of London to the Bridge House Estates arose before the doctrine of trusts was fully developed. Lands were devised by kings of England and other "charitable and well-disposed persons" to the mayor and commonalty and citizens of the city of London upon trust primarily for the maintenance and support of London Bridge. The words used in the early conveyances and grants were such as, "to the use of London Bridge," "for the works of London Bridge," "for the sustentation of London Bridge," "for the brethren and sisters of the chapel upon London Bridge" and, more dramatically, "to God and the Bridge."

Preceded Modern Town Planning

The comptroller and city solicitor, as conveyancing officer to the corporation, has in his custody deeds of conveyance dated as early as 1282 containing words of the kind here quoted and also leases of Bridge House lands granted by the corporation prior to that date.

For centuries the corporation has never sold Bridge House lands except under the law of compulsory purchase eminent domain but has managed and operated the estate by the granting of leases. (Modern town planning has recently caught up with this idea).

The lands of the Bridge House Trust are scattered throughout the City of London, Greater London and parts of Surrey, Kent and Essex. The revenues of the trust are derived mainly from ground rents and long-term leases but there are many weekly and monthly tenancies.

Whenever the Bridge House Trust may be said to have begun, there can be no doubt that the building of the first stone bridge across the river in 1176 gave a terrific impetus to the whole concept of this trust. For this we have to thank Peter de Colechurch, whose name is indissolubly associated with London Bridge.

Peter was chaplain of the church of St. Mary Colechurch, which was destroyed in the great fire of London in 1666. This was the church in which St. Thomas 'a Becket' was christened.

Peter was a great bridgebuilder but until 1176 he had built only in wood, usually elm. Indeed, he built a London Bridge of elm in 1136 but decided 40 years later, that the time had come to build in stone and thereby settle the tiresome propensity of each succesive London Bridge built of wood to go up in flames.

Peter was at work on his stone London Bridge for 30 years until his death in 1205, shortly before the completion of his masterpiece in 1210. He was buried on the bridge itself in the chapel which he had built in midstream dedicated to the memory of St. Thomas 'a Becket'.

Peter's "Old London Bridge," as it is called today, endured, with or without its agglomeration of wooden houses, for over six centuries (during five of which it was the only bridge within the metropolis) until it was replaced in 1831 by the present London Bridge, now reported to be sinking gently but perceptibly. When Peter's bridge was demolished, his bones were found beneath the masonry of the chapel.

'Stupendous Piece of Engineering'

The building of the first stone bridge was a stupendous piece of engineering and attracted a good deal of attention both at home and abroad. It also occasioned many generous contributions to the Bridge House Trust.

Indeed, it has been suggested that Peter, who had to get his bridge building money from somewhere, knew exactly what he was doing when he designed the chapel to the memory of St. Thomas 'a Becket', murdered in his cathedral in 1170 and canonized in 1173, only three years before the building of the stone bridge began.

In any event, his work was furthered by such illustrious donors as Richard of Dover, Archbishop of Canterbury and Becket's successor; King Henry II himself in the form of a tax on wool (conscience money, perhaps, after doing penance at Canterbury in 1174 for his complicity in the murder in the cathedral), and Cardinal Hugo di Petraleone, the papal legate to England.

Today, the Bridge House Trust, lacking as it does any detailed statement of its objectives in the form of a trust deed or similar legal instrument, goes unobtrusively about its business.

If Peter de Colechurch, from that bridge-builder's Valhalla of which he must today be president, is watching the corporation of London as it seeks to replace London Bridge once again, it hopes he will be pleased with its efforts.

North Korea's Kim a Master Of Political Intrigue, Purges

By RICHARD HALLORAN

SEOUL—Comrade Kim Il Sung, according to Pyongyang pronouncements, is the respected and beloved leader of the 40 million Korean people, peerless patriot, national hero, ever-victorious iron-willed commander and one of the outstanding leaders of the international Communist movement and the working class movement.

Premier Kim Il Sung, in a less biased and flowery view, is also the generator of the current Korean crisis, the undisputed dictator over the lives of 14 million North Koreans, the last, save perhaps East Germany's Walter Ulbricht, of the Stalinists, and probably the Communist leader least known to the outside world.

Kim has ruled North Korea since the Russians put him in power in 1945, though it took him 15 years to consolidate his rule. In the last 23 years, he has shown himself to be a master of political intrigue and ruthless purge and a shrewd balancer of Russia and China, the two Communist neighbors looking over his shoulder.

He has also shown himself consistent, in all his speeches and writing in his objective of unifying all of the Korean peninsula under his domination and has recently given evidence that he has become impatient with his lack of progress.

Kim is almost 56 and reliably reported in ill health. A Korean belief holds that a man lives until he is 61 and then passes from the scene, either through death or retirement. That gives Kim four years to accomplish what he considers his destiny.

Ardent Nationalist

In common with almost all Koreans, Kim in an ardent nationalist and pursues his course with Korean, rather than Russian, Chinese, Vietnamese, or anyone else's objectives in mind. In his career, Kim has been influenced by both the Russians and Chinese but has retained his essentially Korean nationalist outlook.

Ideologically, Pyongyang pronouncements show that Kim's thoughts are closer to those of Chinese Communist Mao Tse-tung than to those of the Russians, except for the late Josef Stalin. The Russians gave him his start, sided with him during the Korean war and after, until he fell out with them during the days of former Premier Nikita Khrushchev.

In recent years, that quarrel has been partially patched up as the Russians have striven to pull North Korea toward them in the Sino-Soviet dispute. The enticements have been renewed military and economic aid.

The North Korean leader was born on April 15, 1912, in Mangyongdae North Korea, as Kim Song Chu, the son of a middle class schoolmaster. About 1925, he fled with his parents to Manchuria to escape the oppression of the Japanese colonial rule.

Kim spent the next 14 years in Manchuria and China, going to school in Kirin, joining the Chinese Communist party, fighting as a guerrilla against the Japanese in the Yalu River region that marks the border between Korea and Manchuria. He spent a year in prison for these activities.

Major in Red Army

About 1940, Kim went to the Soviet Union and received his military and political training at the Soviet party school in Khabarovsk, in the Russian Far East. He entered the Red Army, rose to the rank of major, and was decorated by Stalin for his service.

Kim returned to Korea in 1945 with the Russian army of occupation, which took over the country north of the 38th parallel. About this time, he took the name Kim Il Sung, who is believed to have been another older and respected guerrilla leader in the struggle against the Japanese.

North Korean propaganda constantly refers to Kim Il Sung's exploits as if the Communist leader and the legendary figure were the same, but experts here say they are not.

There were three groups of Communists in Korea then—those affiliated with the Russians, those backed by the Chinese, and the "domestic" Communists who had never fled the country to join expatriate units. The domestic Communists were further split into North and South Korean factions.

From 1945 to 1950, he brought the Soviet and Chinese faction into an alliance to purge the North Korean domestic Communists. Some were put to death, others put into prison, and a few fled to China.

During and after the Korean war, Kim used the stalemate of the war to get rid of many South Korean Communists who had come north to join him. Many were scapegoats for the poor showing in the war and, by 1955, Kim had eliminated the most powerful of them.

In the third phase, Kim turned on the Chinese-trained Korean Communists. This was the period of greatest threat to Kim's rule. The de-Stalinization process begun by Khrushchev in February, 1956, reverberated in North Korea, where Kim declared it an "internal affair" of the Soviet Union that had "nothing to do with other fraternal parties," expecially in North Korea.

KIM IL SUNG

The Chinese faction, however, used de-Stalinization to accuse Kim of fostering a one-man dictatorship and a cult of personality. Kim defeated, with army support, one move to oust him at the third party congress in April, 1956.

During June and July of the same year, he travelled to the Soviet Union, Eastern Europe, and Mongolia. While he was away, his opponents continued to plot. On his return, he reported to the party central committee in August and was confronted with a shouting, violent, turbulent session.

Kim countered by labelling his opponents anti-party reactionaries, summoned all of his supporters, and began a purge that eventually eliminated the remainder of the domestic faction, most of the Chinese faction, and even some of his own Soviet faction.

This went on in waves until the fourth party congress in September, 1961, when it became apparent that Kim was in thorough and complete control of the party.

Through the early days of the Sino-Soviet split, which began with Khrushchev's denunciation of Stalin, Kim took a neutral position. In 1961, he went to Moscow and Peking to sign mustual defence treaties with both the Russians and Chinese. They are still in force, so far as anyone knows.

Cool to Khrushchev

Kim's relations with Krushchev, however, were cool, especially after the Soviet premier cancelled a scheduled trip to Pyongyang in 1960. The breaking point came in 1962 after the China-India border clash and the Cuban missile crisis.

Kim turned toward the Chinese then because they appeared to be following the true Communist course while the Russians were preaching moderation and siding with the Indians against Chinese comrades. Further, Kim considered Khrushchev's withdrawal of the missiles from Cuba to be cowardice.

Students of North Korean affairs believe that beneath these turns of events, Kim moved closer to Mao because North Korea and China are roughly in the same stage of the revolution. Both are poor while the Russians are economically advanced, and the North Koreans have closer geographical and cultural affinity with the Chinese than the Russians.

Kim gradually moved away from the Chinese but not all the way to the Russian side, maintaining a delicate ideological, political, and military balance between the two. He issued North Korea's "declaration of independency" (independency is the English word they used) in August, 1966, in which he spelled out at length North Korea's views on the split, the revolution, and the world.

Kim condemned both Russian right revisionism and Chinese left dogmatism, though without naming either country. He urged them both to stop fighting among themselves and to form a united front against the common enemy, American imperialism.

FORUM HELPS CLOSE SCIENTIFIC GULF

ING—Does Canada Need It?

By JOAN HOLLOBON
The Globe and Mail

Science Forum, Canada's first inter-disciplinary scientific journal put out by scientists, devotes nearly half its first issue to the liveliest controversy currently bubbling in Canada's scientific community: ING — Intense Neutron Generator—a nuclear research tool that would cost $150 million to $200 million in capital costs, plus $20 million a year operating costs, and would siphon off a large number of scientists qualified in the field.

The journal printed and distributed by University of Toronto Press, also asks how Canada should spend its science research budget. On space? On nuclear science? On biology?

"Which will produce the greatest return? What kind of return should be expected—an increase in knowledge or in wealth? Who is to decide? And on what basis?" it asks in an editorial in its first issue published at the end of January.

"Obviously," says Science Forum "these are not just scientific questions. They are social questions, questions of public policy. But because many laymen do not understand science, the social questions go begging. And because it is only recently that the relationship between public policy and advancing science and technology has been recognized, there is a gap between the two."

Science Forum is subtitled "A Canadian journal of science and technology." The editorial describes its aims as helping to close the policy-science gap and the cultural gulf between science and the layman.

It is designed as a national forum in which Canadian scientists and engineers can discuss their vital issues; because these issues are far-reaching the journal is also designed to be read by non-scientists.

"If science and technology are to fulfil their potential in the development of Canada, full and open discussion of matters of national importance is essential. In ancient Rome, the town forum was the place of assembly for public business. In Twentieth Century Canada, in science and technology, the Editorial Board hopes that Science Forum will serve a similar function."

As for ING, its proponents say the ING institute "has great promise as a national centre of advanced learning where the scientist and engineer participate together in broad attacks upon large problems of research; where many disciplines are focussed upon a common goal."

It would develop new frontiers in research and "draw new high calibre talent to science and engineering and thus continue to help develop Canada's human and technological resources."

Not so: Canada has more important things to do, says one opponent, who describes it as "the wrong thing in the wrong place, at the wrong time."

It is the wrong thing because there is more important work to be done; the wrong place because too much government research money is already channeled into government-run projects; and the wrong time because nuclear research "is less vital to Canada than is an economic application of the knowledge already gained."

The ING controversy is not only intrinsically important, as a vital matter to be decided, but also because it exemplifies many of the social and public policy questions which the journal hopes to air.

Research this costly can only be funded by government and spending of so much public money immediately demands scrutiny in comparison with other projects. But by what criteria? Piecemeal grants are clearly no longer feasible: the whole field of research must be looked at and objectives and values studied.

Scientific research for the pure pursuit of knowledge is doubtless an idyllic situation, but at such a cost unlikely to be viewed too cheerfully by the treasury men.

As a third contributor to Science Forum's discussion agrees, "From a straight scientific point of view ING is undoubtedly a very good thing," but then he comments that "with a very big investment more certain payoffs should justifiably be looked for"—such as, "would it materially increase Canada's prosperity?"

But even this apparently forthright question cannot be answered simply in today's world of complex science.

A Harvard physicist is quoted that fundamental research is not directed to solution of urgent social problems: many of the most important discoveries have had few such applications. But their implications may eventually be far-reaching.

"One need only recall that the studies of electricity, electronics, X-rays, atomic structure and nuclear physics have at some past time all been a long-range scientific research," said Dr. Norman F. Ramsey.

The same need exists for rethinking the aims and requirements of medical research to form a basis for rational financing that will enhance medical education and service to human beings.

Dr. J. Fraser Mustard of McMaster University, points out that distinctions between teaching versus research, pure versus applied research and between the sciences versus the arts are artificial and only impede the advancement of all. Those who see research as an end are mistaken: "Research is always a means—the means of learning and the means of translating science into art."

Scientific specialization has carved gulfs between scientists in different disciplines as wide as that between science and the layman. Science Forum can fulfil a most valuable purpose if it encourages the exchange of information and stimulates the expression of opinion from many quarters, scientific and lay.

The wise handling of both the problems and the opportunities of today's powerful and costly Big Science demands decisions at a fundamental philosophical level. Empirical, piecemeal solutions will create more difficulties than they solve.

Dial away the miles to her heart!

What does a red-blooded B.C. boy do when his Valentine happens to be miles away and he doesn't have the price of the plane ticket? Naturally, he dates her by phone, the very next best thing to being there! Even if she lives in St. John's, Newfoundland, a three minute call after 6 p.m. costs only $1.95 — appreciably less if she's in Alberta or B.C. So you might really splurge on this special day and spend six minutes with her, or even twelve. Think what the dinner and dancing would have cost you . . . then pick up that phone and dial away the miles to her heart!

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Flax was the dominant commodity on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today as it showed rallying tendencies in late trading.

Contributing to the interest in flax were the steady prices of linseed oil in Europe and a board of grain commissioners' report which showed a sharp 200,000-bushel decline in Canadian flax supplies. Hedging sales in both flax and rapeseed were light.

Rapeseed prices moved in a narrow range while feed grain prices were firm in light trade. Rye prices received some stimulation from a sale of 1,000 tons to the United Kingdom and reports that other inquiries were being made.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and grain futures prices closed on an irregular tone on the Board of Trade today.

Trade was fairly light and mixed but mostly of a local nature.

Wheat futures opened on a mostly higher tone but after prices had advanced about ⅝ cent, there was a quick selloff.

Active hedge selling in corn tended to weaken prices on the opening but strength appeared in the deferred contracts.

Sharp Drop on Wall St.

Resuming trading after a long weekend due to Lincoln's birthday Wall Street suffered another sharp loss in active trading today. Industrials dropped more than eight points.

AT TORONTO, among base metals, Denison advanced 1½ to 64, Preston 1⅜ to 17¼ and Rio Algom ⅞ to 29½.

In western oils, Scurry-Rainbok dropped 2⅞ to 36⅝ and Dome Pete 1¼ to 49¾. Jefferson Lake gained 1⅜ to 41⅝ and Chieftain Development 85 cents to 7.45.

AT NEW YORK Benguet, the Phillipine gold mine, was by far the most active stock and held a 1-point gain.

Among other active issues, Allis-Chalmers and Howmet were off about 2 while losses exceeding a point were taken by General Time, Standard Oil New Jersey, McDonnell Douglas and Control Data.

Phelps Dodge, IBM, Raytheon and Alcoa held late gains of a point or so.

AT MONTREAL several issues made notable price swings.

Denison Mines, a heavy loser in recent weeks reversed its pattern by climbing 2½ points to 64½ and Oshawa A 1⅝ to 31⅝ on a turnover of 2,614 and 510 shares, respectively.

Senior mines and oils were fractionally higher as Falconbridge Nickel rose ¾ to 96¾, Home Oil A ½ to 20¾ and Husky Oil ¼ to 19½. Central-Del Rio and Shell Oil edged up ⅛ to 17⅜ and 29⅛.

AT LONDON a generally cheerful tone prevailed on the stock market today although some leading industrials gave up a little of their early gains. Gilts were firm and renewed buying resulted in gains of up to ¼.

U.S. dollar stocks were steady but Canadians were easier with International Nickel down 1½ points, West Coast Transmission off 2½ and Consolidated Paper, Hiram Walker and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines each off a point or more.

Canadian banks also dipped and Toronto and Dominion lost 10 shillings and Bank of Nova Scotia four.

The Bank of B.C. put on .50 at $23.50 on trades of only 270 shares.

Arctic, Bethlehem, Dynasty, South Seas and Utica all posted losses in the mines with gains going to Brenda, Churchill, Consolidated, Rexspar, Interprovincial Metals, Lytton and Magnum making gains.

Cominco lost .75 at $23.87; First National Mortgage was off .10 at $4.60. Industrial Acceptance lost .50 at .$19 and Weston "A" was off .37 at $14 Trans Mountain gained .37 at $15.62.

CANADIAN INDUSTRY

Expansion Rate Slowed Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The rate of expansion in almost every field of industrial production slowed down in 1967, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

The DBS index of industrial production showed an increase of 2.7 per cent during 1967, compared with an anual growth rate of 5.7 per cent from 1946 to 1966.

Mining production increased 6.3 per cent, compared with an annual rise of 8.9 per cent through 1964-66. Manufacturing climbed 1.1 per cent, against a 20-year average of 4.9 per cent, and electric power and gas utilities showed an increase of 10.4 per cent, compared with a 1946-66 anual growth rate of 9.6 per cent.

The DBS index climbed to 291.7 last December from 289.2 the previous month.

Late-year increases in durable goods manufacturing and in mining accounted for the advance, the bureau reported.

SPARKS ADVANCE

Motor vehicle production ran 13 per cent ahead of November to spark the advance in the durable goods section. Production of parts and accessories also was higher.

But there was an 8 per cent decline in the non-durable goods section of manufacturing.

One reason was a drop in production of synthetic textiles and silks after an unusually high November level. Another was a fall-off in pulp and paper production because of newspaper strikes in the United States.

Petroleum and natural gas production contributed to a higher level for the mining sector as compared with November. Potash production also contributed to the 3.1 per cent increase in this sector, as one mine that had been closed through most of November through mechanical difficultes came back into stride.

Coal production was 10 per cent lower.

U.S. STRIKE HURTS CANADA

BRAMPTON (CP) — Almost 12,000 men have been laid off and the American Motors plant here has been closed for an indefinite period because of strikes in supplier plants in the United States.

Earl K. Brownridge, president of American Motors Canada Ltd., and Jim Peters, president of American Motors Canada Ltd., and Jim Peters, president of United Auto Workers Local 1285 here, said the layoff, which began after the final shift Friday, was the result of a parts shortage.

Shareholders Approve Labatt Issue

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Shareholders of John Labatt Ltd. Monday approved a new issue of 4,000,000 convertible preferred shares of $18 par each to be used in the acquisition of the common shares of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Ltd. of Montreal.

Labatt last month offered to acquire all outstanding common shares of Ogilvie on the basis of one new preferred share plus $2.10 cash for each Ogilvie share.

Value of the offer, if all Ogilvie's 3,073,753 outstanding common shares are acquired, will be about $61,780,000.

The offer is open until Feb. 26 but it is not binding on Labatt unless at least 60 per cent of the Ogilvie stock is tendered.

Ogilvie shares traded at $19.75 on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday. Labatt president John H. W. Moore told Monday's meeting that Ogilvie's cereals, baking, chemical and dairy interests would integrate well with Labatt's development efforts.

Ogilvie directors have recommended acceptance of the Labatt offer to their shareholders.

Investors Start New Fund For W. Canada

WINNIPEG (CP) — Formation of a new mutual fund company called Provident Stock Fund Ltd. was announced last week by the Investors Group.

C. E. Atchison, investors Group president, said in a press release shares of the new fund will be distributed in the four western provinces by Western Savings and Loan Association, a subsidiary of the Investors Group.

Shareholder's investments will be channelled primarily into quality Canadian common stocks with the initial share price set at $5.43.

"It is an open-end fund and thus there is no limit to the number of shares Canadian investors may purchase."

Shares can be purchased through a lump-sum investment, with a minimum set at $1,000, or through a purchase plan with a minimum monthly payment of $15 over a 10-year period.

Investments will be managed by the Investors Group which now manages assets in excess of $1,400,000,000 including $915,000,000 in mutual fund assets.

Income Tax Tips

By P. J. KELLY

Dept. of National Revenue

Q. I belong to a labor union and pay $200 in union dues each year. Can I claim these as well as the standard deduction of $100?

A. Yes, there is nothing to prevent you from claiming the $200 you paid in union dues and the standard deduction of $100 as well. You should have received a receipt for the allowable part of the union dues and this should be attached to your return.

Q. Is it true that I may give my son, who is farming with me, farm property to the value of $10,000 without attracting gift tax?

A. This is true in certain circumstances. There are many points to be considered in this regard and it may be wise to seek professional advice or submit the details to your taxation office.

Negative Factors Hitting Markets

By AB KENT
Business Editor

February can be a slack month in the British Columbia mining market in the best of years, but this year it seems more than usually discouraging.

Perhaps it is the state of stock markets generally, which with tight money and international bad news reflect a degree of bearishness.

Although the mining market can behave uncharacteristically and independently of the senior markets, there is an ultimate relationship dictated by the availability and price of money and, what is less tangible, market mood.

Kent

Opinions vary somewhat within this general framework, and investment dealers are apt as not to end their remarks with, "It's really very hard to comment at this time," or, "Sorry I can't help . . ."

* * *

One said there is a growing feeling abroad which goes something like, "let's get out (of the market) until this thing settles down."

But there is hopefulness, too. One dealer expects the gloom to lift around spring breakup time, which is when the remote and far northern mining exploration and development ventures begin the new season.

Meanwhile, it seems the flow of company progress reports on the windup of the winter season has negligible effect on the Vancouver market place.

The trend continues to parallel Toronto and New York stock markets.

Some of the negative factors cited here include the bad news coming from the U.S., such as controls on foreign investment to help redress the American balance of payments deficit; a feeling of deep concern in Canada as a result of the U.S. tightening up; disparaging views of Canadian trade and business prospects voiced by some of the financial press; a feeling of disenchantment by Americans about their foreign war, a suspicion of Viet Cong invincibility; greater demand for money than the market can supply.

As to the first point, one dealer said these are aimed directly at Canada's oil, gas, pulp and paper, lumber and space research industries. Whether they are effective remains to be seen.

The above illustration shows better than graphs ever could—in terms any housewife can grasp—what has happened to erode spending power.

In terms of $10 as represented in 1939, a 1967 supermarket would have yielded that little bag of groceries on the right —cost $4.18. Or put another way, what cost $4.18 in 1939 today costs $10.

But the illustration also shows that capital invested in growth stocks can not only keep pace with inflation, it compounds with reinvestment of dividends.

The picture shows that if the 1939 $10 had been deposited with a typical open end investment company it could have been worth that whole shopping cart full of groceries—$73.33 with dividends reinvested.

Even without reinvested dividends the original $10 would have appreciated to a value of $30.65.

* * *

A three-for-two common share split for outstanding shares of Kaiser Steel Corp. will go to the annual stockholder meeting set for March 25 in Oakland, Calif.

A major beneficiary of such a move would be Crows Nest Industries Ltd., which stands to receive 234,234 shares of Kaiser as part payment for turning over its Balmer coal and processing facilities to Kaiser Steel.

It is proposed the 25-cent quarterly dividend be continued after the split, in effect giving sharholders a 50 per cent increase on dividends.

But in fact, CNIL would already be getting the increased dividend if the transaction with Kaiser goes through at the end of this month. Kaiser directors declared a 50 per cent hike in dividend Monday, making the quarterly payment 37½ cents.

So in effect, the common dividend drops back to 25 cents after the split.

U.S. FIRMS PROBED

'Tax Shelter' Plan Possible

NEW YORK (AP) — The U.S. government is reported to be investigating more than 50 U.S. manufacturing companies in connection with a possible tax-evasion scheme in the use of secret trust accounts in Liechtenstein.

A federal judge has issued a contempt order against a lawyer from Liechtenstein, the 62-square-mile principality between Switzerland and Austria.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Stephen E. Kaufman, when asked Monday if the investigation is related to the transfer of U.S. dollars to Europe, said: "It relates to the balance-of-payments problem."

Federal officials indicated that the investigation has dealt with "possible tax shelters abroad" and possibly unreported income. Kaufman said the dollar drain to Liechtenstein worked like this:

Upon a sale by one of the manufacturers involved, the buyer would be asked to make out a large cheque to the company and a smaller cheque. The smaller cheque would be made out to the Liechtenstein account as a commission for services performed. Kaufman contended that no services ever were rendered.

DID NOT APPEAR

The federal grand jury investigation of possible diversion of funds was revealed through an order by U.S. District Court Judge Inzer B. Wyatt holding Alfred Buehler, a lawyer-businessman of Vaduz, Liechtenstein, in contempt of court for not appearing before a grand jury here.

Buehler is reported to have returned to Liechtenstein a year ago despite orders to re-appear before the grand jury with his records.

U.S. Government representatives negotiated with U.S. lawyers representing Buehler in an effort to get him to return. Finally, last Friday, the contempt order was issued.

Kaufman said Buehler is a director of more than 100 trusts in Liechtenstein. At least one of these trusts has received more than $2,000,000 in "commissions" from about 50 U.S. concerns, Kaufman said.

The Liechtenstein trusts were described as similar to banks, but used as holding companies by U.S. businesses. The trusts were said to be similar to secret bank accounts in Switzerland, about which no information is revealed.

Judge Wyatt's order provides that Buehler can purge himself of contempt by appearing before the grand jury next Monday. Failure to appear will make him subject to a fine of $5,000 plus $250 each day after Monday until he appears.

Buehler appeared before a grand jury here Feb. 10, 1967. Kaufman said Buehler was instructed to reappear four days later with his records, but he left the United States.

Direct Sale Of TV Gets BBB Warning

Several direct selling companies operating in the Victoria area are using very questionable tactics, the Better Business Bureau has warned.

Selling color televisions, appliances and furniture, the companies are using a system known as "referral selling."

According to the bureau, the consumer pays $100 down for an item, and signs a contract to pay the remainder at $50 a month.

The consumer then supplies the name of 25 likely purchasers, and the company agrees to grant a $50 bonus for each of these potential customers who buys.

But according to the bureau, "anyone who falls for the bait is in for a bitter disappointment."

Better Business Bureau managing director W. D. Tindall said the sales pitch does not entirely agree with the contracts signed.

"One is a conditional sales contract obliging you to pay 50-odd dollars a month for 24 months.

"It also records that only the conditions of sale specified in the contract are binding on the company. Verbal commitments (such as the bonus offer), are not recognized."

"And an unfortunate part of it," said Mr. Tindall, "is that people who can't afford it get hooked. Those who can afford a $1,000 color TV don't try to buy it this way."

One redeeming factor is that new consumer protection legislation enables the unsophisticated buyer to cancel the contract.

Every Monday morning for the past three or four months the bureau has had seven or eight calls asking how to get out of one of these contracts.

Said Mr. Tindall, "It may be worth considering eliminating the problem at the source by beefing up the trades licence requirements rather than expanding effort on a mopping-up program.

Democratic Party Leftists Give Backing to McCarthy

By GEORGE LARDNER JR.
The Washington Post

WASHINGTON — Brushing aside warnings from organized labor, the liberal hierarchy of Americans for Democratic Action (ADA) voted Saturday to give President Johnson the cold shoulder and endorse Sen. Eugene J. McCarthy for president.

It was a painful moment for the 21-year-old coalition and it was reached only after a long day of debate.

The vote for McCarthy was 65-47.

Washington lawyer Joseph L. Rauh Jr., who led the drive to endorse the Minnesota Democrat, iubilantly called it "a landslide for Gene among the independent liberals."

More than half of the votes against the move, Rauh said, came from labor and "labor-related" members of ADA's prestigious national board.

Implicit in that was the warning that ADA was hurting itself far more than it was helping McCarthy.

'COALITION FINISHED'

Shortly before the vote, Gus Tyler, political director for the international ladies garment workers union and chief drumbeater for the LBJ loyalists, warned that the longstanding liberal-labor coalition that makes up ADA would be "finished" if McCarthy got an endorsement.

But the majority evidently did not agree or did not care. Their opposition to the war in Vietnam was overriding.

The successful resolution, drafted by ADA national chairman John Kenneth Galbraith, protested that the war is not only alarming by itself, but is also "blighting every liberal and progressive program here at home."

As a result, it said, most ADAers "welcome and endorse the candidacy of Sen. Eugene McCarthy. In their view, if one stands up for an idea, one must also stand up for the man who espouses it."

White House special consultant John P. Roche, a past national chairman of ADA and now the president's resident intellectual, promptly confirmed that he was resigning from the organization.

"I don't go on trips into political Disneyland," he told newsmen. "I think the decision has destroyed ADA in its traditional sense—as a coalition of labor, liberals and intellectual people."

Galbraith said he was "sorry to see John go," but added drily that the ADA's stance on Vietnam is "somewhat alien to what he hears in the White House."

ROCHE
. . . he quits

It has been speculated that Vice President Hubert Humphrey, an ADA founder who still holds his membership card, would also feel compelled to resign. Galbraith said he hoped not.

"I think it will be a point with Hubert that we endorsed a Minnesota man," Galbraith said. "What better could we do?"

The crisis pitted labor representatives such as Victor Reuther of the United Automobile Workers (UAW) and the ILGWU's Tyler against ADA luminaries such as former White House aides and Kennedy appointees Arthur Schlesinger Jr. and Richard N. Goodwin, botn of whom voted for McCarthy.

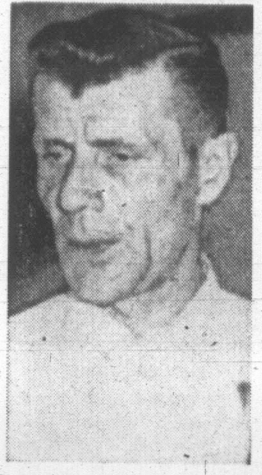
Three Labor Leaders Quit

WASHINGTON (AP) — The presidents of three major U.S. labor unions have quit the Americans for Democratic Action board over its endorsement of Senator Eugene J. McCarthy's presidential bid.

They called the endorsement of the Minnesota Democrat's candidacy ill-considered and an unwarranted repudiation of President Johnson solely on the Vietnam war issue. McCarthy is running in opposition to Johnson's Vietnam policy.

The ADA resignations came Monday from I. W. Abel of the United Steelworkers Union, Louis Stulberg of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union and Joseph A. Beirne of the Communications Workers of America.



MANITOBA Court of Appeal has reduced by five years the 15-year sentence imposed on Charles Heathman, 44, for abduction and indecent assault. Heathman received national attention in 1960 when he was sentenced to hang for the murder of an 11-year-old boy. An appeal court quashed the conviction. After release he made a statement to a newspaper saying he had murdered the boy. The Manitoba court reduced the sentence on the grounds Mr. Justice F. W. Bastin made it known he was familiar with Heathman's past record when sentence was pronounced.

New Cabinet Appointment Stirs Ranks

OTTAWA — Elevation of another Quebec member of parliament to the cabinet in the person of Bryce Mackasey has had repercussions within the Liberal party, it was learned here today.

Prime Minister Pearson was questioned in the Commons Monday about rumors that John Munro, Liberal member of parliament for Hamilton East, and parliamentary secretary to Manpower Minister Marchand had resigned that post. He was reportedly annoyed that he did not get the cabinet promotion.

Mr. Pearson declined to confirm or deny the rumors. He said "when there are changes in the administration they are anounced in the house."

Party sources were busy Tuesday trying to quash the rumors of trouble in the backbenchers. Reporters seeking out Mr. Munro for comment were told he was not available at this time. One party source said Mr. Munro was reported to have talked of resignning as parliamentary secretary but friends were trying to talk him out of any such action.

Mr. Mackasey's appointment raised eyebrows within the Liberal ranks. It gave Quebec a tenth cabinet post. It also gave a third cabinet seat to Quebec's English-speaking minority.

There was surprise that Mr. Pearson would make such a move so close to his retirement from the post of prime minister. He will step down April 6 after the Liberal convention has selected his successor.

Mr. Mackasey has been a blunt and sometime brutally frank critic of government policy. He has aroused the ire more than once of fellow Liberals in the house. He has made no secret of his ambitions to climb to cabinet rank and by his manoeuvres has angered some members of the cabinet.

Defence Cost Near Record In Pay Hike

OTTAWA (CP) — A late bill to cover pay increases has pushed 1967-68 defence costs close to the record year of 1956-57.

The government tabled Monday a supplementary spending estimate for the defence department of $59,269,000 to meet added costs because of pay increases for servicemen and civilians during the current fiscal year ending March 31.

This ran the total defence outlay for the year to $1,747,269,000. At the same time, the government tabled estimates 1968-69 expenditures for the department of $1,723,851,000.

The supplementary estimate for 1967-68 pushed the total bill close to the $1,759,000,000 the department spent in 1956-57, tops since the Second World War.

Officials said the extra $59,000,000 was needed because recruiting intake was "unexpectedly high" last summer.

There also was a lower release rate than expected and civilian salaries edged upward.

Hotel Fire Kills 4

ACAPULCO, Mexico (AP)—Fire that started in a night club packed with winter vacationers swept the lower floors of the beachfront Hotel Majestic Sunday. Four persons including a Quebec woman were reported killed and more than 20 injured. Many persons jumped into the surf of Acapulco Bay from lower floors of the hotel, whose six terraced levels slope out over the water of this Pacific coast resort.

Hate-Literature Ban to Be Aired

OTTAWA (CP) — A special Senate committee will open public hearings Wednesday on a controversial government bill amending the Criminal Code to restrict circulation of hate-literature, Senator J. Harper Prouse (L—Saskatchewan) announced today.

Senator Prouse said the committee will first study the framework of laws to ban hate-literature, then hear from a committee of lawyers who studied the subject intensively three years ago, and receive briefs from public bodies on the subject.

Senator Prouse, the committee's chairman, said senators will have to come to grips with a conflict between restrictive measures designed to protect the right of groups from attack on color, race or ethnic origin, and measures to protect freedom of speech.

The government's bill was introduced in the Senate last year and given second reading, approval in principle. It was drafted on the basis of a report from a committee of experts headed by Maxwell Cohen, dean of law at McGill University.

The Cohen committee recommended laws for the prosecution of persons who wilfully promote hatred against groups identifiable by reason of color, race, ethnic origin, or religion. The bill, however, does not include religion.

Nancy Gets Her Medal; Misses Gold by Flicker

French Star Takes Slalom; Swedish Skier Wins Again

By BRUCE LEVETT
Canadian Press Sports Editor

GRENOBLE (CP)—Nancy Greene, of Rossland, B.C., missed winning a gold medal by just a flicker today, but she got her medal—a second-place silver one that was the first for Canada in the 10th Winter Olympic Games.

Marielle Goitschel of France beat the 24-year-old Canadian skiing star by only 29-100ths of a second to win the women's slalom gold medal in one minute, 25.86 seconds.

Miss Greene zig-zagged over two runs in 1:26.15. The little tiger of the Canadian women's team was a disappointed 10th in the downhill Saturday and was determined to win a medal this time.

Nancy also gave Canada its first points of the Games, five in the unofficial team system of scoring based on 10-5-4-3-2-1 for the first six placings in each event.

Another French woman, Annie Famose, won the third-place bronze, giving the French a major share of the medals in the four Alpine skiing events completed.

Jean-Claude Killy of France took both gold in the men's downhill and giant slalom and a Swedish Nordic skier joined him today as a double gold winner.

Toini Gustafsson, a 29-year-old gymnastics teacher, sped to victory in the women's five-kilometre - 3⅛ - mile-cross-country race in 16 minutes, 45.2 seconds.

The Swedish woman four days ago won the longer 10-kilometre-6½-mile event, and her double win enabled the Swedes to dethrone the Russians as the top women Nordic skiers.

Claudia Boyarskikh of Russia was a double gold winner in the two events four years ago at the Innsbruck Games.

The two skiing races were the only medal finals on today's program.

France moved to the top of the medal standing after winning the skiing gold and bronze today with three gold, two silver and two bronze. Norway, Sweden, The Netherlands and Italy have won two gold apiece. Seven other countries have one gold each.

Hot Runners Put Freeze on Team

The first big rhubarb of the Games hit the luge racing championships in Villard de Lans when the entire East German women's team was disqualified for illegally heating their sled runners.

The East German women, including defending champion Ortrun Enderlein, had been first, second and fourth after today's third heat. Miss Enderlein held first place by only two-hundredths of a second.

But her total clocking of 2:28.04 for the third heats was cancelled as were those of runner-up Anna Marie Mueller and Angela Knoesel.

Erica Lechner of Italy, third after three heats, was placed in the top spot with an aggregate time of 2:28.66, and two West Germans, Christa Schmuck and Angelika Duenhaupt, placed second and third.

Linda Bocock of Ste. Sauveur des Montes, Que., was 12th with a combined clocking of 2:32.46 in the field of 21.

Rising temperatures forced postponement of the fourth heat at least until Wednesday. The 1,000-metre course had softened too much to continue racing.

The drama of the slalom event was heightened by the bad luck that hit the U.S. team.

All four Americans in the race were disqualified for falls or missing gates including 16-year-old Judy Nagel who held the lead over Miss Goitschel and Miss Greene after the first run. Judy was on the course only nine seconds during the second run when she took a tumble.

Nancy Sorry for American Skiers

While cracking the medal column for Canada for the first time in 17 events completed at the Games, Miss Greene said she thought she could have done better.

"It was a very hard race," she said. "I hoped to do well and I did, but I still could have done better."

Nancy said she felt sorry for the Americans, particularly Miss Nagel, and she attributed their failure to inexperience.

"I was especially sorry for Judy Nagle because she was very nervous at the start of the second run.

"The psychological pressure in the slalom is tremendous. You know that if you make a mistake you can't make it up as you can in the giant slalom or perhaps even in the downhill."

The race was held under cloudy skies but the visibility was good and there was virtually no wind as 49 skiers started.

Isabelle Mir of France, silver medallist in the downhill, started first and sig-zagged down in 42.14 seconds. That finished her and she could do no better than fifth over-all.

Then came Nancy. She sped the first half in 41.45—the third-best time. Miss Goitschel was second with 40.27—just 8-100ths of a second behind Miss Nagel, the leader with 40.19.

NOW OR NEVER

Miss Greene knew it had to be now or never when she began the second run. She clocked 44.70 seconds, the best time of that run. But Miss Goitschel still was able to turn in the second-best time of 45.59 and that won the race for her.

"This is the title I wanted to win most in the world," said Miss Goitschel.

"I was getting tired of being second," said Marielle, who was the runner-up to her sister, Christine, in the Olympic slalom four years ago and second to Miss Famose in the 1966 world championships. She won the 1964 Olympic and world giant slaloms, however.

Miss Famose today got the bronze with a total time of 1:27.89. Her runs were 42.21 and 45.68 seconds.

Gina Hawthorn of Britain was fourth in 1:27.92. Miss Mir and Burgl Faerbinger of West Germany rounded out the top six. Olga Pall of Austria, the downhill winer, was ninth.

Miss Greene was grinning when she finished her second run and her time announced on the loudspeaker.

Nancy, who rated her performance in the downhill Saturday as "the worst day in my life," was asked how she would rank this day.

"I don't know," she said. "I haven't had my best day yet. "I hope it comes in the giant slalom."

VICTORY . . .

Twisting down slope at Chamrousse today, Marielle Goitschel of France heads for gold medal in women's slalom event. She finished with slim margin over Canada's Nancy Greene.

NEW GARDEN OPENS

Astrodome East Assured of Ice

NEW YORK (AP) — The stockholders can rest easy. The new Madison Square Garden makes ice.

Emile Francis, general manager-coach of New York Rangers, is a stickler for details and he decided to make sure his team would have something to skate on when they make their first appearance in their new home Sunday.

So, Francis ordered a rare Monday evening workout after a tough three-games-in-four-nights stretch. He seemed satisfied with the structure and its one-quarter-inch layer of ice afterwards.

"It was our only chance to get the feel of it," said Francis. "I didn't want to have them playing on it without at least one practice on it."

Then Francis winked.

"Besides, I wanted to make sure we wouldn't wind up with a swimming pool when we turned the water on."

HOPE IN 'FIGHT'

The building was opened Sunday night with Bob Hope dubbing the handsome new Garden "Astrodome East," a reference to the glass-covered stadium in Houston, Tex.

The only indication during two hours of lavish entertainment that the Garden will sometimes be used for athletic contests came when a fight ring was set up and into it climbed Rocky Marciano—and Hope. Their "fight" ended in a waltz, during which a couple of men from the audience climbed into the ring and cut in on the dance. The audience recognized Jack Dempsey and Gene Tunney.

The show also featured Bing Crosby and Pearl Bailey.

Old Garden Held Plenty of Talent

NEW YORK (AP) — The greatest array of hockey talent ever gathered under one roof assembled Sunday to bid farewell to the old Madison Square Garden.

Ceremonies held before the regular New York-Detroit National Hockey League game—final sporting event in the old building — brought together a host of former Ranger and other NHL greats.

MANY STARS PRESENT

To mark the end of the old building, Garden officials invited members of every NHL first All Star team since 1930 as well as members of the original Rangers to participate in closing ceremonies.

Reunited were two of the NHL's great lines—the Cook brothers, Bill and Bun, and Frank Boucher, who starred with the original Rangers, and Detroit's production line of Ted Lindsay, Sid Abel and Gordie Howe. Howe, still active with the Red Wings, is hockey's all time high scorer.

Others on hand for a final spin around the Garden ice included Montreal's dynamic Maurice Rocket Richard and goalies Jacques Plante and Bill Durnan. It was Plante who introduced the goal-tender's mask on the Garden ice a decade ago.

Win Streak Ended By Mount Douglas

All good things must come to an end.

League-leading Oak Bay was defeated Monday 38-25 by Mount Douglas to end an eight-game unbeaten streak in the Inter-High School Girls' Basketball League.

Mount Douglas had won only two games in eight previous starts and now holds down fourth place.

With the Bays losing at home, Claremont girls were given the long-shot opportunity of moving into a first-place tie after winning 38-24 at Mount View and climbing within two points of Oak Bay.

Results of Wednesday's games will determine the league championship.

ODDS FAVOR BAYS

Oak Bay still has the odds in its favor with the final game against cellar-dwelling Mount View. Claremont has to finish its schedule against third-place Victoria which won the other game Monday, 33-14, against Esquimalt.

Jacquie Farris managed to equal the 12 points of Mount Douglas' Lynn Miller, but the Bays suffered from the loss of top-scorer Maureen Wills, who missed the game because of illness.

Sox Pitcher Regains Shoe

The Boston Red Sox' ace right-hander had a smaller cast placed on his left leg Monday, then donned a sock and shoe for the first time in six weeks and cast aside his crutches.

"They told me I'd be in a cast for about eight weeks, and if all goes well, I'll have it removed Feb. 21, right on schedule," he said.

U.S. Side Wins World Cup Title

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Accurate kicking by Les Williams carried California's rugby team to a 23-12 triumph over University of British Columbia Monday and a 42-21 victory for the two-game World Cup championship.

It was Cal's seventh straight title in the World Cup a two-game series originated in 1947.

Williams, who accounted for 10 points in California's 19-9 win Saturday, accumulated 17 Monday.

Peninsula Loop Slates Jamboree

More than 160 young players are expected to hit the floor at Mount Newton High School this weekend as the Peninsula Basketball League stages its annual "jamboree."

League champions will be declared in the two-day program. Games will start at 6:30 p.m. Friday and continue all day Saturday, with finals scheduled Saturday night.

Brash Jean-Claude Once Had Trouble Staying on His Skis

By WILL GRIMSLEY

CHAMROUSSE, France (AP)—Jean-Claude Killy, lionized after winning his second skiing gold medal, was reminded today that President de Gaulle would be on hand Saturday to watch him try for the rare Olympic grand slam in the men's slalom.

"Will that make you nervous?" a reporter asked at the hectic press conference following the French ace's victory in the giant slalom.

Jean-Claude threw back his head and laughed heartily.

"No, not at all," he replied. "I think General de Gaulle will be more nervous than I."

It is the trademark of this rugged, handsome Frenchman, whose derring-do on the Alpine slopes of Chamrousse has turned him from a national idol into a semi-god and made him the outstanding personality of the 10th Winter Olympic Games.

Killy is brash and cocky. But he is loaded with charm—an easy, confident manner that characterizes most great champions.

The 24-year-old daredevil of the slopes—nicknamed Toutoun for no apparent reason—feels sure he can pull off the triple Alpine sweep of winning the downhill, giant slalom and special slalom as Austria's famed Toni Sailer did in 1956.

A chill has developed here between the great Austrian racer of 12 years ago and his recklessly bold heir-apparent who has rewritten the book on skiing tactics.

Killy Mobbed by Admirers

Sailer, now a wealthy ski industrialist, is around as an observer, rubbing whenever possible some of the glitter from Killy's achievements.

"I don't think Killy can do it," Sailer said before the Games began. "He has too much pressure on him. Besides, he has passed his peak." He also said the slalom courses had been made easier since his day.

Killy struck back in the interview.

"I think in winning two gold medals I already have matched Sailer's feat in 1956," the young Frenchman said. "If I should win the slalom, it would be a much greater achievement.

"In the slalom, Sailer had to make only one descent. I must make two. To win the special slalom, I must race four times—two qualification runs in addition to the two official runs. It is much more difficult."

Killy is an exponent of the hara-kiri, or suicide, style of racing. He is unorthodox. He violated almost every rule of style in the book. He leans back on his skis sometimes.

The ski shop owner from nearby Val d'Isere is the unquestioned king of Alpine skies. He won the world downhill and combined titles at Portillo, Chile, in 1966, and was unchallenged in World Cup competition last year. Although he had an early season slump, he is leading world standings this year.

His is the story of a battle against tremendous odds. When he first started competitive skiing, he was so uncoordinated that he spilled repeatedly.

In the 1964 Olympics at Innsbruck, Killy was fifth in the slalom but was disqualified in the giant slalom and 42nd in the downhill.

"I got very discouraged," Killy said. "Once I broke both legs. I got so I couldn't finish a race. I couldn't keep from falling. But I worked it out."

The handsome French star has announced plans for retirement after this year.

Mott Collects Puck Dividend

GRENOBLE, France (CP) — Morris Mott made an investment six months ago that started paying dividends in the form of goals for Canada at the Olympic hockey tournament.

He invested time. He turned up early at the rookie training camp for the national hockey team last August.

"I decided to go to camp early and concentrate on my shooting," the University of Manitoba history student said in an interview. "I kept at it all season and just lately I feel confident out there that I can hit pretty close to wherever I want."

GOALIE PAINS

"I got off about three good shots in the game against the Americans, but their goaler was just too fast," Mott, a three-year veteran, said in reference to Canada's 3-2 squeaker over the United States Sunday.

Huck, 22-year-old political science student, has three goals and three assists. Cadieux, 26, Winnipeg-based chartered accountant, has three goals—two scored against the U.S. including the winner—and an assist.

Canada faced the Czechs today after Russia played Sweden. They were the only games scheduled in the championship competition.

RUSSIANS LEAD

Russia, Czechoslovakia and Sweden lead the tournament with 4-0 won-lost records. Canada is in fourth place. The top three are tied in points—eight. Canada has six from victories over West Germany 6-1, East Germany 11-0 and the Americans. The Canadians lost to Finland 5-2.

In Monday's Group A play, the Czechs defeated East Germany 10-3, Sweden beat Finland 5-1, and the U.S. won its first game after four straight losses to the top four clubs, crushing West Germany 8-1. Canada and Russia were idle.

The first three Czech wins were by 5-1 scores against the U.S. and West Germany and 4-3 against Finland.

The Russians blanked Finland 8-0 and East Germany 9-0, and trimmed the Americans 10-2 and the West Germans 9-1.

Sweden took the measure of the U.S. 4-3, West Germany 5-4 and East Germany 5-2.

English Named New Boxla Boss

Former Victoria player Tom English is the new commissioner of the Inter-City Lacrosse League.

English, now a Vancouver lawyer who is on the faculty of the University of B.C., was appointed at Vancouver Sunday to fill the position left vacant by the resignation of George Wainborne.

Currently general manager of the Vancouver club, English will resign that position in order to take over the commissioner's post.

The new commissioner may have a sticky problem to settle during his first week in office with Ralph Douglas, owner of the Coquitlam Adanacs, eager to move a team to Portland this season.

Vancouver is believed supporting the proposal for a quick shift south while New Westminster officials are reported as undecided and that may leave Victoria Shamrocks with the important voice when English makes a decision on Portland.

Shamrocks held a meeting on the proposal Monday night and have informed English they are not in favor of a move this season.

While believing that moving a team to Portland may be advantageous, Shamrock officials feel there has not been enough preparation for the move and suggest it be postponed until next year.

Shamrocks believe it would be advisable to start building a league fund this year with which to support expansion to Portland in 1969 and perhaps to Seattle the following year.

"We feel it isn't possible to make as large a move in such a short time and do it right," said a Shamrock spokesman.

Redgrave Takes Angling Trophy

Members of the Chinook Club of the VSIAA will hold their monthly "frostbite" derby Sunday, Feb. 18, from daybreak until 2 p.m. Prize presentations will be at the Anglers-Anchorage.

PRESS CENTRE RESTAURANT . . . . . . IS TALK OF GRENOBLE

Gourmet Dishes at Cafeteria Prices

GRENOBLE (AP) — If the 2,000 reporters covering the Winter Olympics had a gold medal to award, it would be to the dapper, pencil-moustached Frenchman who provides their food.

The press centre restaurant is the talk of Grenoble. Guards have to check press credentials at the entrance to keep out athletes or sports officials looking for something better than the frugal fare served in the Olympic Village a mile away.

The organizer of this culinary splurge is Roger A. Verge, whose restaurant on the French Riviera has long been a landmark for connoisseurs of French food.

With the help of the French government and the Olympic organizing committee, Verge has brought his fabulous and expensive dishes to Grenoble—at cafeteria prices.

"If this were a commercial operation, I would go broke by now," he said. "Or I would have to charge $10 a person."

For $3, journalists are given six-course meals that sound like a gourmet's dream.

Such dishes as guinea-fowl with truffles, salmon trout in parsley sauce, braised duckling a l'orange and lobster thermidor are common-place to Verge. They leave many of the journalists speechless with admiration.

TEE TOPICS

By Ernie Fedoruk

But the Royal Canadian Golf Association governors, meeting in Winnipeg at the weekend, voted to reduce the prize value—for amateurs—to $100 from $200.

The action, effective immediately, follows similar decisions taken by the Royal and Ancient Golf Club and the U.S. Golf Association.

The vote in Winnipeg was close. The governors shared mixed feelings on the matter, debated long and strenuously.

But if a golfer feels he has just been jilted out of $100, he can blame his American neighbors and, to a lesser degree, United Kingdom golfers.

The ticklish prize situation has not been a great problem in Canada. It's a different story in the States.

There was a case, recently, of one sponsor in the U.S. purchasing a great supply of stereo sets. They retailed in the $400-plus range, but the buyer paid approximately $195 for each radio because it was a bulk sale.

The USGA asked questions, but couldn't take any action. Deals of that nature prompted the move to lower-valued prizes.

. . . scored winner

By The Canadian Press

When Toronto Maple Leafs started their annual road trek January 28, manager-coach Punch Imlach said it would be a period of decision for last year's Stanley Cup champions.

It has, but not the way Imlach expected. At that time, his club was in a three-way tie one point behind Montreal Canadiens, leaders of the Eastern Division of the National Hockey League.

The professional ice show that displaced the Leafs from Maple Leaf Gardens now is gone and the club returns home Wednesday to take on Montreal. But instead of being in the thick of the championship battle, Toronto is fighting for dear life to make the playoffs at all.

They played seven games in the period, winning only the first and then managing only a tie the rest of the way.

The final ignominy was saved for the last as they dropped their final road game in the series 2-0 to Los Angeles Kings Monday. They lost 4-3 Sunday to Oakland Seals.

EX-LEAFS HURT

And to make matters worse, players who once were Toronto property figured prominently in both losses.

Eddie Joyal scored the final goal Monday with Howie Menard opening scoring in the first period.

Joyal, who grew up in the Detroit Red Wings farm system, was a Leaf in 1965-66 and 1966-67. The goal was his 13th of the year and his fourth against Toronto, which can boast only an 8-9-2 won-lost-tied record against expansion teams this season.

Sunday in Oakland, the Seals got two goals from Charlie Burns and one from John Brenneman as well as outstanding goaltending from Gary Smith, all former Leaf property.

The goalies were outstanding again Monday with Wayne Rutledge flawless on 31 Toronto drives, including a goal by Andre Hinse that was called back in the third period because it was scored after a whistle.

IMLACH UPSET

So upset at the showing of his players was Imlach that he ordered them back on to the ice this morning for a two-hour session before taking them back to Toronto.

The Leafs have only one victory to show for their last nine games, and now have the chore of trying to catch the four playoff-bound eastern teams ahead of them.

HERE WEDNESDAY

New Fullbacks Bolster Royals

Coach Ferenc Puskas said he was satisfied with the performance of his Vancouver Royals at Seattle Sunday as the North American Soccer League club edged Bonsucesso of Brazil 1-0 in a pre-season exhibition match.

However, the famed former Hungarian and Spanish international added that he was expecting even better things Wednesday night at Royal Athletic Park, when the two clubs clash again, this time under lights at 7:30.

Yugoslavian import Vladimir Pavkovic produced the wining goal for the Royals, heading home a corner kick from England's Pat O'Conell at 25 minutes of the second half.

Both teams earned several good scoring chances and it took some spectacular goaltending to hold forwards to a single tally.

BRILLIANT GOALIE

Chris Varnavas, the brilliant 20-year-old keeper from Cyprus, and Garry DeLong, 22, former member of the U.S. Olympic team who took over from Varnavas in the second half, both made several fine saves.

Equally as efficient were Brazilian netminders Jonas de Paula and Jose Carlos Gomez, who went in for the second half after de Paula suffered a knee injury.

Generating the most excitement in the Vancouver ranks were Cheung Chi Doy and Cheung Chi Wai, a pair of Chinese brothers from Hong Kong who displayed remarkable ball manipulation on the forward line.

FROM 10 COUNTRIES

Two more fullbacks from England—Peter Dinsdale (Huddersfield) and Bob Cram (West Bromwich) arrived Monday at the Richmond training camp of the Royals, giving Puskas 23 players from 10 countries from which to select his team.

Royals and Bonsucesso, both engaged in pre-season training, meet again at Vancouver Saturday.

Royals also have an exhibition game scheduled Feb. 25 at Empire Stadium again the powerful Racing Club of Argentina while Bonsucesso, due to open its league season March 8, continues a 10-game training tour at San Salvador next week.

Richmond Curlers Win Playoff

VANCOUVER (CP) — The Bob McCubbin rink from Richmond Monday won the right to represent British Columbia in the national curling championship at Kelowna March 4-9.

The McCubbin foursome of Jack Tucker, Ted Trimble and Keith Issac defeated Kevin Smale's rink from Prince George in two straight games of a best-of-three playoff.

McCubbin, who represented the Coast division, defeated Interior representative Smale 8-6 in the afternoon game, then edged him 11-10 in the night contest in an extra end.

Bantam Title To Esquimalt

NANAIMO — Esquimalt won the two-game, total-goal playoff for the Vancouver Island bantam hockey title, despite losing the second game 5-4 here Monday.

Nanaimo dropped the first game 6-2 in Esquimalt to give the champions a series total of 10-7.

Esquimalt now meets the winner of the mainland playoffs in Esquimalt Sports Centre, Feb. 17 and 18, in a two-game, total-goal series for the Pacific Coast championship.

BOTTLES BATTER CRICKET CAPTAIN

KINGSTON (CP)—A violent demonstration—an almost unprecedented occurrence in the gentlemanly sport of cricket—broke up a test match in Jamaica Monday between West Indies and England.

Irate fans so disrupted the usually placid scene on the green cricket pitch that riot police had to be called and tear gas was used to break up the demonstrations.

Naturally, the test was suspended. Play did not resume until six minutes after the tea interval.

Six demonstrators were taken to hospital for treatment after the incident which erupted following disputed decision against batsman Basil Butcher, a local hero.

When Butcher, who had 25 runs at that stage was dismissed, fans showered the field with bottles—showing their disapproval of a ruling that their hero had been caught out behind the wicket by Jim Parks off the bowling of Basil d'Oliveira.

Two of the bottles struck England captain Colin Cowdrey on the legs as he appealed for calm.

Riot police moved in to break up the demonstration and the mob appeared to calm, but then new violence erupted and the police opened fire with tear gas.

As the situation got out of hand the game—a second test match—was suspended.

The local crowd were angered as the home side headed for apparent defeat in the Test.

The West Indies, trailing badly on the first innings, had lost four second innings wickets when the trouble started. However, they fought back to avoid an innings defeat. Needing 233 in their second innings to make England bat again, West Indies was 258 for five wickets at the close.

Crothers Tops Record

Bill Crothers of Markham, Ont., won the men's 880 metres in 1:57.6, shaving five seconds off the local track record.

Miss Hoffman, of Toronto, had a time of 2:13.8.

'TO HELL WITH CANADIANS'

Pickets Slap 'Foreign' Ship

NANAIMO — Mystery pickets failed Monday in an hour-long attempt to halt loading of the giant new lumber carrier H. R. MacMillan.

But there is speculation the pickets will try again when the Japanese-built vessel stops at Port Alberni today.

The 28,500-ton ship slipped into her berth at Nanaimo's assembly wharf at 4 a.m. Monday. But longshoremen had started work before the 10 pickets appeared.

Their presence failed to have any effect other than to emphasize the ship had been built in Japan while Victoria's shipbuilding industry was going on the rocks.

'SOLD DOWN RIVER'

A pamphlet handed out by pickets stated: "Again the Canadian people, particularly the Canadian workers, have been sold down the river for the sake of the almighty dollar."

Pickets said shipbuilding and operation is being carried out by foreigners, suggesting the attitude is "to hell with Canadians."

The H. R. MacMillan, named after the timber magnate, was launched Oct. 31 in Mitsibushi, Japan. She was turned over to a CPR subsidiary company on Jan. 26.

FIRST OF THREE

The huge vessel is the first of three sister ships.

The second, the J. V. Clyne, was launched Feb. 3 and will be delivered to the CPR at the end of April. She was named after the chairman and chief executive of MacMillan-Bloedel.

The third ship will be ready some time next year.

The new ships will open a new era in pulp and lumber shipping for Nanaimo with their huge open hatches and gantry cranes designed to handle 18 tons.

LEASED

They will be leased from Canadian Pacific by Canadian Transport Co., a subsidiary of MacMillan-Bloedel.

The 594-foot-long, 95-foot-wide ship is pushed at 14.7 knots by 10,500-horsepower engines.

The vessel, almost twice the size of a football field, will be loading at Port Alberni for a week, then will sail for Crofton Feb. 21 for further loading.

PHOSPHATES

She will deliver to the United Kingdon and then come back to this continent to pick up phosphates at Jacksonville, Florida, for Port Moody.

Company officials are expecting the ship to increase efficiency.

And her captain, R. B. Brown, formerly of the Empress of Canada, said that ships will need a new officer—an electronics officer—as they become an important part of the technological age.

CBC to Cost More

OTTAWA (CP) — The CBC radio and television service will cost Canadians about $7.70 a head in the 1968-69 fiscal year.

Spending estimates tabled in the Commons Monday put the operating cost of the corporation at $154,200,000, up from $144,000,000 in the current fiscal year ending March 31.

Announce New Healing Substance... Shrinks Piles, Checks Itch

A renowned research institute has found a unique healing substance with the ability to shrink hemorrhoids painlessly. It relieves itching and discomfort in minutes and speeds up healing of the injured, inflamed tissues.

One hemorrhoidal case history after another reported "very striking improvement." Pain was promptly and gently relieved . . . actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place.

Among these case histories were a variety of hemorrhoidal conditions. Relief even occurred in cases of long standing, and most important of all, results were so thorough that this improvement was maintained over a period of many months.

This was accomplished with a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne) which quickly helps heal injured cells and stimulates growth of new tissue. Bio-Dyne is offered in ointment and suppository form called Preparation H.

In addition to actually shrinking hemorrhoids, Preparation H lubricates and makes elimination less painful. It helps prevent infection which is a principal cause of hemorrhoids.

Roadside Law Under Fire From Council

Aldermen criticized Attorney-General Bonner's proposed roadside law for violators.

Council will seek the support of the Union of B.C. Municipalities and neighboring municipalities. A protest will be sent to Mr. Bonner.

Mr. Bonner's plan calls for the issuing of tickets to speeders and like offenders and subsequent suspension of their driver's licence for repeated offences.

Mayor Jim Quaife said: "It won't hurt traffic offenders enough to make them stop.

HURTS MAJORITY

"The attorney-general's plan is a detriment to the majority of the driving public.

"Offenders should be hit hard financially and if that fails they should be jailed."

Ald. Jim Saunders said: "I feel we have been going backward for years. You've got to hit the pocketbook to stop these offenders."

Ald. Martin Lukaitis said he can't understand Mr. Bonner's soft line when traffic fatalities are on the increase. Fines should be doubled instead of eliminated.

Mayor Quaife said: "I think he's trying to ease the load on the courts but those breaking the law should pay for it."

Ald. Rois Harder said it is a foolhardy thing to take the reins off teen-agers keen to have fun with cars.

LOGGER CONVICTED

He was acquitted of actually accomplished the act.

Louis Daniel Taylor, a logger of 722 Bruce, was remanded for sentence until Friday at 11 a.m.

He was convicted on the lesser charge by a jury of 10 men and two women who deliberated three hours.

Taylor was said to have attempted intercourse with the girl December 8. The girl testified that at one time she began to cry and Taylor told her to "keep quiet."

Man Found Guilty Of Pointing Gun

DUNCAN — Harold Leader, Duncan, was remanded to Feb. 28 for sentence after being found guilty Monday of pointing a firearm at Kenneth Wayne Braulin.

Court was told the incident happened in a cafe parking lot in December.

PASSENGER FAIRLY GOOD AFTER CRASH

RCMP said William Doggett, 23, was injured Friday morning on Nanoose Flats section of the Island Highway when the car he was travelling in skidded while passing another car and swerved into a ditch. It turned over and struck a power pole.

$30,000 EXPENDITURE NEEDED

'Something Will Be Done' To End Flooding—Quaife

By DON DINGWALL

DUNCAN — Correcting the flooding problem in Centennial Heights subdivision may cost $30,000.

But Mayor Jim Quaife Monday gave a residents' delegation an assurance "something will be done."

He held out little hope of the city paying compensation to householders affected by January flooding.

Delegation spokesman Ralph McMurdo had asked city council for compensation and a plan to solve the annual problem.

Mayor Quaife said North Cowichan has agreed to work on a tentative plan to divert the surface flood water to the Cowichan River.

The water which flooded homes on Arbutus Avenue and Cedar Place came from higher ground in the municipality.

Mayor Quaife said: "Our drainage is adequate to carry away the water it was designed to meet and I don't thing we can be held responsible for flooding resulting from eight inches of snow and two and a half inches of rain in a nine-hour period."

COST-SHARING

Ald. James Saunders said it is now a question of working out a cost-sharing basis with North Cowichan.

And Mayor Quaife gave the delegation the further assurance he sees no reason why the diversion work can't be done this summer.

Ron Barnes spoke for residents of the Townsite and asked if flood prevention plans might include the city building up some of the properties in the Marchmont Road area.

Mr. Barnes said residents are still waiting for the fire department to heed a request to wash mud deposits off the streets.

He asked council for a check to be made on possible health hazards from stinking fish and other matter left in gutters after the river flooded in January.

Mayor Quaife said unfortunately there had been opposition from fisheries department and Lake Cowichan sources to a proposed government scheme of dredging and diking.

He said he believed his council favored the plan and hoped the government would take the first step as dredging and diking could solve the problem in the lower reaches of the river.

Meantime city council will continue its own diking program.

"However, the cost of diking is so high that without government help we can only do a little each year," said Ald. Saunders.

Millwright Apprentices Finish Course

They were the first apprentices to complete the formalized training program which began in 1964 at the Crofton mill of B.C. Forest Products Ltd.

It followed two years of planning and talks by Pulp and Paper Workers of Canada local 2 and BCFP.

The plan is operated in conjunction with the B.C. government apprenticeship branch.

Each year an apprentice must spend one or two months at the B.C. Vocational School in Burnaby.

Health Grants Big Chance, Perrault Tells Legislature

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

The provincial government should use federal medicare subsidies to reduce its premiums and to help families with high monthly prescription drug bills, Liberal Leader Ray Perrault said Monday.

"We want a commitment on this today," he told the legislature.

But, outside the House, Premier Bennett dodged questions of reporters.

Asked if he would give an assurance that B.C. will participate in the national medicare plan, the premier said it was impossible to say what the federal government plan will be until a successor to Prime Minister Pearson defines it.

"They should close the House, hold their convention and call an election," Mr. Bennett said of the federal Liberal government.

Mr. Perrault, during a two-hour speech, said the printed text of Premier Bennett's budget speech carried 59 color illustrations, misleading information and "is little more than a political tract."

He said despite predicting a 15 per cent increase to establish record revenues, the budget will not reform any of the school, hospital and municipal financing formulas causing serious problems.

Tax reductions should have been planned but instead Premier Bennett intends to increase his accumulated surplus to "at least $171 million" by the end of this year.

"With the possibility of an election in 1969, the premier is determined to withhold as much money as possible from essential services in order to assemble a record surplus for his political objectives," Mr. Perrault charged.

Hospitals Short-Changed

He said no major breakthrough in provision of chronic or acute care hospital beds is in sight because the government has systematically short-changed hospitals of the sales tax increase (from 3 to 5 per cent) promised for their benefit by Premier Bennett in 1954.

He said in the current fiscal year, the province has allocated $12 million less than the $66 million sales tax share due hospital construction and, since these funds are matched by Ottawa, thereby "underspent our hospital program by almost $25 million in the current fiscal year."

He said between 1958 and 1969, the sales tax projection shows $1.3 billion will have been collected of which $530 million rightfully should go to hospitals.

But the government actually was allocating almost $99 million less than this to hospitals during the period.

He said there will be no breakthrough in classroom construction under the new budget and "a cold wind will blow in September and October for 12,000 youngsters whose classrooms won't be ready."

Dumping of Welfare Charged

Mr. Perrault said the proposed uniform $25 per capita grant to municipalities is a step forward but the province simultaneously "is marching firmly backwards" by adding social welfare responsibilities on to local government and "opting out of the urban transportation expenses around the corner."

He said it is significant the Economic Council of Canada had warned social welfare costs will rocket upwards in the next few years "and it will be worst in B.C. now that we have the highest unemployment rate in Canada."

It was to saddle civic government with these costs that the budget raised local government share of social welfare from 10 to 20 per cent, he said, claiming expenses will quickly outstrip the per capita grant increases.

Mr. Perrault read a ferry employees' union newsletter dated last Jan. 23 which assured members the ferry authority management had given its word there were no layoffs coming.

"The members of this House and the members of the ferry service have the right to know who intervened . . . who made the telephone call to refute the management assurance," he declared.

The Liberal leader said that government officials "had the almighty gall" to advise laid off ferry workers to maintain their government pension payments "after they've been kicked out on the street without a dime of unemployment insurance.

Ferry Men Lack Security

"This government has $150 million in its surplus account but can't even provide job security for 160 men on the ferries."

He attacked Premier Bennett's "utter hypocrisy" in drinking grapefruit juice while his government plans to increase liquor profits by $7 million and the grant to the Alcoholism Foundation by only $70,000.

"In other words, 10 cents out of every $100 sales of liquor is going to be used to fight the evils of alcohol," said Mr. Perrault.

"As the premier takes his $100 bills down to the bank he'll probably meet on the street some poor fellow asking 'Brother, Can You Spare a Dime?'—that's how bad it is."

Mr. Perrault said the federal government in the last fiscal year spent $400 million in B.C. on individuals, municipalities, universities and the provincial government but Mr. Bennett carries on a deliberate campaign to suppress the fact.

He said this tactic could hardly strengthen the province's demands for better treatment.

He said the premier's performance at last week's constitutional conference had "humiliated" the province and demonstrated that he was opposed to any measure that would strengthen Confederation.

"Not only does our group wish to place on record our disappointment with (his) performance at the conference, we suggest that the attitude exemplified by the Social Credit delegation did not and does not represent the opinion of the people of British Columbia," he said.

ing with Mr. Gaglardi in the afternoon.

CAMPBELL THERE

Mr. Campbell was present at a closed meeting of Kamloops city council last fall, during which Mr. Gaglardi spoke in favor of the Del Cielo development.

Questioned by reporters Monday, Mr. Campbell said his department still has not given its required approval to a Del Cielo application for rezoning of the property at the Merritt-Kamloops junction.

And he said his department will not consider recent revelations that a highway department foreman painted the signs for the Del Cielo Investments company which seeks the rezoning.

Mr. Campbell said a public hearing on Del Cielo's application for commercial, industrial and residential zoning of the undeveloped land at the junction was held Oct. 27 by his department.

PLANNING AREA

The hearing was held automatically because the junction, two miles south of Kamloops, is within a community planning area established by the department.

Provincial building inspector Walter Broening heard more than 30 protests, including a brief from Kamloops city council, against the application although considerable earth-moving work already had been carried out.

"No decision has been made yet as a result of the hearing," Mr. Campbell said.

He added that he doesn't know when a decision will be made because he has not received Mr. Broening's report yet.

Asked if the department could turn down the application now, Mr. Campbell said "That could be, if we aren't satisfied that the requirements have been met."

NO RIGHT

He said if the application is rejected, then the developer would have no legal right to use the land for requested purposes.

Asked if the revelations that a highways department foreman had done work for the private development company would have any bearing in a decision on Del Cielo's application, Mr. Campbell said:

"I have no comment on that.

"It has nothing to do with zoning and it has nothing to do with my department."

He added that he had publicly urged extension of Kamloops boundary to take in the highway junction, which would have given the city council jurisdiction over zoning.

"The department does not want to be mayor and council for unorganized territory," he said. But, he added, boundary extension always is difficult because it requires approval of 60 per cent of the landowners involved.

In Kamloops, Frank Methot admitted he painted two Del Cielo signs and got $60 from the company—but worked on his own time and not with government materials. "All I put into it was my time and my artistic effort."

In the House

. . . And So It Goes

Barrett, after Capozzi introduced Sasquatch hunters John Green and Rene Dahinden from the gallery: "Which one of us are they looking for?"

* * *

Strachan: "He's an interesting little fellow, the minister of municipal affairs. Sometimes he has the qualities of a rattlesnake . . . he keeps striking at everything that moves and if it doesn't move he want to put it in a regional district."

Capozzi: "That's just your rattle head showing."

Speaker William Murray after ordering Strachan and Capozzi to withdraw the remarks: "Surely we can keep debate in this House on a much higher plane."

* * *

Perrault, referring to the premier's sipping habits during the budget speech: "It's the first time a windmill has been driven by grapefruit juice."

* * *

Bennett to Strachan: "That's it, keep attacking each minister . . ."

Bennett, a bit later, while Strachan discussed the new mining and logging tax: "You supported it!"

Strachan: "I didn't pound my desk!"

Bennett: "Your new leader (Berger) did!"

Strachan: "Maybe he has a few things to learn too . . ."

'TELLS LESS AND LESS'

It's a Flim-Flam Budget, Charges NDP Chieftain

The social credit government is shifting responsibilities to municipalities without providing an adequate local tax base to cover them, Opposition Leader Strachan told the legislature Monday.

Firing the opening salvo in the budget speech debate, Mr Strachan said the government had passed pollution, hospitals, mental health, recreation, housing and social welfare problems to the municipalities.

He called for changes in the municipal tax base and an "economic restructuring" of the province but did not spell out specific proposals.

The municipalities have been given a fixed grant ($25) "against an unknown and rising commitment (social welfare)" he said, warning that mounting unemployment could saddle local governments with big welfare bills.

The government plans to increase local share of welfare cost from 10 to 20 per cent.

Mr. Strachan said the government's attitude was clear: "This is the 'good enough' government. They have produced the 'good enough' society.

"Well, it isn't good enough for me."

LOGGING TAX

The NDP leader said revenues from forestry this year will decline $1,500,000 in spite of an increase in the logging tax.

This is evidence of government mismanagement of resources, he said, and of its failure to ensure adequate tax revenue from those resources.

On the other hand, he said, the government's fiscal policies have failed to stimulate industrial production.

Mr. Strachan accused Premier Bennett of presenting his estimates in such a way as to conceal the amount of federal contribution to various provincial programs and added:

"The budget speech gets longer and longer and tells us less and less."

BUDGET COMPARED

He said he had gone to see the film "The Flim-Flam Man" and couldn't help noticing a resemblance between the movie and Premier Bennett's budget, adding that in the movie the main character had been "a lovable old guy."

Mr. Strachan said he would wait and see whether the $27,000,000 slated for a second First Narrows crossing in Vancouver is ever used for the purpose, —"I'm afraid it might end up in B.C. Hydro bonds."

He charged the government with a "shocking" failure in rehabilitation of people on welfare through vocational retraining.

In other points, Mr. Strachan:

● Rejected Premier Bennett's claim that the federal government had thwarted a B.C. attempt to use Canada Pension Plan funds for school construction, saying "It was obvious as long ago as 1966 from the premier's statements that he intended using the funds for Hydro."

● Charged the government with breaking a promise not to use current tax revenues for "contingent liability" crown corporations such as the B.C. Hydro and the Pacific Great Eastern Railway:

C Said $88 million of the increased revenue for next year will come "right out of the taxpayers' pockets" and not from industrial and natural resource policies;

● Said six new aluminum plants built in the U.S. northwest in recent years were evidence of the U.S. getting the major benefits from B.C. electric power;

Called for a vast increase in the $110,000 set aside to send boys to work in the forest in the provinces' youth training program as a means of combatting juvenile delinquency among urban boys.

TONIGHT'S SPEAKERS

Two speakers are scheduled to hold the floor in the Legislature at tonight's sitting.

Beginning at 8 o'clock will be Public Works Minister W. N. Chant, Victoria. He will be followed by William Hartley (NDP—Yale-Lillooet).

BELMONT PARK YOUTH HAVEN

School districts in this area can lay claim to leading the province in oldsters and youngsters both.

The B.C. government Monday published an analysis of the distribution of the population by age brackets in the province's 92 school districts, based on the 1966 census.

It showed that the Gulf Island school district has the highest proportion of senior citizens with 24.6 per cent of its total 3,151 persons 65 or older.

And Belmont Park took first place with the highest proportion of persons 19 years and younger with 58.5 per cent of its 2,323 population falling in this category.

Greater Victoria school district's 143,719 persons included: 49,720 (34.6 per cent 19 and under; 71,001 (49.4 per cent) 20-64, and 22.998 (16 per cent) 65 and over.

Sooke school district's 14,972 population included: 6.287 (42 per cent) 19 and under; 7,295 (48.7 per cent) 20-64; and 1,390 (9.3 per cent) 65 and over.

Saanich school district's 17,043 population included: 6,266 (36.8 per cent) 19 and under, 8,455 (49.6 per cent) 20-64; and 2,322 (13.6 per cent) 65 and over.

Forced Confession

Intimidation Victim Receives $15,000

CALGARY (CP) — A department store employee who was induced to sigh a confession that he stole $300 from the store was awarded damages of more than $15,000 in Alberta Supreme Court Monday.

Derek McKinnon, 25, was awarded the money in a suit against F. W. Woolworth Co. Ltd., store manager Walter Clinton Johnson, Commercial Fidelity Audit Agency Ltd. and two of the latter's employees.

Mr. Justice W. J. C. Kirby said Mr. McKinnon had been interrogated by Joseph Matt tf Commercial Fidelity in a proceeding "which was utterly repugnant to our concept of justice."

The judge added:

"Under direct threats of calling the police, of criminal charges being laid, and implied threats he would be sent to jail, he (McKinnon) was induced . . . to sign a written confession that he had stolen merchandize to the value of $300."

Matt and Ronald Jordeson, also of Commerical Fidelity, were named in the suit. Matt was charged with extortion after the incident and pleaded guilty last September. He was sentence to a year.

Mr. Justice Kerby said Mr. McKinnon was accused of stealing $6.10 while employed in a Woolco store in West Calgary and was induced to pay $300 to Johnson, who turned over half to the surety company.

JUST NO WAY

Awarding Mr. McKinnon $15,000 in general, exemplary and aggravated damages and $293.90 special damages, the judge said:

"He has not only suffered damages, but he will continue to suffer damages. There is no way in which he can clear himself of a suspicion that he stole money . . . (and) he was received no apology . . .

"It would seem to me that a company doing business in this country from another country, and its employees, should be aware that under our system of law and justice we have a presumption that a person is innocent of any crime until he had been proven guilty in a court of law beyond any reasonable doubt."

The judge said Woolworths checked ts account and found that rather than a shortage in the sporting goods department where Mr. McKinnon worked, there was a small surplus.

NO APOLOGY

"In spite of that . . . F. W. Woolworth Co. has not seen fit to apologize; it has not been fit to return the sum of $300 it had obtained from McKinnon; it has not seen fit to return the confession which it had obtained from him."

Mr. Justice Kirby ordered the confession over to Mr. McKinnon.

Banker Fails To Spot The Phoney

MONTREAL (CP) — A bank manager flunked a judge's test Monday on his ability to spot $20 counterfeit bills in a stack of currency — and a man accused of possession of fake money was acquitted.

The accused, Gerald Benskin of suburban St. Lambert, told the court he had obtained the six counterfeit Canadian bills from the hands of a bank teller who cashed some cheques for him in April, 1965.

But both the manager — whose name was not made public — and the teller insisted that it was impossible for the bank to pass out counterfeit money.

After taking a hard look at the bills himself, Judge Irenee Lagarde asked for a few genuine $20 bills. Shuffling them with the six counterfeit exhibits, the judge requested the bank manager to pick out the "copies."

Judge Lagarde acquitted Benskin on grounds of reasonable doubt when the manager failed to make a perfect score on the test.

Guest Fined $100 After Outstaying Welcome at Party

Constable Ken Horsman told court the incident occurred at "what I would describe as an out-of-control drinking party" at 536 Niagara early Sunday.

Constable Horsman said about 100 persons were at the party and the host had asked for aid in clearing them out.

He said Klat refused to leave after being asked four times.

"The accused became violent and had to be held in restraint and placed in the police wagon".

Klat was convicted in September of 1967 of obstructing a Saanich police officer. That conviction is now being appealed.

VICTORIA, B.C., TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1968 —PAGE 15

Gibson's Grenadiers Set to March on B.C.

Gordon Gibson, who retired as a B.C. Liberal MLA two years ago and now is a member of the Northwest Territories Council, sent the premier a telegram laced with humor as well as anger.

It slapped at Mr. Bennett's resumption of talks in Ottawa urging that the B.C. government be given jurisdiction over the Mackenzie River district of the territory.

"Concerning your proposed B.C. takeover of North West Territories, history shows that the north has always marched south," Mr. Gibson wired from Yellowknife.

"Having watched you waste 12 of my years in the B.C. legislature and after only one year of watching progress in the NWT legislature, I am convinced that the north can give B.C. far better government than you can.

"During our centennial year in 1970, we will be ready to take over B.C."

Mr. Gibson, a millionaire logger, never lost his homespun quality and became known as one of the most colorful MLAs in memory.

He frequently jousted verbally with Premier Bennett in the House, to their mutual delight, but he also gained fame as the man whose "money talks" speech eventually led to imprisonment for the then B.C. forests minister Robert Sommers as the only cabinet minister in the Commonwealth's history to be jailed in a bribery case.

Blues Follow Green Men Red Alert

Curses, we've been had again!

Those strange lights in the night sky over the University of Victoria Sunday?

Our intelligence source had discovered they were the work of some pranksters in a Uvic men's residence.

It's the same old formula which got us worked up about a year ago. You know, crossed wooden slats with candles mounted on them, filling a plastic bag with hot air and sending the whole business floating aloft.

Never mind! Keep watching! One of these days we'll spot the real thing. And when those little green men arrive, let's hope thay take over the university first!

Power Saws On Beaches Restricted

Power saw-using beachcombers will be banned from Victoria beaches after 6 p.m. each day if city council approves a recommendation from its public works committee.

The decision was made this morning after the committee heard a complaint from Mrs. Herbert Morris, 1605 Hollywood Place, that people cutting logs late at night are a nuisance.

"I am reluctant to do things like this, but I think we are justified in taking steps like this to protect the peace and tranquility of others," the mayor said. "Possibly we could ban the use of power saws after dark and also on Sundays."

'THAT'S A RIGHT'

Ald. Stewart sharply disagreed.

"I don't want to be part of any legislation which prevents a man from engaging in activity on a public beach," he said. "Personally I like to see some activity when I visit the beach. As for sawing up logs, that's a right each one of us has."

"But isn't it true that your rights are governed by the rights of others?" asked the mayor.

Ald. Stewart agreed but insisted that a total ban on power saws throughout Sunday was unreasonable.

"What are we going to do about power mowers or Sunday sightseeing cars zooming by the house all day?"

The committee settled for a compromise dropping thoughts of a Sunday ban but calling for the seven-days-a-week ban between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m.

Stolen Cheques Recovered In Safe-Cracking

All the cheques and part of the change taken from McDonald's Bakery safe overnight Saturday have been recovered, Saanich detectives said today.

Still missing is $2,280 in bills. Cheques in the amount of $1,808 and $40 of the $190.50 stolen change were found on the parking lot of the Red Lion Motor Inn, two blocks away three hours after the theft was discovered.

Goose-Bumped Butterfly Survives Freeze

By ALAN WHITE

Mrs. Margaret Walters of 908 Alexander opened her fridge and found a jar she had forgotten about.

In the jar was a butterly her children had put into cold storage in an experiment last September.

Hardly a novelty, since probably every household has children who store such things away at one stage or another ... but this time the butterfy started to move.

It was sitting with its wings tucked straight up over its body when taken out in the warmth of the kitchen. And when the heat got to it, the wings started to flutter lightly.

Mrs Walters was amazed, and her children enthralled by the fact that each time they took the butterly out of the fridge it recovered, and started to move around.

EXPERIMENT

"It was an experiment with the kiddies to see if it would stay alive ... to see if it would hibernate," Mrs. Walters said.

And hibernate it did, for five months.

But luck was on the side of experiment in this case. For according to Dr. Richard Ring, an entomologist at the University of Victoria, their specimen was one of the few species that lives over the winter in Victoria.

Described as "dark brown, with a pale creamy border' by the Walters' and as "purple with yellow edges" by Dr. Ring, the butterly is known to scientists as Nymphalis antiopa.

Better known to laymen as the Mourning Cloak, the specimen survives the winter by hibernating in any crevice it can find until warm weather brings it out of its sleep.

Dr. Ring explained that the Mourning Cloak builds up a form of anti-freeze in its blood to help it through the cold.

How long will it survive?

"It will lay its eggs and probably die this year," Dr. Ring said.

He added that the Mourning Cloak, although common to Victoria, is a rare and prized addition to collections in England.

Thief Asks Aid To Start Car He Was Stealing

A youth stealing a car Monday night stopped a passing motorist and asked for a push to get the car started, central court was told today.

The citizen obliged, and Laverne Guitterez, 1214 Fairfield, pleaded guilty in central court today to car theft.

Police said Guitterez stole the car from the 600 block Vancouver St. about 8:30 p.m. Police stopped the car on Fairfield at 11:40, but two occupants fled on foot.

Guitterez was arrested by police early today.

$10 Fines Levied For Entering Store

Two youths were fined $10 each in central court today for entering a government liquor store.

Andrew Webster, 20, of 2528 Rose, was observed in the Government Street liquor store Jan. 19. Thomas Rumble, 18, of HMCS Yukon, was observed in the same store Jan. 20.

Labor to Join PTA Protest On Cutbacks

Parents by Busload Arrive Wednesday

At least four bus-loads of concerned parents will roll up to the Legislative Buildings Wednesday morning to protest person-to-person with MLAs over education issues.

They will be joined by two carloads of protesters from Duncan and about 50 local people.

The St. Valentine's confrontation is a province-wide effort of the B.C. Parent - Teacher Federation which will be supported by representatives from the labor movement.

The PTA groups want to make the following points:

- Opposition to the current government cutback in school construction funds.
- Support for sex education on the school curriculum.
- The teaching of French in elementary schools.
- Larger grants for day-care nurseries.
- Improvement in mental health and weltare fields.

SWING SHIFTS

Thirty-five Coquitlam mothers are among three busloads of PTA members coming from the lower mainland. In Coquitlam the construction freeze is keeping hundreds of secondary school children on swing shifts.

With local and Duncan area representatives the delegation is expected to reach close to 250.

Drug Probe Spotlights Professors' Influence

DOCTOR MUST BE PATIENT ON TREE WOES

"I haven't been to a meeting yet that we haven't talked about tree roots," he complained Monday night during a meeting of B committee.

The committee had been discussing ways of solving a resident's problem with tree roots breaking through drainage pipes.

"It seems a wasteful way to spend council's time, talking about three roots, laying new sewer connections and removing trees."

"Does this go on all the time?" Coun. Wallace asked.

"Yes, it's quite a problem," replied municipal engineer G. O. White.

30 Teams Enter Rugged Race

Cross-country racing fever is spreading.

Duncan school boys are showing interest in a 4½-mile European-style cross-country race and may send teams to participate in the event to be held in Central Saanich Saturday, Feb. 24.

Entries to date stand at 30 teams of eight—240 students representing various schools in the capital region, according to Basil Parker, 58-year-old Glenlyon school teacher, organizer of the event.

THREE CLASSES

The race to start from Centennial Park, Wallace Drive, at 2:30 p.m. will end at the Saanichton fair grounds. There will be three classes—under 18, under 16 and under 14 years.

Closing date for entries is Feb. 21.

Mr. Parker said entries would be higher if students in some schools were encouraged to race.

"S. J. Willis, Central, Colquitz. Lansdowne and Esquimalt High Schools are not entering any teams," he said. "It seems that some coaches haven't the time to organize them."

Replies from other schools, including Victoria High, had not yet been received, he said.

"Otherwise the response is excellent," he said. "Royal Roads has promised to enter some runners. St. Louis College and all other private schools will be represented."

Mr. Parker said a piper will be on hand to "pipe" the runners across the finishing line.

THE SIGN MEANS exactly what it says. Butt that cigarette and turn off your motor while gassing up. The first signs warning motorists that the Victoria fire department will be enforcing fire prevention bylaws this year are already in place. Before the month ends all service stations will be displaying similar signs of facing stiff penalties for defying a bylaw long on the books but never enforced. Service station attendant Joe Michaux got his warning notice up early and reports only co-operation from motorists. Fire Chief Eric Simmons says warning notices are only the start of what he intends to be a severe crackdown on the causes of fire. (Times photo.)

CAUSEWAY ACTION

Clear-Out Order Faces Hucksters

Victoria city council will be asked to strike a special committee to find ways to clear the Causeway of hucksters.

Ald. Clyde Savage, chairman of the parks and beautification committee, called for the special study this morning after stating city tour promoters should not be permitted to clutter two "of the most beautiful blocks in the city."

"These people have a right to do business, but they should not be located in that area," Ald. Savage said. "I would like to see them out of there and the entire wall along the Causeway made into a long bank of flowers with a flower stall in the centre where people could purchase flowers."

City manager Dennis Young agreed that bus and boat tour promoters were a cause for complaint, but he added that many things needed to be taken into consideration when reviewing the future of the Causeway.

"The press, unfortunately, had been very misleading on what we are planning." he said. "Stories and pictures have been published which indicate that we are just going to tear down trees and rip out a section of the Empress lawn just to widen the street.

"The fact is that when we lay the new sewer line the full length of the pavement in front of the Empress, we shall, in conjunction with the Empress, also widen the road."

Mr. Young said the narrow strip of lawn being taken for the road widening tied in with Empress plans to re-locate the driveways leading to the hotel.

"Even if we were not putting the sewer line down, the Empress would be taking out part of its lawn and some of the trees to make way for their driveway program," he said.

ONLY TWO TREES

"As for the part of the lawn required by the city, only two trees are involved and one of them is nearly dead."

In the meantime the special commitee will wrestle with the problem of where to locate buses and tour promoters to enable them to carry on their business without disrupting Causeway traffic.

"It should be remembered that it will take at least a year to re-locate these people," Mr. Young said. "They plan for the tourist season a year ahead and it would be unreasonable to ask

Hard Look By MLAs At Trippers

The government will ask a committee of MLAs to find out how many youths take a "trip" with hallucogenic drugs and how to bring them back to the straight and narrow path.

He outlined these as the aims of notice of motion he filed this morning that on Wednesday he will move the standing committee on social welfare and education look into the LSD and marijuana problem.

The committee, under chairman John Tisdalle (SC-Saanich and The Islands), will be asked to "survey the extent to which marijuana, LSD and other lysergic drugs are available to our young people, study the cause and effect of such drugs and report their observations and opinions."

"THOROUGH"

A rider to the motion indicates that the government wants a thorough investigation.

It adds "that the chairman draw to the attention of any witness his right to claim the protection of the Evidence Act of the province and of Canada."

Protection of the Evidence Acts would allow witnesses to give evidence without fear of prosecution in court over their own involvement in the events described.

Mr. Peterson told reporters the rider is an unusual condition in a legislative committee's terms of reference and shows the government really wants to discover the heart of the problem.

He said the study does not imply the government is disappointed in its own legislation passed last session as the Proscribed Substances Act under which fines of up to $2,000 and six months in jail were provided for anyone convicted of possessing LSD or marijuana.

"More important than the legal consequences are the health and moral consequences," he said.

"There may be additional things we can do, in respect to educational programs.

'OTHER STEPS'

"Or (there may be) other steps that we can take to meet faulty leadership by the professors in some of the institutions in our province"

Mr. Peterson acknowledged that the committee's functions are viewed as partly research

POOR VALENTINUS!

He Blew His Cool, Lost His Head

By PETE LOUDON

Many teachers will be pleased to know they cut the head off the first swain to ever send a valentine.

Some teachers like Valentine's Day. They get a stack of nice cards and it makes them feel loved.

Some get nice cards but let themselves become involved in the tragic task of steering some of the Valentine mail to the little girl with the garlic sandwiches.

They're the ones who go along without the beheading.

It was back in the third century AD when a young Roman, Valentinus was thrown in the pokey for giving aid to the Christian martyrs.

The story, widely circulated by card manufacturers, relates that Valentinius befriended the jailer's blind daughter. Her sight returned and he got the credit.

But he still got the axe. And before he went he penned a farewell note to the girl, signing it "from your Valentine."

Men and boys have been getting into trouble for repeating those lines ever since.

They'll be at it again Wednesday—standing at the card counters downtown, wading through the goo and trying not to get any of it on them.

Pretty frillies, chocolates and little blue boxes from Birks are expected nowadays and woe to the poor fool who forgets.

We'll probably be lined up with the rest of them. But we can't help thinking those Roman emperors had some good points.

Novelty Music Boxes For Valentine Giving

By Penny Saver

Suddenly it's Valentines! I have become so used to thinking of store displays being far in advance of any actual event that I ignored the warning of chocolate displays and banks of red and pink cards. In fact, I have become so used to them that I'm completely blind to them as I walk through a store. When I looked at the calendar Saturday and discovered that Valentine Day was only four days away, I set Monday aside for gift shopping.

Valentine gifts are traditionally small in our family but we all go together to get something special for the two grandmothers. They are so good to us during the year that we make this their special day.

This year I found a wonderful display of music boxes. These come in both useful and novelty items at a variety of prices. Grandmother Saver is a cheerful person whose apartment is filled with sunshine and flowers. In the novelty music boxes I found a musical bird-cage with flowers and a miniature bird of paradise inside. This can either sit on a shelf or hang from the ceiling. It is $6.95.

Other amusing music boxes included a little brown jug that can double as a decanter. A hollow in the side shows a loveable drunk slung around a lamp post. As the music plays, he spins around. This is $7.95. Also at this price is a music box with three cheerful nuns playing instruments. As the music plays they spin around on the base. This music box has a shut-off switch.

My own mother is more sober in her outlook and I had difficulty finding a gift that would suit her. At last I settled on a jewel-box with a reproduction of a painting in silk on the lid. The music that these musical jewel-boxes play is keyed to the picture, for example one showed a painting of French night-clubbers and played the song from Moulin Rouge. The base of the jewel-box is of an ornate gold lattice. A small box is $12 while a larger one is $18.50.

Other music boxes included an elegant brushed stainless steel cigarette case. This has a rack to hold a package of cigarettes and the music box casing leaves just enough room for a small box of matches. This case is $12.50.

I was interested as well in music-boxes for young children. Cased in plastic pastel and decorated with decals of ducklings and chicks, these music boxes come in two stylings, one for $5.95 the other, $6.95. The one I was shown was a delicate pink color. It was round with a scalloped back-plate and long ribbons to tie it to the wall or crib. When the cord is pulled this music box plays an air from Schubert. Other tunes are available. This is a charming gift for a baptism or first birthday.

Please call me at 382-3131 if you would like to know where I shopped.

"Do you mean to tell me that you let that washer repairman soak you for new spark plugs and a picture tube?"

WHY GROW OLD?

By JOSEPHINE LOWMAN

Youthful Quality Maintained Welcoming New Changes

Lowman

The first thing which strikes one about Eileen Farrell, famous opera and concert soprano, when you meet her off-stage is an exuberantly youthful quality.

Some people have this quality all of their lives while others never have it! What accounts for this youthful quality in people who have left their early youth behind, and for its absence in others of the same age bracket? Miss Farrell thinks it may be a willingness to welcome change.

Eileen Farrell is a very attractive woman of reasonably mature years. She has a teen-age daughter and a son who is a senior in college, as well as her busy career which embraces "live" appearances, TV and recordings. Speaking of change, she said:

"As a performer I'm lucky in this respect. One week I may be singing opera in a large city, and the next I may be giving a recital in a small town. Or I may have to exchange the fun of being at home with my family, enjoying our snowy New England winter, for the excitement of an appearance with a symphony orchestra in a southern city.

"But even without a career, people often find the circumstances of their lives changing. Sometimes they are obviously for the better and sometimes they may seem quite ominous.

"The person with a youthful look will take a hopeful yes attitude and see how creative he or she can be about the changes. The one who feels pessimistic or reluctant surely seems older, and I think feels much older."

To be able to change is surely one of the earmarks of a youthful outlook. Miss Farrell's own ability to "get with" change has been documented by the shifting locale of the Reagan-Farrell household in recent years.

When son Robert entered college at Fordham University in the Bronx, they exchanged a big rambling house on New York's Staten Island that had been family headquarters, for a co-operative apartment in Manhattan to make travelling easier for him. They all loved the switch from suburban life to sophisticated New York.

Three years later came the decision to abandon New York for more country, making their headquarters in a small New Hampshire town not far from the Massachusetts border.

Eileen says, "The changes were made, not because of restlessness, but because of changes in our circumstances and attitudes, and we all welcomed the changes. Usually, it is the older-minded person who clings to the past because he distrusts the new."

All the local primary IODE chapters and the Municipal Chapter will co-operate on one of the biggest undertakings of the year, Saturday, when they hold the annual IODE festival in the Memorial Hall of Christ Church Cathedral. The event will be opened by Mrs. George R. Pearkes at 11 a.m. There will be a variety of stalls, including home baking, a delicatessen, candy, Treasure House, aprons, novelties, books, records and a French Room. Strolling fashion shows by Eaton's will add to the afternoon. These will be given from noon to 1:30 p.m. during luncheon and during the tea hour, 3 to 4:30 p.m. A colored television set will be a door prize. Seen checking some of the items to be sold on the novelty stall are, left to right, Mrs. A. W. Smith, Mrs. C. A. Dodimead, Mrs. A. G. Fulmer and stall convener Mrs. W. R. Jeffs.

DEAR ABBY . . .

Eligible Bachelor Just Much Too Much

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am a 28-year-old bachelor who has a promising future in the investment business. Last summer I became acquainted with a lovely girl who is now a senior in college, and we've seen each other several times. (We are separated by 300 miles.)

Last month I wrote to her and proposed marriage. I did it in a very business like manner because I didn't want there to be any misunderstanding as to what I had to offer her in the way of security, and what I expected of a wife. For example:

1. I expect to be served a hot breakfast six days a week. (On Sundays, I would serve her.)
2. No hired help until we have a child.
3. We will have no less than four children.
4. I shall handle all the money.

I know she received my letter as I sent it registered mail, but I have received no reply. Should I write to her again, or give her more time to think it over?

SAN FRANCISCAN

DEAR SAN FRANCISCAN: Surely, you jest? Perhaps the girl is so overwhelmed with your proposal of marriage that she's paralyzed by indecision—but don't bank on it.

DEAR ABBY: This is for "HAD IT," the second wife who resented her husband's "ex" calling him at home to discuss the problems she was having with their teen-aged children: I hope you are wise enough to take Abby's advice and remain silent and patient.

I am a second wife who had the same problem. I was blind-jealous and I became furious every time my husband's "ex" telephoned him at home to discuss the children and their problems. I finally put my foot down and told him I wanted no more of it. He promised there wouldn't be. And there wasn't.

Later on, when his 17-year-old daughter got into trouble with a boy, I blamed myself. Perhaps if the girl's mother had been able to confer with the father, that awful mess could have been prevented. I have regretted it ever since.

SORRY IN LEXINGTON

DEAR SORRY: Don't blame yourself. Had your husband been half a man, he'd have continued to make himself available to his "ex" to discuss their children's problems. Since you became furious when his "ex" telephoned him at home, he could have arranged to have received her calls elsewhere.

Whether the awful mess" could have been prevented had the girl's parents continued to confer, is anybody's guess, but don't blame yourself because your husband abandoned his responsibilities as a father to appease a "blind-jealous" wife.

DEAR ABBY: I may have a helpful suggestion for that mother whose little 4-year-old boy has to wear an eye patch over one eye temporarily. She said the boy was constantly asked by strangers, "What's the matter with your eye, little boy?"

My son also had to wear an eye patch for the same reason He had one "lazy" eye, which his doctor strengthened by covering the normal eye, thus forcing the "lazy eye" to work twice as hard.

Our boy, too, was bothered by inquisitive strangers, so we taught him to say, "Oh, it's just a little amblyopia." Of course, no one knew what it was, and since they were ashamed to admit their ignorance, they just walked away, shaking their heads.

Vanier Institute Sponsors Survey

Dr. Frederick Elkin of York University, who heads up the team of researchers, is seeking help in getting the names of organizations doing work in this field.

Among other things, the survey will provide the data needed by the Institute to help develop methods for the exchange of information and experience between organizations involved in family life education, and to foster improved effectiveness of programs.

Dr. Elkin believes family life education is needed for each generation. He says: "The family is not static. Many of the problems families experience are never-ending. Each new generation must experience these problems anew, be they of establishing close emotional relationships, choosing spouses, raising children or handling unexpected frustrations and crises. Since each generation experiences these problems anew, family life education will always have its place."

Names and addresses should be sent to the Vanier Institute of the Family, 170 Metcalfe Street, Ottawa.

REIMCHE-DAVIDSON VOWS

Keremeos Man Takes Bride In Local Church Ceremony

Judith Ann Davidson wore a gown of peau d'angel styled on empire lines when she became the bride of Robert George Reimche in Centennial United Church on Saturday evening. A fingertip veil of silk illusion misted from a self-fabric rose. She carried a cascade bouquet of gardenias.

Dr. S. Parsons heard vows uniting the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Davidson, 1916 Waterloo Road, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. A. J. Reimche of Keremeos.

Baskets of pink and white carnations and fern decorated the church for the service.

Mrs. J. A. Henderson was matron of honor. She wore a gown of shocking pink peau d'angel, styled on empire lines, and carried a cascade bouquet of white chrysanthemums.

Baskets of pink and white carnations formed a background for the receiving line at the reception following in the Uplands Golf Club. White chrysanthemums and pink gladioli decorated the head table, which was centred with a three-tier wedding cake tinted a pale pink. H. Weydert proposed the toast to the bride

The newlyweds will make their home at 636 Admirals Road until April, when they will travel to Halifax, N.S. to make their new home.

HELP FOR V.O.N.

This figure was given in the report of Mrs. J. A. Brown, who took over as services at home and abroad convener on the death of Mrs. R. Benson in September, when the group met for its annual luncheon meeting in Eaton's board room on Monday.

Mrs. Brown outlined activities of her committee which included the supplying of cod liver oil and medical supplies to the Victorian Order of Nurses and elderly citizens, health kits sent to the Northwest Territories for the use of Eskimo and Indian hospital patients, supplying of Christmas hampers and books sent to servicemen in Germany.

Educational secretary Mrs. Lance Hall said that $273.40 had been spent by this committee. Included in this sum was a cheque for $15, given to Robert Barlow of Esquimalt for being the highest ranking grade eight student at his school, the Hugh Creelman Memorial Trophy and replica awarded to Kenneth Munro of Lampson Street School, a $100 scholarship, given to Sandra Butler of Belmont Park; and $75 for the municipal chapter's bursary fund.

Other contributions had included a book called "The Canadienne", chosen by the principal for Esquimalt Senior Secondary School's library.

Secretary Mrs. A. G. Fulmer reported that money-raising activities had included two coffee parties, one at the Bay and the other at Admiral's House, home of Mrs. J. A. Charles, the group's honorary regent. There had also been a rummage sale and home cooking sale. Money had also been raised by a grocery raffle and delicatessen stall at the annual IODE festival.

Treasurer Mrs. C. C. Corneille reported receipts of $1,002.37, disbursements amounting to $964.77 and a bank balance of $236.05.

Reports were also given by Echoes secretary, Mrs. J. C. MacDonald; membership chairman, Mrs. Paul Fecteau; world affairs convener, Mrs. W. R. Jeffs; immigration and citizenship convener, Mrs. G. P. Clarke; flowers convener, Mrs. T. G. Clarke; public relations, Mrs. M. H. Bristowe, and regent's report, Mrs. C. A. Dodimead.

Mrs. V. H. V. Shepperd, municipal first vice-regent, installed the new officers. They are: Regent, Mrs. W. R. Jeffs; first vice-regent, Mrs. O. B. Ormond; second, Mrs. T. G. Clarke; third, Mrs. C. A. Dodimead; secretary, Mrs. A. G. Fulmer; treasurer, Mrs. C. C. Corneille; educational secretary, Mrs. Lance Hall; services at home and abroad secretary, Mrs. J. A. Brown; public relations, Mrs. M. H. Bristowe, and membership, Mrs. Paul Fecteau.

Nominating committee chairman was Mrs. A. W. Smith.

Mrs. L. Elsley Collard was installed as a new member by the retiring regent, Mrs. Dodimead.

Mr. and Mrs. Willem van Leusden. 1706 Kisber Avenue, have announced the forthcoming marriage of their eldest daughter, Hieke, to Mr. John Bruce Miller, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. John M. Miller, 4257 Cedar Hill Road. The wedding will take place on Saturday, March 23, at 7 p.m., in St. Aidan's United Church. Rev. A. G. MacLeod will officiate. Food Handouts Are No Solution To Hunger Problem Says Speaker

Michael G. Doyle, Victoria diocesan co-ordinator of the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace, stressed that food handouts are not a solution to the hunger problems of the world when he spoke at the quarterly meeting of the Victoria Diocesan Council, Catholic Women's League, held in St. Peter's Church hall in Nanaimo.

He continued: "Neither are relief activities or makeshift devices, we must show and help our less fortunate brothers how to produce the food of tomorrow . . . we must instill into our nation, and into the world, a sense of responsibility."

The speaker said that hunger was a recognized cause of war, revolutions and social upheavals. He also felt that human waste resulting from hunger was greater than that caused by wars and epidemics.

Giving statistics, Mr. Doyle reported that, of the 3.3 billion people in the world today, 2.32 billion live in the developing countries, plagued by malnutrition, disease and illiteracy.

EVERYONE'S DUTY

The speaker said it was the duty of everyone to know the magnitude of the world's immense needs. He added, "Statistics show that the unused soil resources of the world are more extensive than those under cultivation, and, paradoxically, most of the fallow lands are in the less developed countries."

He told the meeting that the Canadian Catholic Organization for Development and Peace had been incorporated in 1967 at the instigation of the bishops of Canada. Its objectives are twofold, long range, in providing self-help programs, emergency relief in disaster areas, and short range, to deal with matters on a local or parish level.

Mrs. C. H. Harmon, Port Alberni, diocesan president, thanked the speaker and welcomed the president and representatives of the newly formed St. Louis de Montfort Council, Lake Cowichan. Other Vancouver Island councils represented were St. Andrew's, Victoria; Queen of Peace, Esquimalt; Mt. St. Peter, Nanaimo; St. Edward's, Duncan; St. Ann's, Duncan; St. Mary's, Ladysmith; St. Francis, Alberni; Holy Family, Port Alberni, and St. Elizabeth, Sidney.

DONATE TO FUND

Treasurer Mrs. C. Van Jaarsvald, Duncan, reported that $326.94 had been donated to the Canadian Bishops' Fund for Development and Peace. Five councils had contributed to this donation with Holy Family Council, Port Alberni, donating $251. She said that, to date, only five councils had contributed to the scholarship fund.

Social welfare convener Mrs. Arthur Smith, Esquimalt, urged support of the Foster Parents' Associations being formed in regional districts.

Home missions convener Mrs. W. Patenaude, Port Alberni, asked for the encouragement of native Indians in participation of parish affairs. She said that more than 100 Indian families had attended a mass and potluck supper in Port Alberni.

Organization secretary Mrs. W. W. Rogers, Victoria, told of her visit to Lake Cowichan for the inauguration of St. Louis de Montfort Council. She was also present at Oak Bay Senior Secondary School when a $500 CWL diocesan scholarship was received by one of the students.

GIVE REPORTS

Other reports were given by: Social action, Mrs. L. Shelling, Chemainus; League Magazine, Mrs. L. Younge, Duncan, and public relations, Mrs. L. R. Horgan, East Sooke.

Mrs. Harmon then welcomed Fr. Bernard B. McCosham, one of a team of two priests and three Indian lay persons who are conducting a social leadership conference in Duncan for the Cowichan Indians. For the next four months, the conference will hold weekly sessions. The object is to help Indians to help themselves. Fr. McCosham said that an appeal for $600 had been made to the adult education branch of the Indian department. This was to finance a five-man team from the Okanagan to attend the meetings. Only $300 had been allotted. The balance must be found elsewhere.

Diocesan director, Fr. Paul Monahan, Duncan, also addressed the meeting. Other clergy present were Fr. Philip Hanley, Nanaimo; Fr. J. Barette, Nanaimo, and Fr. William Mudge, Sidney and Saanich.

It was decided to hold the next meeting in Port Alberni in March. The annual convention will be held at Courtenay on May 8.

AS PART OF GROUP'S EDUCATIONAL PROGRAM

Local Chapter Adopts Another School

Educational secretary Mrs. M. Smith reported that the Navy League Chapter, IODE, had adopted another school when she made her report at the chapter's annual luncheon meeting in the board room of Eaton's, Friday.

The new school, the Homalco Day School at Church House, B.C., will be added to the chapter's adopted school at Hartley Bay, B.C. Aid to the value of $20 was given to Hartley Bay School during the past year. Other projects included a $100 bursary to a Royal Canadian Sea Cadet, $50 to a student at the Victoria School of Music, $112 to the municipal chapter bursary and scholarship fund, books, a Canadian history portfolio and 25 calendars to Central Junior Secondary School, calendars to Rose Manor and $10 to the Miss Eva Shortreed and Miss Armstrong bursary funds.

VARIETY OF PROJECTS

Services at home and abroad convener Mrs. R. Smillie reported that the group had contributed donations and packages valued at $507.50 during 1967. Much of this was in knitted garments, quilts and children's clothing made by the members. Eight health bags were completed, wreaths placed, hampers delivered and women veterans remembered, as well as contributions made to health projects such as the cancer clinic, the Canadian Mental Health Society and an X-ray machine for Korea.

Mrs. F. J. Nobbs, treasurer, reported that the cash receipts for the year totalled $936.94. Cash disbursements for the year were $1,112.68, of which $313.10 was for education and $261.50 for services at home and abroad.

RECEIVE PINS

A 50-year pin had been presented to Mrs. R. Shanks and 25-year pins to Mrs. F. J. Nobbs and Mrs. W. F. Mawdsley during the year, reported secretary Mrs. W. F. Mawdsley. A new teacher had taken over the school at Hartley Bay.

Other reports were read by Commonwealth and world affairs secretary, Mrs. T. Watt; Echoes, Mrs. A. Crossan; immigration and citizenship secretary, Miss E. M. Welch, and public relations secretary Mrs. T. H. English. Mrs. Mawdsley read the standard bearer's report as Mrs. E. A. Tuscan was unable to attend.

The chapter presented Mrs. C. E. Beirnes with an orchid as a token of thanks for her year's work as regent. Miss Christine MacNab, municipal regent, was presented with a linen handkerchief.

The officers for 1968 were installed by Miss MacNab. Mrs. C. E. Beirnes has been re-elected regent. First vice-regent is Mrs. M. Keilbeck; second vice-regent and organizing secretary, Mrs. A. J. Sparkes; secretary, Mrs. W. F. Mawdsley; treasurer, Mrs. F. J. Nobbs; educational secretary, Mrs. M. Smith; Echoes secretary, Mrs. A. Crossan; standard bearer, Mrs. E. A. Tuscan; Commonwealth relations convener, Mrs. T. Watt; services at home and abroad convener, Mrs. R. Smillie; citizenship, Miss E. M. Welch; publicity, Mrs. T. W. English. Mrs. A. Stone, Mrs. T. C. Davies and Mrs. H. McCullock are councillors.

The forthcoming marriage is announced of Miss Carel Parsons, daughter of Mrs. F. Etheringon and Mr. R. S. Parsons, both of Victoria, to Mr. Graham Charles Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mitchell, 1231 Hillside Avenue. The wedding will take place on Friday, March 8, at 7 p.m., in the Victoria Truth Centre. Dr. E. M. Smiley will officiate.

Bears Princess In Calcutta

CALCUTTA, India (UPI) — Maharani Hope Namgyal of the storybook mountain kingdom of Sikkim, once a shy American socialite, gave birth Monday night to her second child, a girl, in a Calcutta nursing home.

The 28-year-old queen's subjects in her 2,748-square-mile kingdom in the Himalayan Mountains immediately began to ring bells and burn incense.

King Palden Thondup Namgyal, who met his American bride when she was visiting India with a group of her Sarah Lawrence College classmates from Bronxville, N.Y., was at her bedside.

The royal pair's first-born was a boy, Prince Palden, born Feb. 21, 1964.

Queen Hope, the first American and first Christian to become a member of a ruling family in any Himalayan kingdom, said several weeks ago that "a princess would balance my son."

MORE THAN A MIRACLE
Family Entertainment
Odeon Theatre

Once upon a time there was a handsome prince, with dark flashing eyes and teeth like a toothpaste blurb, who didn't like any of the seven marriageable princesses lined up for him by his royal parents.

So away he rides on his handsome white horse and, after one or two adventures, who do you thinnk he meets? Why, a beautiful barefoot peasant girl named Sophia Loren.

The prince, who is none other than Omar Sharif (alias Doctor Zhivago), loses his horse to the girl and she, after the usual protestations, loses her heart to him.

And now it is time for a covey of spell-making witches and a self-levitating priest to get into the act; for this is a kind of Spanish Cinderella, filmed in Italy.

It is primarily a fairy tale, but there are deft touches of humor and a few barbs of satire along the way, which make it clear that the entertainment is not for children alone.

★ ★ ★

The horseless Prince Omar finds his way to a desolate monastery and there, flying around like a balloon in the wind, is Father Leslie French—the self-levitating priest.

He makes a four-point landing to greet the prince and provides him with a donkey to replace his stolen horse. Then he gives him a bag of flour and tells him to have it made into seven dumplings.

"Eat them," he says, "and you will find your true love."

Meantime, Sophia Loren consults a party of festive witches as to the possibility of ensnaring Prince Omar in a love spell. They give her full professional counsel but she bungles her spell-making, with farcical consequences.

Those who enjoy romantic fantasy, as a change from so much of the brutal realism we get nowadays, may enjoy this Carlo Ponti whimsy, directed by Francesco Rosi.

BARBER Ian Wells, of Minneapolis, holds two etchings he paid $2 each for at a recent estate sale. The one on the left has been identified by art experts as an 1859 etching by James A. McNeil Whistler, entitled "Billingsgate". Wells said an art curator told him it may be worth $2,000 to $10,000. He said Kennedy Gallery in New York told him to insure it for $40,000. (AP Wirephoto.)

Husband, Wife Show How to Live on Love

She and her husband John Turner visit Victoria this week and will demonstrate the "wooing and winning" process as seen through the eyes of some of Britain's greatest dramatists.

Their poetry recital, The Labors of Love, will be given in the Education-Arts lecture theatre at the University of Victoria at 8:30 p.m. Friday.

The program will be repeated in the same location Feb. 20 at 12:30 noon with no admission charge

In addition to staging the two performances, Mr. Turner and Miss Jefford will spend several days with the university's theatre division, sitting in on student workshops and discussing their art.

Both will speak from a wealth of experience. Miss Jefford has played a wide variety of leading roles with the Shakespeare Memorial Theatre, London's Old Vic and other leading companies.

NEW MEDIUM

She has starred in a number of British television productions and her first film role—as Molly Bloom in the recent cinema version of James Joyce's Ulysses—has brought her immediate fame in a new medium.

Mr. Turner has been termed one of Britain's finest heroic actors by Plays and Players magazine.

Despite many television commitments, he has maintained a busy stage career. He and his wife have played opposite each other in several notable productions, ranging from Antony and Cleopatra to Genet's The Balcony.

Top Concert Singer Dies

TORONTO (CP) — Portia White, internationally-known Canadian concert singer, died today of cancer. She was 57.

Miss White, a contralto, had been teaching voice in Toronto. She had been ill for three weeks.

She was born in Truro, N.S., the daughter of the late Rev. Capt. W. A. White, the only Negro commissioned officer to serve overseas with the Canadian Army in the First World War.

Survivors include her mother, Mrs. C. H. Johnson, five sisters and four brothers.

Ontario Hydro's contribution to the economy can be measured by the $281,000,000 it intends to spend on expanding its system this year.

TWO FILMS TO SHARE HONOR

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — For the first time in its history, the Producers Guild of America Sunday night picked two films to share Best Produced Film of the Year honors.

The winners were Walter Mirisch, producer of In the Heat of the Night, and Stanley Kramer, who produced and directed Guess Who's Coming to Dinner.

Sidney Poitier had a starring role in each movie.

GALLERY DISPLAYS MILNE'S WORKS

His Landscapes Impressive

By R. H. GROOMS

It was an unexpected pleasure to find that the excellent show of David Milne's work that I reviewed in Vancouver a few weeks back, has come to Victoria. It can be seen at the Victoria Art Gallery until Feb. 25.

David Brown Milne was born in January, 1882, near Paisley in Bruce County, Ontario. He was his parents last child and much younger than his four brothers and sister. He became a country school teacher near Paisley after completion of high school.

About 1904 he received a loan from a brother and this enabled him to travel to New York City to study for half a year at the Art Student's League. After this, he worked in commercial art and exhibited some paintings in and around New York, but sold very few.

BIG BREAK

Milne's first big break came in 1913 when five of his paintings were exhibited in the famous and influential Armouries Exhibition. The notoriety attendent on this show made it one of the most important landmarks in the history of modern art. Because of the scandal and acclaim, anyone of substantial reputation in the international art scene saw the exhibit and participated in it.

During 1914-15 Milne made summer excursions to the Hudson Valley and Catskills area of New York. In the fall of 1915 he left New York City due to economic pressures and settled at an area called Boston Corners in Columbia County in the lower Berkshires, New York state.

During 1918 he returned to Canada and enlisted in the army as a private and in September was sent to Britain. In 1919 he was appointed an official war artist with the Overseas Military Forces of Canada. He did 107 water colors of places and areas that had important connotations for Canadian military activities in the First World War.

TWO WINNERS

These were done in Britain, France and Belgium and are now in the Canadian War Memorials Collection of the National Gallery at Ottawa. Milne returned to Boston Corners, N.Y. in December 1919.

In 1921-23 Milne spent the summers in the Adirondacks painting and sketching. Two winters spent at Mount Riga near Boston Corners produced even more work in his landscape series.

He went to Ottawa and Montreal in the winter of 1923-4 and the National Gallery purchased six water colors. He was living near Lake Placid, N.Y. until 1928 when he returned to Canada. The summer of 1928 was spent at Lake Temagami in Northern Ontario and the winter near Toronto in Weston.

From 1929 to 1933 David Milne lived at Palgrave, Ont., and from 1933 to 1939 at Six Mile Lake off the Severn River near Georgian Bay. In 1934 he was desperate for help and wrote to Vincent Massey for sponsorship. Mr. and Mrs. Massey purchased many of his paintings and organized his first one man show at the Mellors Gallery and he had a yearly show there until 1938.

CLOSE FRIEND

His greatest support came from gallery owner Douglas Duncan of Toronto. He became a close friend and patron for the rest of Milne's life in the period 1935-53. This furnished Milne with the freedom and protection he needed to devote himself to his work without worry or interruption. From 1938 on, Douglas Duncan held yearly exhibits of Milne's paintings and they became a dominant part of Duncan Picture Loan Society in Toronto.

In the period from 1940-52 Milne lived outside Toronto at Uxbridge and he spent his summers mostly in the Haliburton district. This became one of the richest natural sources for his art work. In 1952 near the end of his career, Milne was one of four Canadian painters represented at the world renowned Vience Biennale. He become too ill to work in November 1952 and died in Toronto in December the day after Christmas 1953.

LIMITED ONE

Milne's was a special private vision that increasingly seems certain to be one of the most important statements in the whole history of Canadian Art. He possessed an almost X-ray vision of the world and in the brief intense moments of creation and insight he managed to capture in a few quick and sparse strokes a whole landscape. This would elude a lesser artist working at ten times the size of Milne's small pictures.

Milne's genius was a limited one. He was not all things to all men. He disdained any social comment or protest, violence or sex. He was morally neutral even to battlefields. He was peacful and serene, yet sophisticated in almost a Zen Buddhist manner. As David Silcox says in his very perceptive essay on the Milne catalogue available at the gallery: "One of the most important aspects of Milne's work, and one which continually elicits our admiration and respect, is the constancy in the quality and the technical proficiency throughout his life. The very earliest of Milne's works and his very latest are alike in their spartan economy of means and their absolute precision and balance."

Milne never acquired the reputation of the Group of Seven. He never publicized himself in any way.

SPENDING his 80th birthday touring the world "before I go home," Maurice Chevalier gestures during news conference in London Monday. The entertainer said he will deliver his last "adieu" after 68 years of entertaining at the end of the year in Paris. — (AP Wirephoto.)

MAKE BELIEVE PATIENT tended by St. Joseph's Hospital coronary care unit head nurse Mrs. Corinne Tench is demonstrating new life-saving equipment unveiled Monday. At right, hospital executive director Dr. E. Van Tilburg and director of nursing services, Mrs. A. G. Simpson, examine the control centre which electronically registers fluctuations in heart behaviour of four patients who will use the ward during critical periods in their treatment. Royal Jubilee will open a similar heart unit soon. February is heart month throughout Canada, which makes the opening date appropriate. (Times photo by Bill Halkett.)

MISSISSIPPI SECURITY TIGHT

10 B.C. Men Come Home Protesting Job Conditions

About 10 men, one of them a Victorian, have returned from jobs in a Mississippi shipyard after a stay of about a week.

Some of those who went from Vancouver said the wages were acceptable but the working conditions were not.

The Victorian, welder William R. Konechny of 1184 Esquimalt Road, said he heard gripes about the single men's accommodation, although he personally had no complaints.

He had returned because his infant daughter, who has been in a Vancouver hospital with brain damage for 18 months, took a turn for the worse. He is on leave of absence and may return.

The men were all unemployed shipyard workers who had been recruited by Ingalls Shipbuilding Yard at Pascagoula, Miss. About 80 were signed up last month at Vancouver and Victoria.

Plumbers and Pipefitters union business agent, Tom Wheatly of Vancouver said the main complaint appeared to be tight security at the yard, which builds navy ships and submarines.

SINGLE MEN

He said security officers travel everywhere on the job with the workers.

In Victoria, Mr. Konechny said some single men were expected to board in places which were "like pigpens." On the other hand, married people fared better.

He and two other men were fortunate to have a two-bedroom suite only 10 minutes from work for $144 a month, furnished and with a patio and swimming pool available.

Some of the married personel have been able to find houses for $85 to $100 a month — which is all but impossible in Victoria.

GREEN LAWN

The area has fine beaches but a car is needed. Sidewalks are few and "I never saw a green lawn." Mr. Koechny praised the hospitality of the people with whom he worked.

He also mentioned the tight security. He said the shipyard security staff questioned Canadians closely and sent the questionnaires to Ottawa for checking.

He said the Canadians were told it would be 30 days before the checks were complete and their status clarified.

Mr. Konechny said he thought he was the only Victorian to have returned, the others being Vancouver men.

New Heart Care Equipment Unveiled at St. Joseph's

There are four people in Victoria who were probably given a new lease on life Monday.

These are potential heart attack victims. This week or next while shopping, digging in the garden or just watching television, they will collapse.

They'll be rushed to hospital and the desperate fight will start.

A $30,000 coronary care ward opened at St. Joseph's Monday night is going to give them better odds of winning. The hospital expects it will save 80 lives a year.

The new heart facility is the first in Victoria but a similar ward is being built right now at Royal Jubilee.

The new ward involved a $15,000 renovation and $15,000 worth of electronic equipment all geared to keep the patient during his critical period under close and continual observation.

Each of the four patients will be in a glass-walled cubicle within view of around-the-clock nurses but otherwise resting in privacy.

Electronic monitoring devices will record each fluctuation in the patient's heartbeats. Should the patient's condition deteriorate no time would be lost in emergency treatment.

Victoria Kiwanis Club raised much of the money required for the heart unit and club president Lou Poy was present for the official opening along with hospital and government officials.

Dr. Embert Van Tilburg, executive director of St. Joseph's, said the next development will be establishment of a sub-acute ward where recovering patients will be moved for further surveillance.

Nursing staff has been specially trained for the work.

Change House Budget Slashed

Oak Bay B committee Monday night trimmed the capital works budget down to $519,204 and turned it over to the estimates committee for approval.

The report, prepared and submitted by municipal engineer and planner G. O. White, was reduced from an initial $592,804 in little over half an hour of scissoring.

Last year's spending was $530,922.

Hardest hit was a budgeted $90,000 for a new shower and change house for Windsor Park which was cut to $30,000.

The committee at an earlier meeting had decided to proceed with the facility in three separate stages over three years. The first of these, involving shower and toilet facilities, will be etarted this year.

The estimates include $19,000 for sanitary sewerage and $13,900 for surface water drainage improvements.

WINTER WORKS

Proposed improvements to roads in the municipality will cost $88,900, some $6,000 of which will qualify for winter works grants.

Another $3,500 for strengthening of the seawall at Shoal Bay survived the chopping session.

Total improvements in parks in the municipality will cost $49,600—including the $30,000 for work at Windsor Park.

Wider Intersection Gets Nod in Oak Bay

A $3,900 widening of the intersection at King George Terrace and Beach Drive was approved in principle Monday night by Oak Bay council's B committee.

The proposed improvement suggested to speed traffic along Beach Drive, was sent to the estimates committee for final approval.

The intersection is considered hazardous during the summer months when heavy tourist traffic uses both roads.

Chief John Green told the committee that traffic trying to turn on to King George had to cut across the oncoming lane holding up cars behind.

"We've had the same problem ... the 23 years that I've been here," he said.

The change would include widening Beach Drive to allow for a turn lane on to King George, permitting traffic on Beach to move uninterrupted.

About half of the logs that have drifted in during the winter will be burned.

DOG BAN OUT

The committee rejected another request from the same resident that dogs be banned from the beach to keep it clean.

Noting that no dogs are allowed on beaches from the end of June to the end of September, councillors agreed it would not be fair to ban them during the winter months as well.

TIPS FOR HOME GARDEN

Don't Start Growth Too Early in Year

By HILDA BEASTALL

Hilda

During the lovely warm sunny days we have all been enjoying in varying degrees, the coldframes have needed to have the covers off completely.

When small outdoor plants are being stored in these frames over winter they must not be coddled to the point of starting new growth too early in the season.

The aim is merely to protect them from the most severe frosts and heaviest rains, and to some extent from bashing winds.

While the covers are on during heavy rains these covered plants do not receive any moisture, so that now while they are open to the sun is a splendid opportunity to give them the water they require.

As in the slightly heated greenhouse, the plants in frames which are covered again at night should receive this watering during the morning after removing the covers.

The surplus water can then evaporate during the day and the foliage will also dry. If much free moisture is left around after the covers are replaced, fungus troubles and rots are likely to develop during frosty nights.

AMOUNTS OF WATER

The condition of the plants, the kind of plants, and their specific moisture needs must be the guides for amounts of water to be given.

These things are learned by experience, which is the reason why we advise beginning gardeners to build themselves a cold frame early in their gardening lives, and practise with quite ordinary plants before experimenting with costly or rare plant material.

Denture Fee Hike Defeated

Retention of the $25 price for dentures for senior citizens was approved by the Public Denturists and Dental Mechanics Society of B.C. at its mid-winter conference held at the Empress Hotel Monday.

Some members felt the fee established 10 years ago should be boosted in view of increased costs for materials, but the meeting as a whole voted in favor of no change.

President L. E. Lewis advocated adoption of a school dental-care program similar to the one in existence in New Zealand.

The program would allow the training of denturists and dentist nurses for schools.

"A committee of the legislative assembly should be struck to study the dentist nurses practice of New Zealand where there is a two-year training program to allow dentist nurse to work on children's teeth," he said.

He said the program inaugurated 15 years ago has proved a success.

Mr. Lewis proposed such a service as an alternative to a provincial or national denticare program.

"It would be impractical and too expensive for the citizens of the province at the present time," he said.

He noted that there were 110 denturists practising in the province.

"We must have another 50 in the next four years in order to keep up with the demand for services," he said.

"There are 20 per cent more Americans coming to B.C. to receive personalized denture service because they are half the price of that charged in Washington."

Here's Bill; Just Add $130 Perhaps

Coun. Young told the municipality's finace committee the new municipal tax forms will cost Esquimalt about $2,000 this year for extra work involved.

He said the forms "were made out to give the provincial government full credit for the homeowners grant whether the people are going to get the money or not."

The forms show the $130 grant printed on them. A note on the back explains taxpayers must add $130 to their taxes if they're not eligible for the grants.

Coun. Young also complained there is no room on the tax form for either arrears or notice of pre-payment. The municipality will have to send out extra notices in these cases.

Woman Treated, Released, After Pile-Up

A three-car accident at Blanshard and Broughton Monday morning sent a Victoria woman to hospital with minor injuries.

Mrs. Eva Malone, 2056 Allenby, was treated at St. Joseph's Hospital for head and knee injuries and released.

Police said she was driver of a car southbound on Blanshard which collided with a car eastbound on Broughton driven by Harvey Robinson of Westholm, B.C.

Police said damage was heavy.

8 CARD OF THANKS

We wish to extend our heartfelt thanks and appreciation for the acts of kindness, messages of sympathy and beautiful floral offerings received from our many friends and relatives during our sad bereavement in the loss of our beloved mother and grandmother Lillian Emma Smith. Special thanks to Dr. H. G. Ingram, Rev. Canon Grahame Baker, Rev. Leonard Jenner and McCall Bros. Funeral Directors.—Kay, Iris, Pam and Jill.

Mrs. Dorothy Hunter wishes to thank Bank Messengers of Victoria for contribution to Heart Foundation in memory of Mr. C. W. (Bill) Hunter.

9 IN MEMORIAM

ADAMS — In loving memory of brother Shawn, who passed away February 11, 1967.

His smiling way and pleasant face
Are a pleasure to recall;
He had a kindly word for each
And died beloved by all.
Some day we hope to meet him
Some day we know not when,
To clasp his hand in the Better Land
Never to part again.

STEVENS — In loving memory of our wonderful son, Leslie John Stevens, who fell asleep February 13, 1964.

We miss you because we loved you,
More precious than wealth untold.
No treasure on earth can replace you.
Your memory will never grow old.
Loved and respected wherever you went;
To a beautiful life came a sudden end.
He died as he lived everyone's friend.

—Loved and remembered forever, Mother and Dad.

BRIDGE LESSON

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY
Newspaper Enterprise Assn.

A reading of Victor Mollo's "The Immortals" will show that these players' favorite hands are likely to be ones that they make in spite of the fact that there is no play for the hand against correct defence.

Here we see Jean Besse, the leading Swiss player, in action. Perhaps his seven heart bid was optimistic, but we are inclined to blame North for Blackwooding away for no real reason. Anyway, Jean found himself in seven, and after the nine of spades lead he saw little chance to make his contract. He knew that West's lead marked East with both queen and jack. They might be doubleton, or there might be some complicated squeeze if East held all the high diamonds and the spade honors. There was no harm in trying.

Opening lead—♠9

He rose with dummy's king of spades, cashed the king and queen of clubs and proceeded to run off all his trumps and the club ace as rapidly as possible.

When he got down to playing the club ace, dummy held the ace-jack of diamonds and ten-five of spades. West, holding to the eight-seven of spades and nine-deuce of diamonds, saw no reason to keep that deuce of diamonds.

East saw plenty of reason why West should have hung on to that card. Jean discarded the jack of diamonds from dummy, and poor East was caught in a criss-cross squeeze. A spade discard would allow Jean to cash his ace of spades and set up dummy's 10; a diamond discard would allow him to cash dummy's ace of diamonds and set up his seven spot.

Jean Besse is pretty proud of this hand, but he points out that his partner got him to seven on the very next hand and this time there was no miracle. He went down one.

NEW DATSUN
FOR 1968

The "more-for-your-money car."

If somebody ever tells you he drives an economy import with 96 h.p. engine that goes 100 m.p.h. has a safer, impact absorbing body, the safest suspension money can buy, a wraparound air-flow system that keeps windows clear, that it looks great, handles like a dream, and that he bought it from us for only $2025, believe him. It's the DATSUN 1600, the "more for your money car" at

DAVID MOTORS LTD.

TOYOTA COROLLA

"THE CLEANEST ECONOMY CAR EVER TO COME FROM THE OTHER SIDE OF THE OCEAN!"

Who wants an economy car that won't get out of its own way and is left behind on hills? The TOYOTA COROLLA has more power, a higher top speed and better acceleration than any other car in the 1,100 cc class. And it still gets better than 40 miles on a gallon of regular gas.

"I DREAMT THAT I DWELT IN MARBLE HALLS!"

You will sing for joy when you look through what I unhesitatingly dub the most fascinating, attractive, and properly constructed new home on to-day's market. Properly priced and having the finest panoramic view of Victoria that one could wish for. 6 bedrooms, three up, three on the lower level. No small bedrooms, no sunless ones, all private, no neighbours windows opposite! Careful planning here! 2 bathrooms, upper is white and gold, dainty crystal chandelier, simple but ingenious heating device to ensure that the bathtub is cosily warm at all times — what a bonus — no more hot-water and icy porcelain above the water level! Ultra modern kitchen, sunny dining room, living room with unmarred hardwood floors complemented by white marble floor to ceiling fireplace painstakingly fitted by the loving hands of a Portuguese stone-mason —A Balcony where you can sit and admire the sunset. Lounge, three-pce. bathroom and king size snack room on lower level. Here I list a few of the benefits of this splendid home situated conveniently close to University and Shelbourne Shopping Centre. See the others first, this home is incomparable at the asking price of $35,700. Owner leaving for California needs ACTION NOW! NEW WORLDS OF MEANING

Psychology Gives Insight Into Work

BY NORMAN CRIBBENS

"He must keep abreast of their changing interests and changing frames of reference in order to speak their language and communicate with them effectively," Prof. Grant McOrmond of the University of Victoria said Saturday.

"Failing in that, a teacher or lecturer cannot transmit either his enthusiasms or his knowledge."

Prof. McOrmond, who is lecturer in romantic 19th century literature at the university, was giving the toast to the Immortal Memory at the annual dinner of the Dickens Fellowship, Victoria branch, in Holyrood House.

CHANGING TEMPERAMENT

When studying the work of Dickens or any Victorian writer in the 20th century, it is necessary to feel out and pin down the changing critical temperament of the age, Prof. McOrmond said.

"Much of 20th century society is either an implicit or explicit renunciation of Victorian values, and to ignore these changes in taste is to court the breakdown of communication."

Prof. McOrmond showed that, despite his phenomenal popularity with the public, Dickens' genius was little appreciated by earlier critics.

Anthony Trollope, writing in 1882, described his style as "jerky, ungrammatical and created by himself in defiance of rules."

Today, Prof. McOrmond said, critics use psychology to gain an understanding of the symbolism in Dickens' novels.

"In so doing, they have allowed discrepancies of plot, characterization, style and content to fall into their proper place in the pattern of an organically unified work of art. . . .

"And, in their preoccupation with symbolism, they have placed in the hands of modern students—educated in the tradition of psychological analysis—a key to unlock new worlds of meaning in Dickens' creations.

"They have demonstrated that readers of each succeeding generation can find material that is interesting and relevant to their own lives in Dickens' works."

Maruice Corbett, branch president, proposed a toast to The Visitors and Murray Brown replied.

Mrs. Mabel Jarvis recited some of her own poems; Miss Mildred Card organized a quiz on Dickens' characters; and a dramatic tape recording was presented by Norman Cribbens.

The dinner was organized by Miss Bessie Bailey, program director, and recording secretary.

. . . PTA LOBBY

The federation is asking any interested parents to come along.

The Vancouver Island. Building Trades Council has called on over 500 unemployed in the building trades to join in the protest.

At least one busload of union members is coming from the lower mainland.

MEETINGS SET

The PTA delegation has arranged separate meetings with government members and the Liberal caucus and intends seeing as many other MLAs as possible during the morning.

At the top of the discussion list is the so-called construction "freeze" which the federation says will result in crowded classrooms, shifts, curtailed use of lunch rooms, gyms and auditoriums, possibly loss of kindergarten rooms, reduction in courses for secondary students and a loss of teachers through frustration in trying to teach under such trying conditions.

Decision Near For Trudeau

OTTAWA (CP) — Justice Minister Trudeau was reported today to be only a day or two away from a final decision on whether to enter the Liberal leadership race. He is expected to enter.

His formal announcement may not come until Friday, informants said.

The 46-year-old minister will address the regular Wednesday meeting of Quebec MPs and senators, sounding out their support for him as the French-Canadian Quebec candidate.

His decision will follow the caucus meeting, informants said.

Manpower Minister Marchand, leader of the Quebec caucus, will also address the group.

Army Officers Sought

LONDON (AP)—Great Britain launched a campaign to recruit army officers Monday less than a month after announcing defence cuts to trim its global role. Advertisements in major newspapers promised potential officers that the cuts will not confine them to a career in the British Isles.

them at this stage to locate elsewhere. They have spent the winter getting their equipment ready."

"What equipment?" asked Ald. Savage. "They must have spent all winter tightening the bolts that hold some of those things together."

Ald. Savage added that in talking to motel owners in the city he was informed that the most constant cause of complaint from tourists is the aggressiveness of the Causeway tour promoters.

"I agree that it is a problem," said Mr. Young. "If a resident of the city is foolish enough to string a camera around his neck and walk down the Causeway he's likely to get beaten to death."

Mayor Hugh Stephen agreed but pointed out that before the city could ask the tour promoters to move an alternate operating site must be found.

"That's the main problem as I see it," he said. "Where do we put them?"

The committee's recommendation for striking a special committee will go to city council next week.

B.C. Trails In Grants To Colleges

Graduate student associations at B.C.'s three public universities have joined in a protest over shortage of provincial government funds for higher education.

In a statement Monday they pointed out that B.C. is running a poor third among Canada's three richest provinces in spending at universities.

While Alberta spends $59 per capita and Ontario $48, British Columbia contributes only $29 per capita, said graduate student society executives from the University of Victoria, Simon Fraser and UBC.

In the fiscal year 1966-67 former UBC president John MacDonald reported the three institutions required a minimum of $66 million to adequately accommodate the numbers of students expected over the next five years, say the societies.

Now with an enrolment increase of about 20 per cent, the $65 million just budgeted is still $1 million short of what MacDonald called a minimum two years ago.

Universities, says the statement, now face two alternatives —enrolment restriction or a lowering of standards.

He said confusion exists as to how many students take the drugs and "we would be glad of any indication we can get that is reliable."

The committee's terms of reference will be very broad "because I'm prepared to receive any recommendation. I regard this as a serious problem."

Oyster Pickers Find Skull

CAMPBELL RIVER — Lewis Joyce and his wife went picking oysters one day last week on nearby Quadra Island—and came home with a human skull.

They went back the next day with Campbell River RCMP and found more bones—ribs and vertebrae—along the same stretch of shore.

The remains were found about a half-mile away from the beach at Rebecca Spit provincial park, Mr. Joyce said.

No estimate of the age of the bones could be made, but bits of tissue were still attached to some of them, he said.

Police will send the skull—with most of the teeth still intact—to Vancouver for possible identification.

Shoplifters Must Await Sentences

A woman who pleaded guilty in central court today to shoplifting playing cards worth $3.92 will spend a week in jail awaiting sentence.

Court was told she had one previous conviction for shoplifting in 1966. Magistrate Byers remanded her to Feb. 20 for a pre-sentence report.

A second woman who also pleaded guilty to shoplifting was released in custody of her father.

Gwendolyne Dormouth, 1029 Tolmie, took three sheets, two brassieres and two girdles worth a total of $23.39 from the Bay Monday afternoon.

She was remanded to Feb. 21 for pre-sentence report.

ASK ANDY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy.

Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a World Book Atlas.

Andy sends a complete 20 volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Sheila Stanley, age 14, of Metcalfe, Ont. for her question:

Where do we get coal oil?

There has been plenty of coal oil in the ground since time began. It is present both in sooty black coal and in the rich material we call rock oil or petroleum. Although petroleum deposits near the surface of the ground have been used in crude form for ages, mankind could not take full advantage of the rich substance until he learned how to take it apart. The tricky job of separating the assorted substances in petroleum is done by a process called fractioning. One of the products separated in the fractioning of petroleum is coal oil—also known as kerosene.

Coals and petroleums are complex mixtures of hydrocarbon chemicals. They are believed to be the residues of ancient plant and animal life which have been processing in the ground through many millions of years. In the year 1854, a Canadian geologist named Dr. Abraham Gesner identified and isolated a fine new lighting fuel from coal. His first extracts were waxy materials and he borrowed an old Greek word for wax to name his discovery kerosene. Later, Dr. Gesner and other experimenters found easier ways to take larger amounts of kerosene from petroleum.

Farmers in faraway places still use kerosene to light their lamps, run their cooking stoves, tractors and other equipment. Many villages use kerosene to run generators to charge electric storage batteries. Large quantities of kerosene are used in cleaning fluids and in various mixtures for killing weeds and bugs. Every year, we use millions of barrels of kerosene. And all this kerosene is taken from petroleum by means of the fractioning process.

Products Refined

The petroleum that comes from the ground is a tacky mixture of hydrocarbon chemicals called crude oil. Some of the hydrocarbons are light and volatile, eager to evaporate and mingle with other gases in the air. Other ingredients in the mixture are less volatile and some are heavy oils and gummy waxes. We use heat to separate the different ingredients in the mixture.

The rich liquid crude oil is piped to a furnace and heated to about 750 degrees Fahrenheit. This changes most of the petroleum into gaseous vapor. The gaseous mixture is led away and allowed to escape into a tall building called a fractioning tower. There the different gases sort themselves into layers, with the lightest ones at the top. They are then piped off at various levels of the tower. Fuel gas for cooking ranges is piped from the top level. Gasoline is piped from the second storey. Kerosene is spouted out from the third level. Its vapor is heavier than the gasoline that rises above it and still heavier than the fuel gas that rises to the top of the tower. Thick, heavy oils and gummy waxes are taken from the lower stages of the tower, and a residue of tacky asphalt sinks way down to the bottom.

Each product separated in the fractioning tower is piped off to be refined and purified. The kerosene is treated with liquid sulfur dioxide and this process is repeated again and again to remove all its impurities. Most of the tangy-smelling chemicals are removed from kerosene prepared for lamps; otherwise the flame would be dim and smoky. But these same aromatic chemicals are purposely left in the kerosene to be used in weed and bug killing products.

Andy sends a World Book Atlas to Carolyn Billington, age 11, of Huntington Beach, California, for her question:

Which is the world's biggest volcano?

The roots of a volcano reach miles, often many miles below the ground. We cannot measure how deep they go or how wide they spread. But we can measure the height of a volcano as we measure the height of a mountain. In fact, some of our tallest mountains are volcanoes with a fiery past. But their violent history is over and they will never again erupt with a flaming fire. We want an active volcano—and the world's tallest active volcano is found in Ecuador. It is steamy Cotopaxi, 19,344 feet hight, and it erupted as recently as 1942.

Many volcanoes stand on the land and we can measure their height above the level of the sea. But the islands of Hawaii are really volcanoes that stand on the floor of the sea. The ocean floor is almost four miles below the dry land. The smouldering crest of Hawaii's Mauna Loa reaches another 13,600 feet above the water. Measured from its base on the ocean bed, it is the biggest volcano in the world.

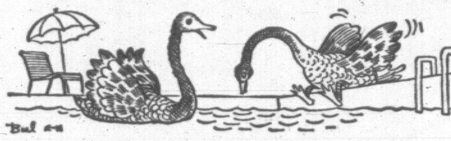
The Wonderful World of Animals



By DR. FRANK MILLER

DEAR DR. MILLER: I read an interesting article about swans and have since seen the black swan advertised for sale. Could a pair of these be kept in our swimming pool when it gets warmer?—G. C.

DEAR G. C.: Perhaps, though swans don't make ideal swimming partners. And even if you were willing to turn the pool over to them completely—and you'd have to—they wouldn't be very happy there. They need considerable privacy, a sloping beach and vegetation, things the modern swimming pool seldom provides.

★ ★ ★

DEAR DR. MILLER: My husband brought home an English setter he got cheap from a friend at work, who said he had a nice disposition, but was a chaser. Rocket is a nice dog, too, but if he's going to always be after the females, do you think it best we have him de-sexed?—E. M.

DEAR E. M.: No, I don't. I seldom approve of neutering a male dog in the first place. And, in the second place, it wouldn't break up Rocket's routine. It's birds, not bitches, he's after. The term "chasing" is a bird dog term.

DEAR DR. MILLER: What can I put on a lump near the last joint of my parakeet's wing? I've just noticed it recently and am wondering if it might be a cyst or something like that?—V. C.

DEAR V. C.: The lump might be a cyst, and, if so, treatment would not be too difficult. Unfortunately in this species, this area is a frequent site of malignant tumors (fibrosarcomas, usually). These may be impossible to cope with satisfactorily. In some cases, amputation of part of the wing is a seemingly drastic, but lifesaving, procedure. Obviously the appropriate treatment must be determined, and as soon as possible, by your local veterinarian.

★ ★ ★

DEAR DR. MILLER: My young mare has had several attacks of nettlerash in the last month. Otherwise she appears okay. What can I do to prevent more of this as she gets pretty edgy with these attacks.—O. R.

DEAR O. R.: This time of year the most common cause of nettlerash (or urticaria) in the horse is some form of indigestion or a food allergy. A single outbreak of horsey hives is generally of little consequence; however, her continued eruptions indicate a continuing problem of a possible serious nature. If you are unable to track down the offender in her rations, better call on the veterinarian.

WILD ANIMALS

Do You Get Mussels When Buying Beach?

By CY FOX

LONDON (CP) — The conviction of two men for stealing $20 worth of mussels from a beach has been quashed and the angling world here is full of speculation about what the new decision might mean.

"This is utterly fascinating," says Secretary Bob Page of the National Federation of Sea Anglers. "It brings up the question of whether anyone can go out to an oyster bed at sea and take the oysters legally and . . . or whether a salmon is a wild animal."

His speculations were set off by the decision last week of three appeal court judges in a case that set them combing through law books reaching back more than 750 years to the Magna Carta.

The men, fined $26 each in 1966 after being convicted of stealing mussels from a Norfolk beach, argued that mussels—tiny marine creatures—were in fact classifiable as wild animals, incapable of being stolen.

A sessions court judge decided, however, that they belonged to a man who had leased rights to the beach's foreshore, which in turn was said to be owned by an estate. The conviction followed.

ON HIGH SEAS

The accused men contended that the mussels were lying on sand below the level of an average low tide—which meant they were "on the high seas" and beyond the court's jurisdiction.

The man with the leased rights, John Loose, was granted under his arrangement "exclusive rights" to the taking of mussels, among other things, on the beach.

In 1962 he placed wire netting on the shore to prevent mussels from being washed away. They are shell-covered creatures, with soft limbless bodies.

The appeal court, confronted with the case, ruled there was no evidence that Loose had "cultivated" the creatures sufficiently "to reduce them into his possession."

The judges declined to rule whether mussels are wild animals, but their opinion was that the creatures figuring in the current case could not be stolen.

A source said to be expert in both angling and the law told a London newspaper that the Magna Carta, a charter of rights granted by the King of England in 1215, prevents the Crown from disposing of foreshores.

Any landowner claiming rights to a foreshore now "must prove that it was given to him before Magna Carta, which takes some doing," said the legally-learned angler.

Woman Stuck Seven Hours In Tree

CALGARY (CP) — A 21-year-old Calgary woman Saturday spent more than seven hours perched on a tree where she was stuck.

The woman told police a gust of wind had blown her scarf into the tree and she climbed after it. She slipped and got pinned between a branch and the tree trunk.

Two constables arrived and one of them climbed after her, slipped, and got stuck as well.

The second policeman set both of them free.

GREATEST HAZARD

Trawlers Fear 'The Black Fog'

By DON MCLEOD

ST. JOHN'S, Nfld. (CP) — Plucky British trawlers, denied fishing rights in the relatively safe southern bays of Iceland by a 12-mile territorial limit, are being forced north into the 24-hour darkness of Arctic winter and the hazards of "the black fog."

Most British fishermen feel this is what sent three trawlers to the bottom near the icecap recently, a trawler skipper from Hull, England, said Wednesday in an interview.

"When I was young, we use to say it was suicide to go north of Iceland," said Captain Edward Woolridge of the big stern dragger Orsino, owned by Associated Fisheries Ltd. of Hull.

He used to fish the southern Icelandic bays for cod and haddock—"There's good, solid fish there"—but Iceland, which sells most of its catch to England, closed these waters six years ago to foreign draggers.

HATEFUL PLACE

"I hate the place," Captain Woolridge said. "I think it is the worst place on earth. God put that bloody place there to pester Englishmen."

The black fog, also called black ice, is really freezing spray similar to that found off Newfoundland's coast in winter, but much worse because of hurricane-force winds that last for days on temperatures 30 to 60 degrees below zero. There is no shelter less than 200 miles away, around the southern coast of Iceland.

"Off Iceland, you can see it coming. The sky turns greenish pink. A black line forms on the horizon and grows into a cloud and the sea goes flat-calm around you. All you can do then is wait for it."

The black fog on the horizon can move across the water in minutes and seldom takes more than an hour to reach a ship.

"Once it's on you, you've got to dodge head-to-wind, dead slow ahead and you start to pick up ice. Practically your bloody breath freezes up there. The more ice you pick up, the more power you have to give her to keep right. The more power you give her, the more spray and ice you make."

The trawler that doesn't get her head into the wind before it reaches the ship is finished, Captain Wooldrige said. He and others aboard the Orsino felt the recent victims were "caught unaware."

Even ships trying to keep straight can go under in black ice. Gear on deck soon becomes a block of ice and the "scupper doors," which let water wash across the deck and off again, soon freeze shut.

"There aren't many men who can say they've been in one of these storms," said Harry Butler, the Orsino's chief wireless operator who had just learned that his son was aboard the Peridot, one of the Hull trawlers to go down recently.

"They told us they were turning over and asked us to take messages to their families," said the radio operator.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The United States is rushing about 10,500 additional army and marine ground combat troops to South Vietnam "for insurance purposes", the defence department announced today.

Assistant Defence Secretary Phil G. Goulding told reporters:

"In compliance with Gen. William C. Westmoreland's request we are deploying approximately 10,500 additional troops to South Vietnam."

Asked what the phrase "insurance purposes" referred to, Goulding said, "the enemy that he faces," meaning North Vietnamese and Viet Cong troops confronting the U.S. command around the marine stronghold of Khe Sanh in northwest South Vietnam and all across the country, racked by a recent Viet Cong offensive against cities.

He said the deployment does not necessarily mean that the United States is increasing the present authorized U.S. strength of 525,000 men.

AWAITS EVALUATION

He indicated that a decision on whether to increase the ceiling awaits a "full evaluation" of recent events in Vietnam.

He also said that no decision has been made on calling up any national guard or reserve ground troops to fill the holes left by the departure of the combat reinforcements of the regular army and marine forces.

He indicated that at least some of the units now being shipped to Vietnam were not in the original package under the planned build-up to 525,000 men by mid-summer.

Earlier Johnson had said that despite the massive Viet Cong offensive, he would halt bombing of North Vietnam, start peace talks tomorrow and let the Communists "write the agenda"—if Hanoi doesn't try a doublecross.

This was Johnson's off-the-cuff reaction Monday when one of 11 college student visitors at the White House argued that campus anti-war demonstrators "are not just the unwashed" but include brilliant young people.

BUT REDS SURROUNDED

N. Viets Repel Marines in Hue

SAIGON (AP) — U.S. and South Vietnamese marines launched a ground assault against strong North Vietnamese forces inside the walled citadel at Hue today, but heavy small-arms, machine-gun and rocket fire drove them back.

The North Vietnamese troops fought from gunpits burrowed deep inside the grimy black stone walls of the inner citadel in the former imperial capital 400 miles northeast of Saigon.

More than 1,000 U.S. marines and South Vietnamese troops were tightening the vise beside the north bank of the Perfume River. On the south bank, in Hue's modern quarter the Americans had regained control, and the population crept out of refugee camps and shell-marked homes to bury the dead in hastily dug graves.

Spokesmen for the combined U.S.-South Vietnamese forces said that the 14 days of fighting in Hue have cost the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong 2,303 dead, about half of them inside the citadel. South Vietnamese casualties were reported moderate, meaning the government force was hard hit. There was no announcement of U.S. casualties.

Hue is the last of 35 South Vietnam cities and towns where Viet Cong or North Vietnamese forces are still fighting as organized units two weeks after the start of their biggest offensive of the war. It has cost them, by government count, 32,245 men killed, or more than half of the 60,000 troops U.S. officers believe they committed to the offensive.

ALLIED JET DOWNED

Military spokesmen said the North Vietnamese Monday shot down a South Vietnamese Air Force A-1 Skyrider bombing and strafing the citadel.

Gap Narrow On Viet —Wilson

LONDON (UPI) — Prime Minister Harold Wilson told the House of Commons today that only "a very narrow gap" remains to be bridged between the United States and North Vietnam to get peace talks started.

He noted that he had just conferred with Thant over lunch and said:

"There is a very narrow gap to be bridged now — very narrow indeed."

He said this slowly and with great emphasis.

Thant arrived Monday from Moscow where he discussed Vietnam with the three top Soviet leaders: Communist Party Chief Leonid Brezhnev. Premier Alexei Kosygin and President Nikolai Podgorny.

Ultimatum to North Proposed by S. Korea

SEOUL (AP) — President Chung Hee Park is asking the U.S. government to tell North Korea it will denounce the 1953 armistice agreement if the North Koreans send down any more raiders like the team that tried to assassinate Park, informed sources reported today.

Park in his talks with Cyrus Vance, a special envoy from President Johnson, was also reported trying to get the United States to demand that North Korea apologize for the assassination attempt Jan. 21.

Vance had been scheduled to return to Washington today but delayed his departure until Wednesday.

Vance and Park met for three hours Monday, and Vance met with other South Korean officials today in the office of Premier Chung Il-kwon.

One informed Korean source said "very little progress" seemed to have been made toward healing the rift arising from South Korean feelings that the United States, in its desire to secure the release of the USS Pueblo and its crew, is not paying sufficient attention to South Korean security.

Peace Talks Hopes Rise As Thant Flies to Paris

LONDON (UPI) — UN Secretary General Than today postponed his return to New York, to fly to Paris Wednesday, reportedly to talk to North Vietnamese or Viet Cong officials on his peace probe.

Prime Minister Harold Wilson said the gap between U.S. and North Vietnamese positions was "very narrow" but "difficult."

It was not known immediately if he had requested a conference with President Charles de Gaulle or Vietnamese Communists in what will be the fourth nation of his global peace journey.

The diplomat's luggage already was on the New York-bound airliner when an order came to return it to his hotel.

The sudden move by the UN secretary general prompted a flurry of speculation in diplomatic quarters that some progress had been made to bring the warring sides together.

New Labor Peace Plan Urged in B.C. Report

Spending Bad Advice, CLC Told

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Pearson told a Canadian Labor Congress delegation today that its proposals for government stimulation of the economy are "the wrong kind of advice" in the current financial situation.

He also rejected the accusation in a CLC brief to the cabinet that federal policies of recent months appear designed to satisfy the "rich and powerful" at the cost of higher unemployment.

Mr. Pearson and Donald MacDonald, acting president of the 1,500,000-member labor body, staged what amounted to an economic debate during the CLC's annual presentation to the government.

The CLC said tax increases and cutbacks in federal programs are slowing down the economy at a time when it required the stimulus of more spending by consumers and governments.

The prime minister in his reply said it would be wrong to stimulate an economy that is operating close to full capacity. This would lead to larger deficits, higher taxes and higher costs.

Mr. MacDonald said unemployment last year was the highest since 1964 because of an economic slowdown.

"I have not read an economist in recent months who has not agreed that unemployment will soar in 1968," he added. It probably would reach five per cent or more.

Mr. Pearson said the problem now is to maintain steady, sustainable growth and check inflation. Unless the rise in prices was halted, Canada's competitive position in the world could be destroyed. This could lead to a serious recession with much unemployment.

ECONOMY ON TRIAL

Finance Minister Sharp, one of 16 cabinet members on hand for the CLC presentation, warned that the Canadian economy and the Canadian dollar now are "on trial" in the world market.

The economy had to maintain a good performance, with higher productivity, in the face of a "difficult and dangerous" world economic situation.

Mr. Sharp said growth cannot be achieved by fiscal and monetary policy alone. Some "supplementary action" was essential.

Although the government rejected the idea of wage guidelines, he said it was anxious to discuss an "incomes policy" with the CLC and other organizations.

The CLC brief, read in summary by Mr. MacDonald

Nemetz Drafts Swedish Ideas

By BRUCE YEMEN

Mr. Justice Nathan Nemetz today offered a five-part prescription for British Columbia labor ills but warned it is no cure-all.

Reporting on his study of Swedish labor laws and practices, he hoped for the day when "it is possible for labor and management to institute central bargaining in British Columbia and take into account not only the welfare of the parties but the economy as a whole".

The report was released by Labour Minister Peterson who last year commissioned the B.C. Supreme Court justice to study the Swedish system.

The jurist spent a month in Sweden.

He recommended these major proposals for labor peace in the private sector:

- Strengthen the existing provincial labor-management committee and vastly increase labor-management links at all levels;
- Create an independent research institute to provide economic statistics and eliminate arguments over measurable facts;
- Improve the machinery for settling disputes arising out of interpretation of collective agreements—as a first step toward a labor court and a body of public labor law;
- Recruit a special group of high-talent, highly-paid mediators to eliminate the present ad hoc conciliation boards and head off disputes at an early stage;
- Appoint a high-calibre, permanent industrial inquiry commission separate from the Labor Relations Board and equip it with the staff needed to supervise the high-powered mediation service.

In the public sector, Mr. Justice Nemetz recommended that present machinery for settling disputes directly affecting the public interest should continue with increased emphasis on finding highly qualified and experienced chairmen for the conciliation boards with binding powers.

New Labor Laws Promised

A panel of prospective chairmen could be created to provide an immediate alternative if the parties fail to agree on a nominee, he said. The industrial inquiry commission could appoint such chairmen.

Labor Minister Peterson on Feb. 1 promised the legislature sweeping new legislation to inject the public interest as a third party in labor-management disputes in an effort to control inflation.

In his report Mr. Justice Nemetz said he was adapting several ideas from the highly regarded Swedish system but he prefaced his proposals by "regretfully" offering the view that labor peace in Sweden is a product of a distinctive social climate and not the result of dispute-settling machinery.

He said the machinery reflected the social climate—a climate with no parallels in North American in general and B.C. in particular.

"Obviously, such a system cannot readily be transposed to a foreign soil," he said.

A labor-management "detente" is needed before enduring industrial peace can be expected here, he said, pointing out that such a detente was reached 30 years ago in Sweden.

Quick Solution Ruled Out

"The goal of attaining industrial peace cannot be achieved overnight," he said. "Many steps will have to be taken by government, many links created between management and labor before a climate of mutual respect and confidence can be created."

He said he had indicated only a few of the necessary steps and links.

Mr. Justice Nemetz said Canada finds itself between the extremes of Sweden's non-intervention and Australia's compulsion in settling labor disputes.

He said there is room for "an effective middle way," providing labor and management showed willingness to make the system work.

"The existing joint committee of labor and management leaders should carry on year-round discussions concerning matters of mutual interest, such as automation, job evaluation, full economic use of plant and equipment.

"These subjects are best discussed in an unhurried atmosphere and not at the time of negotiating the collective agreement.

"The committee should sponsor the creation of joint councils at regional and plant levels where discussion could take place concerning production

HOT RUNNERS BRING THREAT OF WALKOUT

VILLARD DE LANS, France (UPI)—The United States and five other nations threatened today to walk out of Olympics luge competition unless East Germany is barred from the event.

The bitter dispute erupted after the three top East German women in the event — including defending champion Ortrun Enderlein — were disqualified for illegally heating the runners of their sleds.

FIRST MEDAL for Canada at Winter Olympic Games in France was earned today by Rossland skier Nancy Greene, who collected silver medal in slalom event after being barely edged for first place by France's Marielle Goitschel. See story on Page 10.

Report Studied By Labor Chief

Labor Minister Leslie Peterson today said the Nemetz Report is very interesting but he refused to say whether it will influence government legislation.

He told reporters Mr. Justice Nemetz's recommendations "are of interest to me" although he stressed the Swedish system of labor relations could not be transplanted.

"Nevertheless, his recommendations are significant and will be considered carefully."

Mr. Peterson declined to say when the promised legislation on revamping the province's industrial relations law will be introduced and he insisted that its preparation began before the Nemetz Report was received.

Judge Nemetz was sent to Sweden, Geneva and California last summer by the labor department to conduct a survey of the Swedish labor system. Mr. Peterson said he has not discussed the matter with Judge Nemetz since his return and received the report only a few days ago.

Mister Bennett's financin' fer municipalities is like th' Bible text: Th' Lord giveth an' th' Lord taketh away.

• QUESTIONS, NO ANSWERS •

Medicare! What's That?

The big question in British Columbia government circles today is "What is medicare?"

Everyone knows Premier Bennett has said this province would join in a federal medicare plan July 1.

And everyone knows that Prime Minister Pearson has stated the federal medicare plan will go ahead on that date.

But try to find anyone under the premier in government to explain what medicare will mean to a B.C. resident. You don't get evasion. You get a straight "I don't know."

As of July will any B.C. resident be able to go to any doctor for treatment without fee? Will he pay a form of co-insurance?

Will government decree set the scale of payments the government will pay to doctors? Will special taxes be introduced to cover the cost?

GUIDELINES

We know the original federal government guidelines as laid down by Prime Minister Pearson and Health Minister MacEachen:

The federal government would pay half the national average per capita cost to qualified provincial plans. To qualify the province must meet four conditions.

Benefits must be portable from province to province. (That's already scuttled because only Saskatchewan and B.C. at this time have indicated they will join.)

Each provincial plan must at least insure the cost of all physicians' services.

A provincial plan must cover 90 per cent of the province's population at the start, rising to 95 per cent in three years.

And the plan must be operated by a non-profit agency of the provincial government whose books are open to public audit.

NO PREMIUMS

Prime Minister Pearson has indicated there would be no premiums, the plan must be paid for.

Premier Bennett muddied the waters last Jan. 16 when he said it's a possibility that the medicare plan would not put existing private medical schemes (such as MSA and CU and C) out of business.

N.S. Hovers On the Brink Of 'Fedicare'

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

At least one province will review its stand on medical care insurance in light of Prime Minister Pearson's announcement Monday night that the federal government will go ahead with its program as scheduled July 1.

Health Minister R. A. Donahoe of Nova Scotia said his province has made no final decision on medical care insurance but the plan would be costly if only one or two provinces participated.

In Ontario, the provincial government stand was unchanged. Premier John Robarts said, "I have made my position very clear . . . and it won't in any way be changed by this decision."

The Ontario premier said last month that Ontario will not participate in the scheme for at least a year after its implementation this July.

SASK. IS HAPPY

In Saskatchewan, Deputy Premier D. G. Steuart described the decision as a "good thing."

"It will be a great help to Saskatchewan's budget," said Mr. Steuart, also provincial treasurer, in an interview.

He estimated the province would net approximately $10,000,000 in federal payments.

Saskatchewan will have to make certain housekeeping adjustments in its own six-year-old medical care plan, said Mr. Steuart, but these would all be of a minor nature.

The deputy premier predicted British Columbia and possibly New Brunswick would join Saskatchewan in adopting "fedicare," as all provinces eventually would.

Opposition Leader Woodrow Lloyd said he was happy the

Gaglardi to Explain All, Says Bennett, After Talk

By JOHN MIKA
Legislative Reporter

The controversy surrounding Highways Minister Gaglardi's handling of highway access applications is expected to escalate into a verbal slugging match in the legislature this week.

Mr. Gaglardi, after a 15-minute private meeting in Premier Bennett's office Monday, said he will answer allegations of improper conduct Thursday during a speech in the budget debate.

The whole province will be watching the minister of highways when he speaks in the House on Thursday," Mr. Bennett added.

Asked if the government would launch an official inquiry into the controversy, Mr. Bennett said "if anyone makes a charge."

He denied that he summoned Mr. Gaglardi to his office for explanations of how a highways foreman came to paint an advertising sign for a company involved in the controversy.

"I've never had any of my ministers on the carpet," he said.

Mr. Gaglardi told reporters that he expects opposition MLAs to try to keep the controversy going by making further charges.

MORE EXAMPLES

Alex Macdonald (NDP—Vancouver East), who raised the issue in the legislature last week when he accused the highways' department of mismanagement, said earlier that he will cite more examples to back is contention.

His original statement suggested favoritism was shown Del Cielo Investments which bought 300 acres adjoining the Merritt-Kamloops highway junction from an estate in which Mr. Gaglardi was executor.

He said the company was given access approval by the department after it had begun working the property. He also quoted a report that Mr. Gaglardi's 24-year-old son Bill was an official of the company but this was denied later by the minister.

Premier Bennett's interest in the situation became apparent when he had lunch Monday with Municipal Affairs Minister Dan Campbell followed by his meeting

Blues Follow Green Men Red Alert

Memo to Victoria's vigilant space watchers:

Curses, we've been had again!

Those strange lights in the night sky over the University of Victoria Sunday?

Our intelligence source had discovered they were the work of some pranksters in a Uvic men's residence.

It's the same old formula which got us worked up about a year ago. You know, crossed wooden slats with candles mounted on them, filling a plastic bag with hot air and sending the whole business floating aloft.

Never mind! Keep watching! One of these days we'll spot the real thing. And when those little green men arrive, let's hope thay take over the university first!

Power Saws On Beaches Restricted

Power saw-using beachcombers will be banned from Victoria beaches after 6 p.m. each day if city council approves a recommendation from its public works committee.

The decision was made this morning after the committee heard a complaint from Mrs. Herbert Morris, 1605 Hollywood Place, that people cutting logs late at night are a nuisance.

"I am reluctant to do things like this, but I think we are justified in taking steps like this to protect the peace and tranquility of others," the mayor said. "Possibly we could ban the use of power saws after dark and also on Sundays."

'THAT'S A RIGHT'

Ald. Stewart sharply disagreed.

"I don't want to be part of any legislation which prevents a man from engaging in activity on a public beach," he said. "Personally I like to see some activity when I visit the beach." As for sawing up logs, that's a right each one of us has."

"But isn't it true that your rights are governed by the rights of others?" asked the mayor.

Ald. Stewart agreed but insisted that a total ban on power saws throughout Sunday was unreasonable.

"What are we going to do about power mowers or Sunday sightseeing cars zooming by the house all day?"

The committee settled for a compromise dropping thoughts of a Sunday ban but calling for the seven-days-a-week ban between 6 p.m. and 8 a.m.

Stolen Cheques Recovered In Safe-Cracking

Still missing is $2,280 in bills.

Cheques in the amount of $1,808 and $40 of the $190.50 stolen change were found on the parking lot of the Red Lion Motor Inn, two blocks away three hours after the theft was discovered.

Saanich police are continuing their investigation.

Goose-Bumped Butterfly Survives Freeze

By ALAN WHITE

Mrs. Margaret Walters of 908 Alexander opened her fridge and found a jar she had forgotten about.

In the jar was a butterly her children had put into cold storage in an experiment last September.

Hardly a novelty, since probably every household has children who store such things away at one stage or another . . . but this time the butterfy started to move.

It was sitting with its wings tucked straight up over its body when taken out in the warmth of the kitchen. And when the heat got to it, the wings started to flutter lightly.

Mrs Walters was amazed, and her children enthralled by the fact that each time they took the butterly out of the fridge it recovered, and started to move around.

EXPERIMENT

"It was and experiment with the kiddies to see if it would stay alive . . . to see if it would hibernate," Mrs. Walters said.

And hibernate it did, for five months.

But luck was on the side of experiment in this case. For according to Dr. Richard Ring, an entomologist at the University of Victoria, their specimen was one of the few species that lives over the winter in Victoria.

Described as "dark brown, with a pale creamy borde.' by the Walters' and as "purple with yellow edges" by Dr. Ring, the butterly is known to scientists as Nymphalis antiopa.

Better known to laymen as the Mourning Cloak, the specimen survives the winter by hibernating in any crevice it can find until warm weather brings it out of its sleep.

Dr. Ring explained that the Mourning Cloak builds up a form of anti-freeze in its blood to help it through the cold.

How long will it survive?

"It will lay its eggs and probably die this year," Dr. Ring said.

He added that the Mourning Cloak, although common to Victoria, is a rare and prized addition to collections in England.

Gibson's Grenadiers Set to March on B.C.

Gordon Gibson, who retired as a B.C. Liberal MLA two years ago and now is a member of the Northwest Territories Council, sent the premier a telegram laced with humor as well as anger.

It slapped at Mr. Bennett's resumption of talks in Ottawa urging that the B.C. government be given jurisdiction over the Mackenzie River district of the territory.

"Concerning your proposed B.C. takeover of North West Territories, history shows that the north has always marched south," Mr. Gibson wired from Yellowknife.

"Having watched you waste 12 of my years in the B.C. legislature and after only one year of watching progress in the NWT legislature, I am convinced that the north can give B.C. far better government than you can.

"During our centennial year in 1970, we will be ready to take over B.C."

Mr. Gibson, a millionaire logger, never lost his homespun quality and became known as one of the most colorful MLAs in memory.

He frequently jousted verbally with Premier Bennett in the House, to their mutual delight, but he also gained fame as the man whose "money talks" speech eventually led to imprisonment for the then B.C. forests minister Robert Sommers as the only cabinet minister in the Commonwealth's history to be jailed in a bribery case.

Labor to Join PTA Protest On Cutbacks

Parents by Busload Arrive Wednesday

At least four bus-loads of concerned parents will roll up to the Legislative Buildings Wednesday morning to protest person-to-person with MLAs over education issues.

They will be joined by two carloads of protesters from Duncan and about 50 local people.

The St. Valentine's confrontation is a province-wide effort of the B.C. Parent - Teacher Federation which will be supported by representatives from the labor movement.

The PTA groups want to make the following points:

- Opposition to the current government cutback in school construction funds.
- Support for sex education on the school curriculum.
- The teaching of French in elementary schools.
- Larger grants for day-care nurseries.
- Improvement in mental health and welfare fields.

SWING SHIFTS

Thirty-five Coquitlam mothers are among three busloads of PTA members coming from the lower mainland. In Coquitlam the construction freeze is keeping hundreds of secondary school children on swing shifts.

With local and Duncan area representatives the delegation is expected to reach close to 250.

Drug Probe Spotlights Professors' Influence

DOCTOR MUST BE PATIENT ON TREE WOES

"I haven't been to a meeting yet that we haven't talked about tree roots," he complained Monday night during a meeting of B committee.

The committee had been discussing ways of solving a resident's problem with tree roots breaking through drainage pipes.

"It seems a wasteful way to spend council's time, talking about three roots, laying new sewers connections and removing trees."

"Does this go on all the time?" Coun. Wallace asked.

"Yes, it's quite a problem," replied municipal engineer G. O. White.

ROOM FOR MORE

30 Teams Enter Rugged Race

Cross-country racing fever is spreading.

Duncan school boys are showing interest in a 4½-mile European-style cross-country race and may send teams to participate in the event to be held in Central Saanich Saturday, Feb. 24.

Entries to date stand at 30 teams of eight—240 students-representing various schools in the capital region, according to Basil Parker, 58-year-old Glenlyon school teacher, organizer of the event.

THREE CLASSES

The race to start from Centennial Park, Wallace Drive, at 2:30 p.m. will end at the Saanichton fair grounds. There will be three classes—under 18, under 16 and under 14 years.

Closing date for entries is Feb. 21.

Mr. Parker said entries would be higher if students in some schools were enncourage to race.

S. J. Willis, Central, Colquitz, Lansdowne and Esquimalt High Schools are not entering any teams," he said. "It seems that some coaches haven't the time to organize them."

Replies from other schools, including Victoria High, had not yet been received, he said.

"Otherwise the response is excellent," he said. "Royal Roads has promised to enter some runners. St. Louis College and all other private schools will be represented."

Mr. Parker said a piper will be on hand to "pipe" the runners across the finishing line.

THE SIGN MEANS exactly what it says. Butt that cigarette and turn off your motor while gassing up. The first signs warning motorists that the Victoria fire department will be enforcing fire prevention bylaws this year are already in place. Before the month ends all service stations will be displaying similar signs of facing stiff penalties for defying a bylaw long on the books but never enforced. Service station attendant Joe Michaux got his warning notice up early and reports only co-operation from motorists. Fire Chief Eric Simmons says warning notices are only the start of what he intends to be a severe crackdown on the causes of fire. (Times photo.)

Hard Look By MLAs At Trippers

The government will ask a committee of MLAs to find out how many youths take a "trip" with halucogenic drugs and how to bring them back to the straight and narrow path.

He outlined these as the aims of notice of motion he filed this morning that on Wednesday he will move the standing committee on social welfare and education look into the LSD and marijuana problem.

The committee, under chairman John Tisdalle (SC-Saanich and The Islands), will be asked to "survey the extent to which marijuana, LSD and other lysergic drugs are available to our young people, study the cause and effect of such drugs and report their observations and opinions."

"THOROUGH"

A rider to the motion indicates that the government wants a thorough investigation.

It adds "that the chairman draw to the attention of any witness his right to claim the protection of the Evidence Act of the province and of Canada."

Protection of the Evidence Acts would allow witnesses to give evidence without fear of prosecution in court over their own involvement in the events described.

Mr. Peterson told reporters the rider is an unusual condition in a legislative committee's terms of reference and shows the government really wants to discover the heart of the problem.

He said the study does not imply the government is disappointed in its own legislation passed last session as the Proscribed Substances Act under which fines of up to $2,000 and six months in jail were provided for anyone convicted of possessing LSD or marijuana.

"More important than the legal consequences are the health and moral consequences," he said.

"There may be additional things we can do, in respect to educational programs.

'OTHER STEPS'

"Or (there may be) other steps that we can take to meet faulty leadership by the professors in some of the institutions in our province"

Mr. Peterson acknowledged that the committee's functions are viewed as partly research

CAUSEWAY ACTION

Clear-Out Order Faces Hucksters

Victoria city council will be asked to strike a special committee to find ways to clear the Causeway of hucksters.

Ald. Clyde Savage, chairman of the parks and beautification committee, called for the special study this morning after stating city tour promoters should not be permitted to clutter two "of the most beautiful blocks in the city."

"These people have a right to do business, but they should not be located in that area," Ald. Savage said. "I would like to see them out of there and the entire wall along the Causeway made into a long bank of flowers with a flower stall in the centre where people could purchase flowers."

City manager Dennis Young agreed that bus and boat tour promoters were a cause for complaint, but he added that many things needed to be taken into consideration when reviewing the future of the Causeway.

"The press, unfortunately, had been very misleading on what we are planning." he said. "Stories and pictures have been published which indicate that we are just going to tear down trees and rip out a section of the Empress lawn just to widen the street.

"The fact is that when we lay the new sewer line the full length of the pavement in front of the Empress, we shall, in conjunction with the Empress, also widen the road."

Mr. Young said the narrow strip of lawn being taken for the road widening tied in with Empress plans to re-locate the driveways leading to the hotel.

"Even if we were not putting the sewer line down, the Empress would be taking out part of its lawn and some of the trees to make way for their driveway program," he said.

ONLY TWO TREES

"As for the part of the lawn required by the city, only two trees are involved and one of them is nearly dead."

In the meantime the special commitee will wrestle with the problem of where to locate buses and tour promoters to enable them to carry on their business without disrupting Causeway traffic.

"It should be remembered that it will take at least a year to re-locate these people," Mr. Young said. "They plan for the tourist season a year ahead and it would be unreasonable to ask

Thief Asks Aid To Start Car He Was Stealing

A youth stealing a car Monday night stopped a passing motorist and asked for a push to get the car started, central court was told today.

The citizen obliged, and Laverne Guitterez, 1214 Fairfield, pleaded guilty in central court today to car theft.

Police said Guitterez stole the car from the 600 block Vancouver St. about 8:30 p.m. Police stopped the car on Fairfield at 11:40, but two occupants fled on foot.

Guitterez was arrested by police early today.

$10 Fines Levied For Entering Store

Two youths were fined $10 each in central court today for entering a government liquor store.

Andrew Webster, 20, of 2528 Rose, was observed in the Government Street liquor store Jan. 19. Thomas Rumble, 18, of HMCS Yukon, was observed in the same store Jan. 20.

POOR VALENTINUS!

He Blew His Cool, Lost His Head

By PETE LOUDON

Many teachers will be pleased to know they cut the head off the first swain to ever send a valentine.

Some teachers like Valentine's Day. They get a stack of nice cards and it makes them feel loved.

Some get nice cards but let themselves become involved in the tragic task of steering some of the Valentine mail to the little girl with the garlic sandwiches.

They're the ones who go along without the beheading.

It was back in the third century AD when a young Roman, Valentinus was thrown in the pokey for giving aid to the Christian martyrs.

The story, widely circulated by card manufacturers, relates that Valentinius befriended the jailer's blind daughter. Her sight returned and he got the credit.

But he still got the axe. And before he went he penned a farewell note to the girl, signing it "from your Valentine."

Men and boys have been getting into trouble for repeating those lines ever since.

They'll be at it again Wednesday—standing at the card counters downtown, wading through the goo and trying not to get any of it on them.

Pretty frillies, chocolates and little blue boxes from Birks are expected nowadays and woe to the poor fool who forgets.

Ask The Times

Q. Efrem Zimbalist the violinist — any relation to Efrem Zimbalist the Hollywood actor; what country is the musician from? L. A.

A. Efrem Zimbalist the Violinist is the father of the actor by the same name who properly takes the form Junior after his name. Born in Russia and trained as a musician in St. Petersburg (now Leningrad) Zimbalist Sr. is still living in the United States according to Grove's dictionary of music.

Q. Is there a place in Victoria where a young adult with little training can take lessons in "modern ballet" on an informal basis? T. W.

A. Yes. The Victoria School of Theatrical Arts offers such training from the beginner's stage.

GRAIN

WINNIPEG (CP) — Flax was the dominant commodity on the Winnipeg Grain Exchange today as it showed rallying tendencies in late trading.

Contributing to the interest in flax were the steady prices of linseed oil in Europe and a board of grain commissioners' report which showed a sharp 200,000-bushel decline in Canadian flax supplies. Hedging sales in both flax and rapeseed were light.

Rapeseed prices moved in a narrow range while feed grain prices were firm in light trade. Rye prices received some stimulation from a sale of 1,000 tons to the United Kingdom and reports that other inquiries were being made.

Lakehead prices for Class Two, IWA and domestic wheat were all unchanged.

CHICAGO (AP) — Soybeans and grain futures prices closed on an irregular tone on the Board of Trade today.

Trade was fairly light and mixed but mostly of a local nature.

Wheat futures opened on a mostly higher tone but after prices had advanced about ⅝ cent, there was a quick selloff.

Active hedge selling in corn tended to weaken prices on the opening but strength appeared in the deferred contracts.

Sales, Earnings Dip

The company said in a preliminary report that earnings dropped to $38,500,000 in 1967 from the $49,183,000 recorded in 1966. Share earnings fell to $2.31 from $2.95.

Sales dipped to $217,000,000 from $224,566,000.

Shipments Increase

VANCOUVER (CP) — Waterborne shipments of B.C. lumber in 1967 were 12.5 per cent higher than in 1966. The year's total shipments were in excess of 2,500,000,000 board feet.

Amalgamation Plan Proposed For Royalite

CALGARY — Royalite Oil Company Ltd., which is 97.6 per cent owned by British American Oil Company Ltd., may soon be amalgamated with a wholly-owned BA subsidiary, British American Oil Holdings Ltd.

Under the amalgamation agreement, Royalite shareholders, other than BA, would receive for each Royalite common share one 7 per cent cumulative redeemable preferred share of the new amalgamated company having a par value of $25.25 (Canadian) per share. These would be redeemed by year end, giving BA all the issued capital stock of the new company.

The emerging company would continue to be known and operate as Royalite Oil Company Ltd.

In an announcement here following a meeting of the Royalite board of directors, J. L. Valens, president, stated that a letter has been sent to shareholders advising that the company's directors have recommended to shareholders that the agreement for amalgamation be ratified. The shareholders' meeting to consider this proposal is set for Feb. 26 in Calgary.

MARKET SUMMARIES

Sharp Drop on Wall St.

Resuming trading after a long weekend due to Lincoln's birthday Wall Street suffered another sharp loss in active trading today. Industrials dropped more than eight points.

AT TORONTO, among base metals, Denison advanced 1½ to 64, Preston 1⅜ to 17¼ and Rio Algom ⅞ to 29½.

In western oils, Scurry-Rainbok dropped 2⅞ to 36⅝ and Dome Pete 1¼ to 49¾. Jefferson Lake gained 1⅜ to 41⅝ and Chieftain Development 85 cents to 7.45.

AT NEW YORK Benguet, the Phillippine gold mine, was by far the most active stock and held a 1-point gain.

Among other active issues, Allis-Chalmers and Howmet were off about 2 while losses exceeding a point were taken by General Time, Standard Oil New Jersey, McDonnell Douglas and Control Data.

Phelps Dodge, IBM, Raytheon and Alcoa held late gains of a point or so.

AT MONTREAL several issues made notable price swings.

Denison Mines, a heavy loser in recent weeks reversed its pattern by climbing 2½ points to 64½ and Oshawa A 1⅝ to 31⅝ on a turnover of 2,614 and 510 shares, respectively.

Senior mines and oils were fractionally higher as Falconbridge Nickel rose ¾ to 96¾, Home Oil A ½ to 20¾ and Husky Oil ¼ to 19½. Central-Del Rio and Shell Oil edged up ⅛ to 17⅝ and 29⅛.

AT LONDON a generally cheerful tone prevailed on the stock market today although some leading industrials gave up a little of their early gains. Gilts were firm and renewed buying resulted in gains of up to ¼.

U.S. dollar stocks were steady but Canadians were easier with International Nickel down 1½ points, West Coast Transmission off 2½ and Consolidated Paper, Hiram Walker and Trans-Canada Pipe Lines each off a point or more.

Canadian banks also dipped and Toronto and Dominion lost 10 shillings and Bank of Nova Scotia four.

The Bank of B.C. put on .50 at $23.50 on trades of only 270 shares.

Arctic, Bethlehem, Dynasty, South Seas and Utica all posted losses in the mines with gains going to Brenda, Churchill, Consolidated, Rexspar, Interprovincial Metals, Lytton and Magnum making gains.

Cominco lost .75 at $23.87; First National Mortgage was off .10 at $4.60. Industrial Acceptance lost .50 at $19 and Weston "A" was off .37 at $14 Trans Mountain gained .37 at $15.62.

CANADIAN INDUSTRY

Expansion Rate Slowed Last Year

OTTAWA (CP) — The rate of expansion in almost every field of industrial production slowed down in 1967, the Dominion Bureau of Statistics reported Monday.

The DBS index of industrial production showed an increase of 2.7 per cent during 1967, compared with an anual growth rate of 5.7 per cent from 1946 to 1966.

Mining production increased 6.3 per cent, compared with an annual rise of 8.9 per cent through 1964-66. Manufacturing climbed 1.1 per cent, against a 20-year average of 4.9 per cent, and electric power and gas utilities showed an increase of 10.4 per cent, compared with a 1946-66 anual growth rate of 9.6 per cent.

The DBS index climbed to 291.7 last December from 289.2 the previous month.

SPARKS ADVANCE

Motor vehicle production ran 13 per cent ahead of November to spark the advance in the durable goods section. Production of parts and accessories also was higher.

But there was an 8 per cent decline in the non-durable goods section of manufacturing.

One reason was a drop in production of synthetic textiles and silks after an unusually high November level. Another was a fall-off in pulp and paper production because of newspaper strikes in the United States.

Petroleum and natural gas production contributed to a higher level for the mining sector as compared with November. Potash production also contributed to the 3.1 per cent increase in this sector, as one mine that had been closed through most of November through mechanical difficultes came back into stride.

Coal production was 10 per cent lower.

U.S. STRIKE HURTS CANADA

BRAMPTON (CP) — Almost 12,000 men have been laid off and the American Motors plant here has been closed for an indefinite period because of strikes in supplier plants in the United States.

Earl K. Brownridge, president of American Motors Canada Ltd., and Jim Peters, president of American Motors Canada Ltd., and Jim Peters, president of United Auto Workers Local 1285 here, said the layoff, which began after the final shift Friday, was the result of a parts shortage.

Shareholders Approve Labatt Issue

LONDON, Ont. (CP) — Shareholders of John Labatt Ltd. Monday approved a new issue of 4,000,000 convertible preferred shares of $18 par each to be used in the acquisition of the common shares of the Ogilvie Flour Mills Co. Ltd. of Montreal.

Labatt last month offered to acquire all outstanding common shares of Ogilvie on the basis of one new preferred share plus $2.10 cash for each Ogilvie share.

Value of the offer, if all Ogilvie's 3,073,753 outstanding common shares are acquired, will be about $61,780,000.

The offer is open until Feb. 26 but it is not binding on Labatt unless at least 60 per cent of the Ogilvie stock is tendered.

Ogilvie shares traded at $19.75 on the Toronto Stock Exchange Monday. Labatt president John H. W. Moore told Monday's meeting that Ogilvie's cereals, baking, chemical and dairy interests would integrate well with Labatt's development efforts.

Investors Start New Fund For W. Canada

WINNIPEG (CP) — Formation of a new mutual fund company called Provident Stock Fund Ltd. was announced last week by the Investors Group.

C. E. Atchison, investors Group president, said in a press release shares of the new fund will be distributed in the four western provinces by Western Savings and Loan Association, a subsidiary of the Investors Group.

Shareholder's investments will be channelled primarily into quality Canadian common stocks with the initial share price set at $5.43.

"It is an open-end fund and thus there is no limit to the number of shares Canadian investors may purchase."

Shares can be purchased through a lump-sum investment, with a minimum set at $1,000, or through a purchase plan with a minimum monthly payment of $15 over a 10-year period.

Investments will be managed by the Investors Group which now manages assets in excess of $1,400,000,000 including $915,000,000 in mutual fund assets.

Income Tax Tips

By P. J. KELLY

Dept. of National Revenue

Q. I belong to a labor union and pay $200 in union dues each year. Can I claim these as well as the standard deduction of $100?

A. Yes, there is nothing to prevent you from claiming the $200 you paid in union dues and the standard deduction of $100 as well. You should have received a receipt for the allowable part of the union dues and this should be attached to your return.

Q. Is it true that I may give my son, who is farming with me, farm property to the value of $10,000 without attracting gift tax?

A. This is true in certain circumstances. There are many points to be considered in this regard and it may be wise to seek professional advice or submit the details to your taxation office.
